KNOCKOUT BLOW BARELY MISSES TVA IN HOUSE

Agency Is Saved by 21 Vote Count.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—By a narrow 21 vote margin the Tennessee Valley authority, outstanding socialistic experiment of the New Deal, was saved in the house today from legislation which would have forced the entire half billion dollar program to a standstill on next July 1. It was salvaged by a vote of 153 to 132.

Representative May.

Democratic leaders were caught unaware by an outburst of hostile criticism of the TVA, which was led by Representative Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], chairman of the military affairs committee. Speaker William B. Bankhead of Alabama was forced to take the floor to stem the tide of sentiment against the agency. A hurry call went out for loyal administration congressmen, and enough votes were mustered to save the day for the authority.

Storm Breaks Calm.

The one billion 100 million dollar appropriation bill to run 33 agencies and bureaus of the government was under consideration. The chamber was comparatively quiet. Then the question of approving an appropriation of $40,000,000 to operate the TVA in the coming fiscal year, beginning July 1, was put before the members. The storm broke.

Representative May proposed an amendment of innocent appearance. It provided that no portion of the $40,000,000 fund should be available to the agency until congress should pass legislation requiring the directors of the TVA to submit proposed expenditures to the scrutiny of the controler general. The TVA is the only government agency which enjoys freedom from this supervision by the controler general. It spends the money first, then submits an audit of its expenditures.

Demands Spending Curb.

"It is time," May told the house, "to put a curb upon this agency which doesn't care how much it spends or how it spends it. The TVA is run by a bunch of gentlemen who have shown their determination to spend all the money in sight. They have spent $270,000,000 already and they are now to be given an additional $40,000,000.

"The program calls for an entire expenditure of $535,000,000. But their plans do not stop there. Testimony before my committee has been to the effect that they have 100 additional sites for more dams in mind and a 100 year program contemplated.

"This amendment merely puts the same limitation upon TVA expenditures that is enforced upon other government departments. They've got a shortage of $15,000,000 right now."

Republican support was immediately offered the amendment. Representative Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.] asserted that fairness to the taxpayer demanded supervision of TVA spending.

Seeks to Eliminate Dam.

Dirksen previously had proposed slashing the TVA appropriation by $1,000,000 in order to prevent the beginning of construction of another new dam, the Coulter Shoals dam, on the Tennessee river near Lenoir City, Tenn. He declared the worthiness of this dam had not yet been ascertained and its beginning would obligate the government to spend a total of $28,500,000. Dirksen's amendment was defeated by only three votes, 112 to 109.

Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.] also argued for the May amendment.

"I have been against the TVA program from the start," he declared. "But it is now evident that we can't throw to the winds the hundreds of millions already spent. We've got to finish up what we started. It is cer-

THROWING BACK A BIG ONE

Cold to Let Up Slightly Today After –14 Low

Some relief today from the cold wave which moved into Chicago and the suburbs Wednesday night from northwestern Canada was predicted last night by Forecaster C. A. Donnel.

The temperature was expected to rise by morning and climb to zero or above during the day. Some snow flurries are probable.

Yesterday's minimum temperature, the lowest officially recorded since February, 1936, was 14.2 degrees below zero at 8:15 a. m. By 11 a. m. the mercury had crept up to 10 below, and at 1 p. m. to —9. The temperature at 9 p. m. was —10, with a minimum of about —15 expected during the night.

City's Record Low Is —23.

Chicago's all-time official low, according to the records, was 23 below zero in December, 1872. The lowest temperature recorded for any Jan. 18 was in 1930 when the mercury touched —16. On Jan. 18, 1937, Chicagoans enjoyed a comparative heat wave of 57 degrees above.

The bitter cold was widespread. South Dakota had its worst winter weather in four years. Wyoming, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Colorado, Maryland, and other states, including some in the New England area, also were hit by subzero blasts.

Unofficial minimum temperatures reported for communities in the Chicago area yesterday were:

Aurora	–17	Highwood	–20
Batavia	–24	Homewood	–18
Blue Island	–18	Libertyville	–22

Highway traffic in central and southern Illinois was hampered by snow. Chicago public schools will be open today, according to James B. McCahey, school board president. The Rev. D. F. Cunningham, superintendent of Catholic schools, said individual school heads would decide whether to open or close their schools.

Air Line Traffic Normal.

TWA, American Air Lines, Braniff Air Lines and United Air Lines all reported normal traffic and ideal flying weather. Railroads found traffic above normal, with the Illinois Central business up 10 per cent for suburban travel and 5 per cent for thru trips. The Milwaukee road added cars to its Hiawatha to the Twin Cities. The Santa Fe said local business was up in northern Oklahoma, Kansas, and eastern Colorado, and that more cars had been added to the Chief out of Chicago.

Coal companies were keeping pace with rush fuel orders. The Chicago Motor Coach company made up in short hauls what it lost in long ones, and the Surface Lines and Rapid Transit company added extra equipment. Both major taxicab companies did a brisk trade. The Greyhound bus lines, with business a little below seasonal average, said its Southern Limited pulled out with all seats taken.

Fourteen persons were injured, none seriously, last night when a three car Lake street elevated train slid into the rear of a two car train just west of Karlov avenue. Both trains were east bound. They were slowing down for the Pulaski road station a block east, police were told. Neither train was derailed.

Harry Dvorak, 4422 Fulton street, motorman of the train in the rear, was one of those injured. Dvorak told police that when his brakes did not hold because of slippery rails, he applied the emergency brake, slowing his train almost to a stop before the collision.

Storm windows on both trains were broken. All of the 150 passengers on the two trains, according to Capt. Thomas Lynch of hook and ladder company 26, were able to walk out of the cars, which were run into the station. Those needing medical treatment were taken to the Garfield Park hospital.

Officials of the elevated line said the trains were running closer together than normally because service had been disrupted by the cold weather.

Report Borah Is Near Death; Stroke Victim

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—William E. Borah, Idaho's famous statesman and dean of the United States senate, lies at death's door tonight.

The 74 year old senator, who is rounding out 33 years in congress, was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage Tuesday morning and has been in a state of semicoma ever since. His physician, Dr. Worth Daniels, said he could not live many hours.

Senator Borah has been in frail health since he collapsed under the strain of work in the summer of 1938. On Monday, however, he had undergone a physical examination and was informed his condition showed improvement.

Finds Him on Floor.

That night he and Mrs. Borah went to a movie and he retired early. The next morning he awoke feeling better than in weeks and called cheerfully to Mrs. Borah. A short time later when he failed to emerge from his bath Mrs. Borah sought him and found him unconscious on the floor. At first it was thought he had slipped on a rug, but the doctor's examination revealed that he had suffered a stroke.

The serious nature of the senator's ailment did not become known until Mrs. Borah received reporters in their apartment, 2101 Connecticut avenue, at noon today. Mrs. Borah said her husband had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and that his physician had given up hope of his recovery.

At 10 o'clock tonight Mrs. Borah stated there was no change in the senator's condition. She sent telegrams to his only surviving kin, a sister, Mrs. Matty Rinard, Fairfield, Ill., and a nephew, Federal Judge Wayne G. Borah, New Orleans, La.

Pall of Sadness in Senate.

The news that the kindly Old Lion of Idaho was nearing the end of his life cast a pall of sadness over the members of the senate where for a generation he has been loved as a friend and respected as a foe.

Vice President Garner said none would ever be missed more than Borah. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan said that "one of the foundation stones is being swept from under the country."

A week ago Borah appeared in the senate for the last time when he denounced a proposal by Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison to grant the President dictatorial powers in peacetime under the guise of an emergency.

2 OTHER SOVIET DIVISIONS FACE DEFEAT NEARBY

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 18 (AP).—Russian forces, routed within striking distance of success in an attempt to cut Finland in two with a highway and rail drive, tonight were reported fighting a bitter rear guard battle in a desperate attempt to escape to their own frontier.

Advices from the Lapland front, just above the arctic circle, said that the soviet troops, after hammering vainly at Finnish defenses for six weeks, suddenly abandoned their trenches, retreated toward their own border east of Salla and were fighting desperately tonight to get safely away. Two other soviet divisions were likewise reported in difficulties some distance north and east of this activity.

[A Danish correspondent at the front reported to Copenhagen that 40,000 Russians were involved in the retreat.]

Record 58 Degrees Below Zero.

The fighting was reported under way in the severest cold Finland has experienced for generations. Temperatures of more than 50 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit, were reported from several points. At Nickby, 18 miles northeast of Helsingfors and near Porvoo, a temperature of 58 below was recorded—the coldest since 1878.

The retreating Red troops had penetrated farther into Finland than any other of the invading armies, having reached Joutsijarvi, 65 miles from the Russian border on a direct line and much farther than that along the southwestward route which they followed. They were only 18 miles east of Kemijarvi, strategic rail head which was their immediate goal.

Kemijarvi, the northernmost railroad terminal in Finland, is the eastern end of a main line running southwestward to Kemi, Finnish port at the head of the Gulf of Bothnia on Finland's west coast.

Driven Back 28 Miles.

The Russians hoped that by driving over the Salla highway and this railroad to Kemi they could cut off southern Finland from the north and block the overland route by which Finland receives important supplies from Sweden.

The Finns, after routing the Russians at Joutsijarvi, were reported in today's army communique to have driven the enemy back 28 miles to Markajarvi to the northeast. At Markajarvi, where the road south to Kusamo branches off from the Salla road, bitter fighting was reported under way tonight.

Flesh sliced from dead horses—apparently for food—disclosed, Finnish officers said, the privations which the Russian force underwent for more than a month in its besieged camp of dugouts and bombproof shelters on the Salla front before beginning its retreat.

Built Shelters of Logs.

A Finnish detachment which occupied the camp shortly after the Russians' departure also reported the bark was gnawed off the trees, apparently by horses in search of food.

The woods within a large radius of the camp had been chopped down by the Red army to provide timber for shelters. Finns said expertly built shellproof dugouts, with roofs made of successive layers of pine logs, earth, stone, and pine boughs explained how the Russians were able to hold out during the siege.

The camp, strategically located among hills, was built after the Russians found their advance suddenly stopped within 125 miles of cutting Finland in two. They settled down to await reinforcements in the hope of renewing the offensive on a bigger scale.

Scouts Discover Flight.

But, Finnish commanders said, Finnish patrols managed to practically isolate them by successively destroying Red army supply columns and by constant forays.

The Finns said the Russians appeared to have begun stealing out of their fortified camp and trenches last Sunday, after attempts to pene-

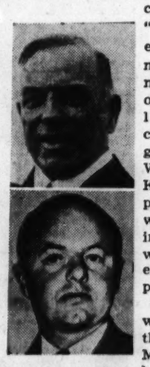
ONTARIO BRANDS CANADA AS LAX IN ITS WAR EFFORTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 18.—Ontario's provincial legislature today formally condemned the "so little" war effort of the Canadian government. By a vote of 44 to 10, the legislature charged that the government of W. L. Mackenzie King, dominion prime minister, was not prosecuting the effort with the vigor expected by the people of Canada.



W. L. Mackenzie King [top] and Mitchell Hepburn.

The resolution was pushed thru the house by Mitchell Hepburn, premier of Ontario, who, in the course of the discussion on the federal government's war activities, shouted:

"I stand firm on the statement that he [Mackenzie King] has not done his duty by the country and never will!"

Text of Resolution.

The resolution said:

"That this house has heard with interest reports made by the prime minister [Hepburn] and the leader of the opposition [George Drew, Conservative] of the result of their visit to Ottawa to discuss war measures with the national government, and this house hereby indorses the statements made by the two members in question and joins with them in regretting that the federal government at Ottawa has made so little effort to prosecute Canada's duty in the war in the vigorous manner in which the people of Canada desire to see."

The motion drew the solid support of the Conservative opposition. The only negative votes were from 10 Liberals—members of Hepburn's own party. A dozen other Liberals left the chamber rather than vote. Mackenzie King also is a Liberal.

Hepburn, who had scribbled the motion at his desk during a bitter debate, staked the life of his government and his own political future on the resolution, for he had served warning that defeat of the motion would mean his immediate resignation. His action climaxes three days of discussion of Canada's war conduct.

Calls Equipment Inadequate.

The provincial premier, long a foe of Mackenzie King, and Drew, the opposition leader, based their criticism of the government's war efforts on alleged inadequate equipment of Canadian troops and slowness in making Canada an effective arsenal for the British empire.

Hepburn assailed the sale to soviet Russia, "a potential enemy," of a million bushels of Canadian wheat.

He also assailed the sale to Russia of two Canadian ice breakers which, he said, might be used to keep Russian Pacific ports open for use as enemy submarine bases.

Hepburn said he had seen Canadian air force recruits drilling in zero weather without proper clothing. He declared that Ontario sanitariums are "admitting many, many men who today suffer from active tuberculosis because they were not supplied with necessary clothing, shoes, and bedding when they enlisted."

He charged there had been a near-riot among 500 troops in a training camp because of conditions.

SPOTLIGHT ON FOOD BARGAINS

BAR ON TOBACCO ANGERS SOUTH; STATES PROTEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—An announcement in London today that the British government had placed an embargo against imports of American tobacco brought sharp protests from members of congress representing tobacco growing states. The British action, it was estimated, deprives American tobacco growers of an export market of between $60,000,000 and $70,000,000 a year.

Senator Harry Flood Byrd [D., Va.] asked Secretary of State Cordell Hull to intervene and aid in the recapture of the trade. Representative Harold D. Cooley [D., N. C.] called the embargo a major economic blow to tobacco growers and said he would request the agriculture department to make an effort to remedy the situation.

British Want Turkish Tobacco.

London reports indicated that British tobacco manufacturers were reluctant to change the content of their Virginian cigarets, made largely from bright [cigaret type] American tobaccos, but were forced to take the step by the government, which, for strategic reasons, is insisting on a larger amount of Turkish tobacco being used.

Great Britain recently granted a loan of $168,000,000 to the Turkish government. Britain is expected to take payments of principal and interest in tobacco. The trade tends to keep Germany from getting these Turkish supplies and the American embargo helps to keep British funds available for spending in America free for war purchases.

[Both Britain and France have mutual assistance pacts with Turkey.]

One of the effects of the embargo may be to throw 178,000,000 pounds of tobacco, now held in this country for British buyers, into the hands of the United States government. This tobacco was purchased by the Commodity Credit corporation at the start of the war and was put in warehouses for British buyers. For $1.50 a hundred pounds they were given an option to take the tobacco whenever exchange was available to them. The options extend to dates between July 1 and Oct. 1, 1941. The credit corporation was authorized to pay up to $40,000,000 for this tobacco, and virtually all this sum has been spent.

Delay Cotton-Rubber Deal.

The American government also has another deal that has suffered thru Britain's war activities. The London government tonight announced that shipments of American cotton to Britain under the cotton-rubber barter agreement of last summer had been postponed by agreement between the two countries during February, March and April.

The agreement involved trading 600,000 bales of government owned cotton to the British government for 82,000 tons of rubber. Both governments agreed that these commodities were to be used in building up supplies for war necessity and were not to interfere with regular commercial transactions. So far about 160,000 bales of cotton have been taken by the British, while only about 1,000 tons of rubber have been received. Under the agreement the United States cannot sell the rubber outright unless it engages in war.

The reason for the postponement of shipments was not disclosed, but it was believed that Britain needs ship space from America for other materials, including war materials.

Confer on Ban Today.

The ban on tobacco was regarded as much more serious than the barter difficulties. Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has called a conference for tomorrow, at which the whole tobacco situation will be discussed. Temporarily the embargo will not seriously affect the tobacco market, it was said, since a large part of the 1939 crop [of the types exported to Britain] has already been sold.

The longtime implications are more serious. British tobacco trade circles reported they were compelled to dilute American leaf with at least 35 per cent of Turkish tobacco, or with blends from other Balkan countries being wooed by the British government.

Manufacturers in Britain are worried about how the British smoker will like the blend. They reported that even minor changes in blend cause sales to fall off until customers become used to the new mixture. The danger to American growers is that the high Turkish content may become familiar by compulsion and remain popular when normal trade conditions are restored.

Britain customarily uses about 120,000,000 pounds of tobacco and takes about two-thirds of the American export of light cigaret leaf. In the first three months of war such exports to the British Isles were only half the 1938 quota.

For the present however, there will be no shortage of American supplies in the isles, as manufacturers usually keep more than two years' requirements on hand.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain announced the terms of the Turkish loan to the house of commons this week. At that time and in subsequent debates on the economic warfare against Germany members of parliament urged that the government buy tobacco also from Bulgaria and Greece, which are large producers and have been shipping to Central Europe.

Eye Attitude of States.

How the abrupt abandonment of American tobacco purchases will affect the recently negotiated British-American trade treaty was not known. London reports, however, indicated that some Britishers are expecting the action to change the attitude of Americans in southern states toward the war.

They are wondering whether this loss of markets will increase interventionist sentiment in the southern states. Cecil Roberts, a British lecturer, reported southerners are anxious to get the United States into the war and based this belief on sectional feeling.

"Revision of neutrality," he said in the London Daily Telegraph, "means new disposal of the allies' limited dollar funds in cutting down tobacco purchases for munitions purchases in other states."

BETTER SYSTEM TO TREAT WAR WOUNDS FOUND

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 (AP).—American military surgeons were told today that a method of spot deadening war wounds has been developed to aid in caring for injured soldiers on the battlefield. Pain is eliminated by applying anesthetics directly to a wound or the nerves near it without deadening the entire body.

Dr. M. B. Greene of Brooklyn, N. Y., said that if an anesthetic, such as novacaine, is applied directly to the point where a bone is broken or to the nerves surrounding the point where an injury, such as a bullet wound, has occurred, the patient remains conscious and can coöperate with physicians, nurses, and stretcher bearers.

The shock of a wound, whether incurred in an automobile accident, in industry, or in war, is oftentimes more serious than the wound itself, Dr. Greene declared. Ordinarily the pain is met by large doses of narcotics, which stupefy the patient and make it impossible for him to help fight the shock.

DECREES TO RULE TURKS IF A WAR IS THREATENED

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 18 (AP).—The national assembly voted decree powers for the government today for use if war threatens. The measure requires compulsory national service by both sexes and permits the requisitioning of transportation and industrial facilities and the rationing of goods or food. The assembly also approved a special military appropriation of 5,000,000 pounds sterling.

Army Flying Fortress Is Stopped by Weather

Albuquerque, N. M., Jan. 18 (AP).—Bad weather to the east today forced down a four-motored army bomber which had attempted a speedy flight thru the stratosphere from San Diego, Cal., to Dayton, O. The pilot, Maj. Stanley M. Upstead, and Capt. Leonard F. Harmon took off from San Diego shortly after last midnight, hoping to make the trip in eight hours. Four hours later it landed here. Albuquerque airport officials said it appeared the plane would be held up all day.

New Trade Treaty Signed by Spanish, French Officials

MADRID, Spain, Jan. 18 (AP).—Spain's foreign minister and the French ambassador today signed the new Spanish-French trade treaty concluded last week. France will buy iron, lead, zinc, mercury, and pyrites. Spain will buy French wheat and phosphate from North Africa, rice from Indo-China, and automobiles, chemicals, and other products from continental France.

Russians Driven Back Toward Border

At first the Finns were puzzled by the extraordinary stillness behind the enemy lines, but cautious ski scouts sent out along the road to Salla quickly discovered the flight.

Having made sure of the departure of the enemy from their positions just east of Joutsijarvia, the Finns quickly sent advance patrols thru the forests parallel to the highway along the line of retreat. The main Finnish body followed close behind the patrols.

One Finnish scouting party came suddenly upon a large enemy patrol, only a few of whom were on skis, and by superior mobility, managed to ambush the party. The Russians were killed to the last man, the Finnish patrol reported.

11 Red Planes Shot Down.

The Finnish army communique today also reported gains on the lower eastern frontier, where Finnish patrols "wiped out several strong enemy patrols" in the Aittajoki and Kuhmo sectors.

In the air, the communique said, 11 Russian bombing planes were shot down yesterday in a raid which killed only two civilians. Unofficial reports said 18 planes took part in raids on several small towns, with the soviet craft falling before the fire of Finnish pursuit planes. [Russians claimed to have shot down 11 Finnish planes.]

The Finnish communique said the Russians dropped 150 bombs on southern Finland cities, including Hango, Turku, Lappeenranta, Viipuri, Koivisto, Rauma and Tammisaari. Two persons were killed and four wounded at Lappeenranta.

Karelian front activities seem paralyzed by the extreme cold. Viipuri [Viborg] and the nearby southeastern front lines are in a deadly frigid zone where the cold is more dangerous than shrapnel.

Russian Communique.

MOSCOW, Jan. 18 (AP).—Tonight's communique of the Leningrad military area headquarters said:

"On Jan. 18 military actions at the front consisted chiefly of activities of scouts and artillery fire in a number of districts. Soviet aviation made reconnoitering flights."

The magazine Communist International, official publication of the executive of the communist international, apologized in a new issue for its article of last month suggesting that Rumania sign a pact with Russia similar to those signed by Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

The Russian foreign office already had disavowed the article as not representative of Russian policy or of "the present state of soviet-Rumanian relations." The new issue of the magazine carried this note:

"The editors of Communist International consider it a mistake to have printed an article which contained a number of completely incorrect statements. The editors have adopted necessary measures to avoid such mistakes in the future."

$600,000 OF AMERICAN RELIEF FUNDS IN USE FOR FINNISH REFUGEES

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 18 (AP).—A total of $600,000 already has reached Finland from the Finnish relief fund in America, of which former President Herbert Hoover is the national chairman.

A central committee headed by former Finnish Premier Aimo K. Cajander is administering the expenditure here, buying warm clothing and shoes in both the Finnish and Scandinavian markets and distributing them thru governors and bishops to refugees. In addition, the central committe is setting aside a portion of the fund to supplement milk rations provided by the government for persons compelled to leave their homes.

There are more than 500,000 refugees now, the largest numbers having been removed from cities and towns in the actual war zone to towns in the west. Each community outside the war zone is obligated to take care of up to 60 per cent of its population in refugees, but in some towns and villages, the number of refugees taken exceeded their normal populations.

BRITAIN GUARDS ITS COASTS WITH 'A BALLOON NAVY

LONDON, Jan. 18 (AP).—A balloon navy, seagoing adaptation of the curious balloon barrage which dots the skies over London, has been extended to virtually the entire British coastline. The balloon barrage is designed to keep attacking planes high enough to reduce their bombing efficiency.

Mobile marine balloons, trailing cables, are being extended to protect strategic coastal points. These balloons are attached by cables to barges and other ships which fall into two classes; one designed to lie at anchor in key positions and the other, larger and more seaworthy, able to proceed quickly to any position.

REDS APOLOGIZE FOR FLIGHTS OVER SWEDEN, NORWAY

Cry for More Aid to Finns Grows in Stockholm.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 18 (AP).—Soviet Russia today apologized to Sweden and Norway for violations of their territories by soviet war planes amidst mounting Swedish agitation for more active aid to Finland and for the formation of a Scandinavian defense league.

The soviet note to Sweden was in reply to a protest against the bombing of Kallaks Island in the Bothnian gulf last Sunday. Sweden charged nine planes participated in the bombing but Moscow acknowledged that only two soviet craft, lost in a snowstorm, flew over the island. The soviet note made no mention of any bombs being dropped.

Regret Is Expressed.

The Russian note, handed to the Swedish chargé d'affaires in Moscow, expressed regret over the incident.

The apology to Norway, handed to Norwegian diplomats in Moscow, said that an unstated number of Russian planes flew over Norwegian territory three times on Jan. 12 and 14 "owing to extremely unfavorable atmospheric conditions rendering orientation difficult for flyers." The location of the border violations was in the area of Swanvick and Vaggetem, on the Norwegian-Swedish frontier.

Outspoken criticism of Sweden's neutral stand by former Foreign Minister Rickard Sandler and a Socialist sponsored suggestion for a northern defense league have fallen upon receptive ears among the Swedish public, which heretofore held aloof from such a step.

With Russia's invading Red army in Finland, the opinion is growing in Scandinavia that a Finnish defeat would mean a further soviet incursion into the northern countries.

In Different Positions.

Despite Swedish manifestations for a solid front observers felt, however, that both Denmark and Norway would reject any direct move toward collaboration on the grounds that their position was not fundamentally comparable with that of Sweden.

The Swedish government itself clung to its cautious policy of "wait and see" and political circles in Stockholm discounted the immediate possibility of any crisis or change in government policy.

Four contingents of Swedish fighters and others from Denmark have gone to Finland, but these were volunteers. In addition, Scandinavian governments have withheld official approval for the monetary and material aid which has gone to help Finland's defenders.

Indications of which way the wind was blowing were seen in the applause which greeted Sandler's remarks during parliamentary debate yesterday and the significance attached to a statement by Frederik Strom, Sweden's outstanding Socialist leader, in favor of a Scandinavian defense alliance.

Says Time Is Ripe.

Sandler declared that the time was not ripe for northern military coöperation before he left office Dec. 13—reportedly due to differences over his stand for fortification of the Aaland Islands—but that developments now had convinced him otherwise.

Sandler said that while "nobody wants war with the soviet union," there was no assurance that a victorious Russian army would halt at the Swedish-Finnish border.

"Finland would have escaped war if the northern countries earlier had established a northern countries defense league," Strom said in a published statement.

"Such a league would have been the surest guarantee for our peace and neutrality. Perhaps it is not too late to fashion such a league. Every day is costly now. The only thing we can do now is to utilize all our strength, as hurriedly as possible, in building up a strong army, navy, and air force."

INVADING ARMY FAVORED BY FOG ON WEST COAST

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 18 (AP).—Favored by a vast fog blanket, a black fleet of 60 vessels neared the California coast tonight preparatory to a mock war invasion at Monterey bay. Observers of the joint army-navy maneuvers expected the troop landing probably would be attempted tomorrow under the protection of early morning darkness.

Defending blue planes have been handicapped by poor visibility, and despite numerous seaward flights have sighted the invading fleet only twice since yesterday.

Black bombers engaged in a second attack on bay area military bases today, launching planes from a concentration at sea. Effectiveness of the attack, designed to neutralize defense air bases before troops are landed from the sea, had not been announced by umpires.

SWELLING BEANS SINK SHIP THAT 'A MINE COULDN'T

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 18 (AP).—A cargo of soy beans and not a mine which badly damaged it was the reason the 11,000 ton Danish liner Canada sank off the coast of England. Capt. Carl Knudsen, who was in command of the Canada when it struck a mine near Hull, England, last November, revealed today that chances of taking the Canada into port for repairs were good until 8,000 tons of soy beans were swelled three times their size by sea water. Even the steel sides of the vessel couldn't stop the swelling.

The plates burst and the Canada sank in shallow water, where later it was cut in two when another ship rammed it. Capt. Knudsen came to San Francisco in command of the liner Amerika. Many of his crew from the Canada were with him.

MOUNTIES START OUT ON HUNT FOR MYSTERY LIGHTS

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 18 (AP).—Mysterious twinkling red and green lights which have appeared over Grindstone Island in the St. Lawrence river, off Clayton, N. Y., and at other points in the vicinity of the international bridge between Ivy Lea, Ont., and Collins Landing, N. Y., were being investigated tonight by Royal Canadian mounted police.

The lights have been seen from both sides of the border during the last two weeks. The region at either end of the bridge is heavily wooded. During high winds the lights appear to sway as if suspended by balloons.

A possible explanation for the lights was given today in a suggestion they may have been used in demonstrations of new type signal flares. The new type flares recently were demonstrated in Ottawa for the Royal Canadian corps of signalers by a commercial firm.

A representative of the steamship branch of the department of marine said it was likely demonstrations were being carried on elsewhere.

Tactics of Finns Adopted in Training U. S. Troops

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Jan. 18 [Special].—Using tactics which have been so successful for the Finns in their defense against Russian invasion, United States soldiers are learning to fight on skis and to camouflage themselves with white overgarments during winter maneuvers near here. Trained skiers from Fort Brady, Mich., flit thru the woods, their white hoods and outer clothes blending with the snowy background, as they stalk imaginary foes. Travel on snowshoes and toboggans also is practiced. Similar training is being given troops in New York.

SIX SHIPS SUNK; NEUTRALS LOSE FOUR OF THEM

Two Norwegian Vessels Are U-Boat Victims.

LONDON, Jan. 18 (AP).—Six additional ships—four belonging to neutral and two to belligerent nations—were reported lost today. Norway suffered two losses, and Great Britain, Germany, Denmark, and Greece one each.

Owners of the 1,590 ton Norwegian steamer Fagerheim said the ship had been torpedoed in the Bay of Biscay on a voyage from Africa to England and that 14 of her crew were missing. A group of survivors from the torpedoed vessel reached Vigo, Spain, last night aboard the Greek merchantman Iris. Five persons were injured, including the captain who had both legs broken.

The second Norwegian ship, the 1,140 ton Enid, was torpedoed and sunk last night off the Shetland Islands, north of Scotland. All in her crew were reported saved.

All on British Ship Saved.

The crew of the 5,494 ton British vessel Cairnross was landed at a southwest port today. The seamen said their ship sank within an hour after striking a mine last night off the English west coast. There were 48 in the crew; all were saved.

The 2,342 ton German steamer August Thyssen sank this morning off the Aaland Islands at the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia after striking a mine believed to be Swedish. The crew took to lifeboats, which, at midday, were drifting southward, surrounded by masses of broken ice. A Swedish warship was trying to reach the survivors.

It was reported that the ship attempted to pass Understen lighthouse on one of the Aalands without a pilot to steer the way thru the field laid by Sweden and Finland between the Aalands and the Swedish mainland. She was the first ship sunk in this mine field. The steamer was carrying iron ore from the Swedish port of Lulea to Germany.

Wrecked on Rocks.

The 803 ton Danish steamer Olga was wrecked on the rocks of southern Norway near the Torungen lighthouse. The crew of 18 reached Arendal four hours after the ship went aground.

The 3,313 ton Greek steamer Asteria was sunk by a mine in the North sea last night. Eleven survivors of the crew of 24 were landed on Britain's east coast. They brought the body of one companion. The rest were believed to have drowned.

The British tanker which burst into flames and sank after an explosion off the southwest coast of England Tuesday was identified as the British Inverdargle, 9,456 tons. The tanker broke in half but the crew was reported rescued.

30 Saved from British U-Boats.

BERLIN, Jan. 18 (AP).—German authorities announced today that four officers and 26 men were rescued by the Germans from the British submarines Starfish and Undine, destroyed in Heligoland Bight Jan. 15.

[The British admiralty announced Tuesday that a total of 108 officers and men were missing from three lost submarines, including also the Seahorse. The German announcement indicates that the death toll was 78. The Germans have made no mention of the Seahorse.]

GIVE 4 REASONS FOR BELGIUM'S DEFENSE STEPS

Acts as Cold Impairs Barriers to Attack.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Jan. 18.—The Tribune learned today from official sources the four reasons which impelled Belgium and later Holland to take extraordinary military precautions against a possible invasion from Germany last week-end. Briefly, the reasons are:

1.—Certain information from other governments—not France or England—that Germany intended to grab supposedly needed bases for a concentrated submarine, mine, and airplane war against England.

2.—This was followed by the disposition of 10 additional German divisions in the Aix-la-Chapelle (Aachen) area.

Violation of Neutrality.

4.—Finally, seizure of plans for such a military campaign which were among papers found on a German major and captain whose plane made a forced landing in Belgium.

The major and captain were not in a military but a civilian airplane. They had not intended to pass over Belgium at all. They lost their way while flying from Essen to Cologne.

All of this, of course, fitted in with the purely military estimations which assumed that if Germany contemplated an attack in order to prosecute an intensified war against England, she would do so when the weather would contribute to her campaign.

Weather Impairs Defenses.

Cold weather temporarily impaired the effectiveness of the natural defenses of the low countries. Canals, ditches, marshes and flooded areas which normally would bog down mechanized units now are frozen so solid that they might prove no serious obstacle to tanks and other motorized equipment.

This is an important consideration even in the opinion of neutral military experts. For those who are responsible for the defenses of the low countries, it is a matter of gravest concern and will be until the spring thaw, which usually comes in February.

France and England rather poohpoohed the idea of invasion. The reason seems to be that Fuehrer Hitler neglected to prepare a diplomatic front. But a few military experts who still contend an invasion is possible mentioned that the element of surprise is a great factor in a successful attack.

Business of General Staffs.

Discovery of the invasion plans among the papers of the two Germans who have been interned here may mean nothing definite, a government spokesman stressed, as it is the business of all general staffs to make plans for every eventuality. But Belgium could not afford to ignore them.

From information obtained by telephone from Holland THE TRIBUNE learns that the scare has subsided there as in Belgium, altho vigilance still is observed. Germans in the last few days placed barbed wire entanglements along the Dutch frontier with the announcement that it was done to prevent entry of spies during the night. However, placing of the obstacles had a reassuring effect among the Dutch, as such barriers would have to be removed if the Germans contemplated an attack.

Coke Deliveries Suspended.

What might have been regarded as indicating the German intention was the sudden suspension three weeks ago of all coke deliveries to Belgium. These now have been renewed, but at only 20 per cent of the former amount. This raises a serious problem for Belgium which, in a provisional treaty signed with France on Dec. 27, agreed to supply coke in return for ore.

Trade negotiations now are going on in Berlin. THE TRIBUNE learns that Germany is insisting its trade with Belgium be fixed at the prewar volume both ways, which is quite impossible unless the British can be induced to relax embargoes.

MAN WHO FIRED AT ROYALTY IS ON TRIAL AGAIN

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 18.—Ledwedge Vincent Lawlor, who was arrested in London last June for firing at the duchess of Kent and sending a bullet thru a window of the home of the princess royal, today was committed for trial on two charges of wounding with intent to murder.

The evidence showed that George Kelly, one of two men shot on Dec. 7, was Lawlor's cousin. After drinking with Lawlor, he went into a park and Lawlor disappeared. A few minutes later Kelly heard a shot and fell to the ground but later went home. He found next morning that he had been shot.

2 BRITISH RAIDS ON GERMANS' AIR BASES INDICATED

Hear Guns, See Planes Near Sylt, Heligoland.

TONDER, Denmark, Jan. 19, Friday (AP).—At least two British bombing raids on the German island seaplane bases of Sylt, or Heligoland or both were indicated last night by the sound of heavy gunfire and intense aerial activity.

The first raid was believed to have been made about 6 p. m. [11 a. m. Chicago time] Thursday, when anti-aircraft guns were heard firing for half an hour and at least fifteen German planes were seen flying southwest.

Five Explosions Heard.

At 9 p. m. [2 p. m. Chicago time] Danish mainland observers saw five bombers, believed to have been British, fly over Sylt. There was a new burst of firing and five explosions which sounded like bombs.

It was possible the earlier attack was directed against Germany's North sea "Gibraltar" at Heligoland. The wind, from the southwest, could have carried the sound of gunfire the 65 miles from Heligoland, making it appear closer. This also was indicated by the fact that the 15 German planes flew toward Heligoland.

Tonder is on the Danish mainland opposite Sylt, which has been raided several times by British aircraft engaged on "security patrol" to stop German minelaying planes and scouts at their source. On Jan. 10 British bombers struck at the Sylt anchorage in three raids, bombing the Hindenburg causeway which connects the island with the mainland.

Artillery Duels 3 Hours.

PARIS, Jan. 18 (AP).—French and German artillery engaged in a heavy exchange for more than three hours yesterday in the region immediately west of the Saar river, French military sources reported today. They said the Germans opened the bombardment and French batteries replied strongly until the German fire subsided. The empires' communique today said, "A quiet night on the whole. Fairly strong artillery action in the region west of the Saar."

The French high command tonight reported the capture of "a few prisoners" during repulse of a German detachment which attacked a French outpost in the Vosges mountains. The communique said, "In the Vosges one of our outposts repulsed the attack made by an enemy detachment. We took a few prisoners."

Germans Fly Near Scotland.

BERLIN, Jan. 18 (AP).—The German high command today reported its air force had scouted the western front and the Scottish coast. The morning communique said: "In the west no special events. The air force, besides conducting border patrol flights, carried out reconnaissance flights over the Scottish coast."

SENATORS FIGHT NEW DEAL'S AID TO RED RUSSIA

Demand Roosevelt Cancel Diplomatic Relations.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—With President Roosevelt's Finnish loan proposal apparently dead, Republican senators today attacked what they called the moral and material support of the communist Russian régime by the Roosevelt administration.

Senator Townsend.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] renewed his demand for the termination of diplomatic relations with Russia on the ground of the failure of the communists to keep their promises to Roosevelt when he recognized their régime in 1933.

Senator John G. Townsend [R., Del.] assailed the administration's policy of buying gold at the artificial price of $35 an ounce, explaining that Russia, which produced $184,000,000 worth of the metal in 1938, is one of the chief beneficiaries.

Private Subscription Urged.

Meanwhile there was evidence of a widespread conviction in the senate, among both Democrats and Republicans, that the problem of Finnish assistance should be solved by private subscription, as it is being handled by Norway and Sweden. President Roosevelt's proposal to increase the revolving credit fund of the Export-Import bank for the purpose of financing so-called nonmilitary supplies to Finland is destined for a pigeon hole, in the opinion of well informed senate leaders.

The President's recommendation for governmental assistance in addition to the credit of $10,000,000 already made available to the Finns by the Export-Import bank has met overwhelming opposition, based upon the fear that such a precedent for the extension of credits to belligerents would constitute a dangerous step toward involvement in the European wars. Also there is increasing opposition to the contemplation of assisting Great Britain and France as well as Finland under the credit scheme proposed by Roosevelt.

System for War Trades.

Altho the President recommended credits for nonmilitary supplies only, Representative Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], majority leader of the house, let the cat out of the bag when he declared, after a White House conference, that Finland could exchange agricultural and other products purchased on credit in this country for munitions in other countries. Under the $10,000,000 credit already advanced to the Finns, actual purchases must be made before the money is put up by the Export-Import bank. Opponents of the President's proposal point out, however, that the Finns can make purchases of things which the British and French need, including not only foodstuffs but such war materials as copper and oil, and then fail to take delivery. These supplies can be turned over to Britain and France in exchange for munitions, and the net effect is to give Britain and France dollar exchange for essential war supplies in this country.

Senator Vandenberg introduced a resolution calling upon Roosevelt to report to the senate, if not "incompatible with the public interest, whether the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics has fulfilled the obligations of the Litvinov agreements of Nov. 16, 1933, upon which our diplomatic relations with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics were then and are now wholly contingent."

Agreements Unmet.

Maxim Litvinov, former soviet commissar for foreign affairs, agreed in correspondence with Roosevelt upon the occasion of the recognition of Russia to refrain from any revolutionary or subversive propaganda activity in this country and to settle the old Russian debt of $435,000,000, which has not been paid.

In a statement inserted in the Congressional Record, Senator Vandenberg said the original recognition of communist Russia was "a colossal blunder."

"The only atonement—the only cure—is to acknowledge the mistake and undo it," the Michigan senator declared. "That means withdrawal not only of our ambassador to Moscow but also a withdrawal of all our diplomatic recognition of an alien régime which, thru its American tools here, seeks to promote Moscow's 'world revolution.' The same day that Comrade Molotov renewed in Moscow the communist commitment to world revolution, Comrade Browder renewed it in our own Boston and said we were ripe for 'quick transition.'

It 'Passeth Understanding.'

"Just why we should continue officially to condone—officially to bless—a Russian relationship which threatens our own internal security, passeth understanding," the statement continued. "Just why we should be the only government in North and South America which thus recognizes the Russian soviets—thus destroying that unity and solidarity of Pan-American thought and action for which we pretend such affection—is the mystery of the age."

Senator Townsend, renewing his demand for a cessation of the Roosevelt gold buying program, asserted that "we are fighting on both sides in two different wars." The United States, he declared, is helping China with credits of $25,000,000 and by buying all the silver China can export. This country is helping Japan, he said, by selling scrap iron, gasoline, and other essential materials with which to fight the Chinese.

"We have made a $10,000,000 loan to Finland and we want to lend her from $25,000,000 to $60,000,000 more," said Senator Townsend. "At the same time, our gold buying program is financing the communist war machine, enabling the Russians to buy American copper and essential materials."

Senator Townsend pointed out that the Russian gold production in 1938, the last year for which figures are available, was $184,000,000 at the artificial American price of $35 an ounce. Most of this, he declared, found its way to the United States, which now has a gold hoard of 17 billion, 801 million dollars.

EFFIE MAY CLYNE.

Miss Effie May Clyne, 21 years old, 5406 Winthrop avenue, was held in women's quarters of the Racine avenue station yesterday after she attempted to end her life because of disappointment in a love affair. Her parents summoned the police after the young woman swallowed a dozen sedative tablets. "I only want Ray," she cried, as police questioned her. She was taken to the Edgewater hospital for treatment, but physicians said her condition was not critical.

Communist Key Witness Accuses His Boss.

New York, Jan. 18 (AP).—Russian-born Nicholas Dozenberg, former soviet secret agent who has renounced his high office in American communism, swore today that a 1921 passport application in his name was no work of his and actually bore the photograph of Earl Browder, communist leader in America.

Dozenberg said it was Browder's picture, "unless he has a double or a twin brother."

Dozenberg, who has been heralded as the government's key witness, testified at Browder's trial on charges of passport fraud that Browder appropriated the names of others on his visas, thus traveling about the world under aliases.

Witness Awaiting Sentence.

Dozenberg himself has pleaded guilty to a charge of using a passport obtained under false representations and now is awaiting sentence.

His own faulty memory, and the objections of the defense, prevented the government from pursuing an effort to show that Browder got Dozenberg's naturalization papers through the latter's wife, and thus was able to obtain a passport under the name of Nicholas Dozenberg.

Nor was Dozenberg permitted, as some observers had thought he might be, to tell the extraordinary story of his own career which he had told to investigators. He was stopped frequently by cries of "immaterial and prejudicial" from defense counsel.

A Hint Is Challenged.

A mere reference to "the sort of work I was in," made as he explained that he was an acquaintance of Browder but couldn't remember just when or how they had first met, was enough to shut off that line of evidence entirely, the court sustaining defense objections made by George Gordon Battle.

Before Dozenberg took the stand the trial droned along in such a routine of documentary identifications that Judge Alfred Coxe once murmured over an exhibit:

"You haven't a copy of that to keep me awake, have you?"

A second government witness, George Powers, a former employé of the International Workers' order but now jobless, proved so uncertain about his activities in helping Browder to get still another passport that Judge Coxe himself impatiently took a hand in the questioning.

"Morris"—or Browder.

Powers was offered by the prosecution as the man who in 1927 had acted under oath as identifying witness when a visa was issued to "George Morris"—George Morris, the government contends, being Browder.

Powers finally remarked that he thought the handwriting on the application for the Morris passport was his own, and said that he had become convinced that "Morris" was Browder. This conviction, he added, had come upon him not at the time he "did something" in connection with getting a passport for somebody, but after he had become conscious of Browder's position as general secretary of the communist party.

As Powers half whispered from the stand, Browder was casually swinging in his leather chair at the defense table, paying no more apparent notice than he had to Dozenberg.

GERMANS BOAST MAGNETIC MINES BAFFLE ENGLAND

Declare Britain Builds Wooden Ships.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—Reports reached Berlin today that Great Britain has not abandoned its plans to build wooden freighters which would be immune against German magnetic mines as compared with steel ships. The reports confirmed the belief in German naval circles that Britain has not yet discovered an effective means of combating the new mines.

It was said that England is encountering some difficulties in building the wooden freighters because it must import wood from Scandinavia. The Germans are seizing all England-bound freighters loaded with timber they can round up in the Baltic sea as carriers of contraband. Only the northern route from Norway is left open to England for the importation of timber, Germans said.

See Mine Warfare Increasing.

Germany, they added, is confident that in her fight against Britain the importance of mine warfare will grow in proportion to the reich's increasing U-boat fleet, mine layers and mine laying airplanes. The Germans said that mines played an important part in the world war when magnetic mines had not yet been introduced and accordingly could be removed more easily or rendered harmless.

According to German figures, 50,000 mines were laid by the central powers in the world war. The Germans said the allies laid 250,000.

Mines Sink 25% of Warships.

They further asserted that one-quarter of all battleships and cruisers which were sunk in the world war struck mines. For U-boats the figure is even higher while the loss of half the destroyers and smaller vessels sunk in the world war is ascribed to mines. The Germans said that more than 1,000,000 tons of merchant vessels were lost thru mines in the world war.

CHINESE CLAIM GAINS IN DRIVES AGAINST CANTON

HONGKONG, Jan. 19, Friday (AP).—Chinese today reported fresh successes on the Kwangtung front in South China where their accounts pictured Chinese forces driving spearheads from different directions toward Canton. They said their troops had recaptured a station on the Canton-Hankow railway 33 miles north of Canton and caused 500 Japanese casualties while another force was heading toward Kongtsun, only 10 miles north of the South China metropolis.

Japanese were silent on the Kwangtung situation, but said their soldiers were making rapid progress in a fresh offensive in the Tapieh mountains of North Hupeh, central Chinese province. They reported Kaocheng, the principal Chinese stronghold in the region, had been captured and Chinese forces put to flight with Japanese in close pursuit.

In Peking it was reported that fighting between rival factions in the army of Gen. Yen Hsi-shan had ended. The trouble was believed to have begun when Gen. Yen gave the younger element in his arm a major assignment in order to get rid of it. The older soldiers were opposed to the younger men.

BRITAIN'S REPLY ON MAIL SEIZURE DISAPPOINTS U. S.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 (AP).—The state department was represented authoritatively tonight as highly disappointed with Great Britain's reply to its protest against inteference with American mails. The reply was regarded in official circles as a rejection based upon an untenable interpretation of international law.

Officials here were said, however, to be undecided about whether to send a further note to London. It was said the British note still was receiving study.

Britain's reply, received yesterday, argued that The Hague convention of 1907, declaring the correspondence of neutrals to be inviolable, applied only to "genuine postal correspondence." A belligerent, London argued, is at liberty to examine mail bags and open sealed letters to ascertain that they do not contain military information or articles of contraband.

This country had protested that the British had no right under international law to interfere with Americans' mails on the high seas, or to censor mails on neutral ships forced into British ports by the allied blockade patrol.

COLORED BANDIT GETS CHAIR FOR POLICE SLAYING

Howard Poe, 25 years old, colored, was convicted of murder last night by a jury of 2 women and 10 men in the Criminal court of Judge John F. Bolton. His punishment was fixed at death in the electric chair. The jury deliberated six hours.

Poe was one of five colored bandits who shot and killed Policeman Patrick O'Malley during a gun battle in an attempted robbery of a tavern at 2401 North Clark street Aug. 21, 1938. He was arrested last September in Cleveland, O., and confessed.

Policeman O'Malley shot and killed one of the bandits, Trussie Townsend. Another, George Hommer, was shot and captured. He is now serving a 199 year prison sentence. The two others are fugitives.

I Saw Quality at Fannie May!

★ Recently Mr. R. R. McKNIGHT, of the Esso Engineering Laboratories, visited the Fannie May Kitchens—and this is what he says . . .

"I am a research engineer, and the minute I saw in the Fannie May Kitchens a flavoring that I knew cost five times as much as ordinary, I said to myself—'These folks make a quality product.' Later in my visit, I tasted the candy into which the flavoring was blended, and my first judgment was right—Fannie May Candy is certainly fine quality."

BRITISH TO DIVERT HOME PRODUCTS FOR EXPORT WAR

Need More Goods to Seize Germany's Markets.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Speeding up the drive to oust Germany from world markets, the British government, trade sources here state, is planning to requisition for export a definite proportion of the output of every factory in Great Britain.

Apart from the production of war supplies, Britain's industrial machine is being harnessed for three purposes:

FIRST—An attempt to strangle Germany's foreign trade at all costs.

SECOND—To create overseas credits for purchase by Britain of raw materials and food, and THIRD—To provide paying freight for outward bound shipping, which will keep down the cost of return loads.

Adopt Totalitarian Tactics.

To accomplish this the government has adopted totalitarian tactics, forcibly cutting down domestic consumption. Compulsory food rationing marked the first step in the government's "pay as you go" economic war program. The second phase will be strict limitation of the amount of manufactured goods available for the home market.

The British public will be forced to do without many everyday articles, it appears, not necessarily because of a shortage in production but because they are being sent overseas. The policy, particularly in the Balkan countries, is to undercut German traders and sell British goods at any price, to deprive Germany of sources of foreign exchange and supplies.

Goods affected by the requisitioning program, according to present indications, will be boots, clothing, fabrics, machinery, metal articles, and hardware. Eventually the export drive will bring about retail rationing.

Drive Against Profiteering.

Meanwhile prices have been closely watched by the government to prevent profiteering in articles which have become scarce. The jump in prices since the outbreak of the war and the consequent rise in living costs have resulted in demands from millions of industrial workers for parallel increases in wages. The main object of the government policy is to cut down consumption here by around 20 per cent and halt the price rises.

Warnings about the new sacrifices to come feature the speaking campaign being waged thruout the country by members of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's war cabinet. The British public is being told that it is still living too luxuriously and that an all round tightening of belts will be necessary to end the war.

Want to Capture New Trade.

Winning the war isn't the sole object of the export drive, however. The British government, with its eye on the future, regards it as essential to lay the foundations now for a trade recovery to offset a postwar slump.

The fact that Britain is trying to buy or get options on the bulk of the world's stocks of wool, cotton, rubber, copper, and vital minerals also has a big influence on the scheme.

Raw materials will be released on a priority basis to British firms holding export orders.

'ASKS AMERICANS TO BLESS BRITISH CAUSE IN WAR

PARIS, Jan. 18 (AP).—Sir Ronald Hugh Campbell, British ambassador to Paris, today asked Americans to "bless our cause with your sympathy." Addressing the American Luncheon club of Paris, he declared:

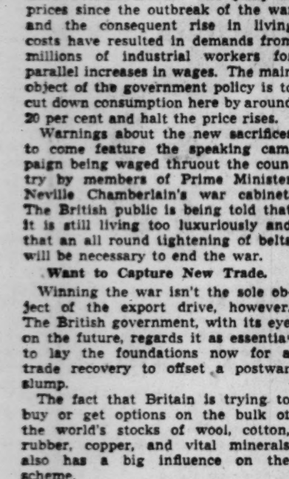
"While we have not the right to seek to influence your actions, we do ask you to believe that this war is no more and no less than a struggle between right and wrong. This is not a phoney war."

"Righteous War," Prelate Says.

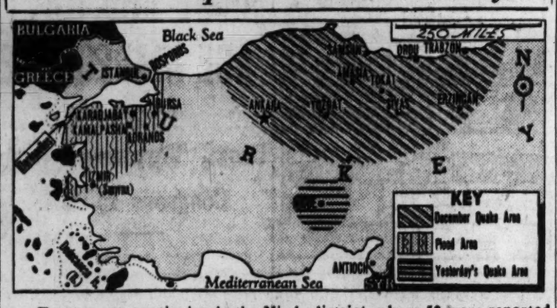
LONDON, Jan. 18 (AP).—The archbishop of York told the convocation of the province of York today: "We are fighting for Christian civilization. I cannot use the phrase 'holy war,' for war in its own nature is always an expression of the sin of man. But without hesitation I speak of this as for us a righteous war."

"Casey Jones," Burlington Engineer, Missing 4 Days

Bridgeport, Neb., Jan. 18 (AP).—Searching parties of CCC enrollees and firemen were organized late today to comb surrounding territory for William C. "Casey" Jones, 50 years old, long time Burlington railroad engineer. Near zero temperatures prevailed. Jones was last seen in Bridgeport Monday night. Relatives could give no reason for his disappearance.



New Earthquakes Shake Turkey



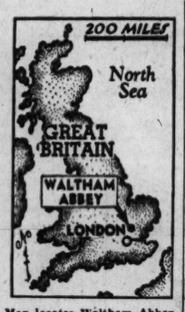
Tremors are continuing in the Nigde district, where 50 were reported killed. These shocks followed closely after earthquakes in Anatolia and floods in the western plains region, where rivers were again causing havoc.

SABOTAGE HINTED IN POWDER PLANT BLAST IN BRITAIN

5 Killed; Explosions Alarm London.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19 [Friday].—Sabotage was suspected today in three mysterious blasts which yesterday wrecked three nitroglycerin drying huts at the royal gunpowder factory at Waltham Abbey, in Essex, killing five men and injuring 30.



Map locates Waltham Abbey, blast scene.

London newspapers suggested sabotage was involved when it was announced that Scotland Yard and war office experts were investigating the explosions, which spread havoc for miles around. Police and soldiers guarded all entrances to the factory.

Police previously had laid the blasts to an accident.

The British Press Association asserted, "It is understood the authorities had received anonymous information that accidents might happen in the Waltham Abbey factory as well as at others in different parts of England."

Blasts Damage Many Homes.

The explosions occurred within a few seconds of each other. Steel girders were tossed 500 yards by the blasts and buildings were damaged in a five mile radius. The blasts were heard in Surrey, 25 miles away.

Windows of homes were shattered, doors blown off their hinges, ceilings crashed, and tile shaken from roofs in a wide area. However, no serious injuries outside the factory were reported.

The roof of the Waltham Abbey hospital was damaged, and stained glass windows in the 1,000 year old Abbey church were smashed.

In the main street of the town the plate glass windows of stores were smashed and merchandise displays blown onto the sidewalks. Thousands of windows in hothouses were wrecked.

A huge pall of smoke drifted up from the factory after the explosions and flames shot up 30 to 40 feet, spewing red hot splinters around the grounds.

Three Die in 2 Other Accidents.

Three soldiers were killed and several injured yesterday by two accidents in other parts of England. In Dorsetshire an accident of undisclosed nature caused the death of three members of the Queen's Royal Regiment and seriously injured another. In a garrison in southeast England several soldiers were injured by a boiler explosion.

The two, and possibly three, explosions shattered London's uneasy calm with the biggest bombing scare since the false air raid alarm half an hour after Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced Britain's declaration of war against Germany.

Workers were reticent in answering questions when they emerged from the Waltham Abbey plant. Some said they knew nothing of the explosions while one told how a search of the wreckage revealed two bodies. "They were so badly shattered that recognition was impossible," he said. "Luckily, we found their identity discs. There was no trace of the three other men."

Cold Adds Hardships

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 18 (AP).—Earthquake tremors of decreasing intensity continued tonight to shake the Nigde district, where 50 persons were reported killed and 160 injured by a series of heavy shocks last night. The district is 200 miles southeast of here.

As the government rushed aid to the area the panic stricken survivors camped in snow and bitter cold near the ruins of their homes. The affected area escaped the earthquake which last Dec. 28 killed at least 30,000 persons in Anatolia, several hundred miles to the northeast. The city of Nigde is capital of a vilayet, or province, of the same name, which has a population of 247,000.

In the Anatolia quake region relief workers continued to help the inhabitants in their battle against cold, disease, and hunger. Slight quakes were felt there last night but no casualties were reported. On the western plains, rivers swollen by melting snow flooded 15 more villages and caused a landslide which crushed two bridges. Late December floods in this region killed at least 1,500 persons.

CHARGES SWINDLE ON JOB OFFERED THRU STATE AID

A sister went to the aid of her brother last night and caused the arrest of a man who allegedly swindled him out of $5.25. She is Miss Anna Cannon, 27 years old—and pretty—of 1017 West 80th street.

Yesterday the Illinois state employment service telephoned her brother, Joseph, 24, to call a west side phone number for a job. The man who answered when Cannon called the number he had received said he'd be right out. An hour later he was at the Cannon home. He said he had a bus helper's job for Cannon, but Cannon must first pay $5.25 for uniform, dues, and a union button.

Cannon paid the money, then went to the address given by the man, but found there was no job. He told his sister. Last night the bogus employer telephoned the Cannon home to say there had been a delay in the job. Miss Cannon talked to him. The man invited her to meet him and she agreed. Two hours later Miss Cannon called at a tavern at 629 Madison street and asked for the man. He rushed out and hugged her. Then Detectives Edward Hilgard and Joseph Jelenek of the Des Plaines street station nabbed him. He identified himself as George La Forte, 26, of 11926 Calumet avenue.

CHILEAN REGIME ASKS SUPREME FINANCIAL RULE

Would Deprive Congress of Its Authority.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 18.—An important constitutional reform, which would transfer the initiation of appropriation bills from the Chilean congress to the president, awaits the action of the senate. The chamber of deputies proposed the reform bill and passed it unanimously.

President Pedro Aguirre Cerda and his Popular Front cabinet are urging the senate to pass the bill quickly.

The chamber's resolution provides that all spending projects be originated by the executive and then presented to congress for approval. Thus, the responsibility for proposals involving the spending of public money would be taken out of the hands of deputies and senators.

Weight on President.

The responsibility for maintaining balanced budgets and sound money would be up to the president. Rightists and leftists alike are tired of the public clamor against the fluctuating purchasing power of the peso. With the constitution reformed, Chileans will be more watchful of the executive department than of congress.

The Aguirre régime sensed that the public was in favor of the reform and, in any case, has no option but to push its ratification after the chamber's unanimous vote.

There are advantages, too, for the executive department. Absorbed in a six year economic plan, it can coordinate departmental budgets without the risk of upsets by congressional action.

Congress' Action Notable.

The chamber's unanimous vote for the resolution was notable in that, tho the rightist and leftist members are equal in number, there are many incorrigible spenders in the house. Two reasons are advanced to explain why the radicals and socialists in the chamber should join the conservatives in a unanimous vote:

FIRST—They have learned the lesson of balanced budgets and sound money. Chile, more than any other South American nation, has suffered from inflationary experiments.

SECOND—The reform will save deputies and senators many headaches in that they will be immune from the pressure of their constituents. A socialist, equally as much as a conservative, looks forward to the day when he can tell a financial pleader, "I am sorry, I can't help you; the law forbids it."

U. S. CLIPPER PLANE DELAYED BY BRITISH FOR MAIL CENSORSHIP

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 18.—The American Clipper arrived from the United States today and was preparing to continue to the Azores when it was held up for censorship of its mail. The chief censor said that "on instructions of the home [British] government trans-Atlantic European air mail will be censored from now on." The American Clipper is expected to take off tomorrow morning. Bermuda is the only British point the Clippers touch.

THROUGH TIME'S TELESCOPE (2)

By CALEB

I HAVE been riffling through the pages of an interesting document, Historical Notes On State Street. And in so doing, it amazes me to realize how close lie episodes that are primitive of the primitive to the sophistication and luxury of 1940. As one reads, he queries: "Can all these things have happened in the lifetimes of two middle-aged men?"

How patrons of our Store for Men, for example, would smile to see prominently posted this gay notice sent out to the huntsmen hereabouts in 1841: Notice to Sportsmen—A Wolf Hunt is expected to take place on Tuesday, February 2, 1841 (weather permitting), on horseback. Company to meet at the City Hotel at a quarter before 9 a.m., and there to receive coursing orders. A good turnout is expected.

Don't you like that "weather permitting"? Chicago was apparently the same climatic prima donna then that she remains today.

Then there was Chicago's first free ferry. No bridge spanned the turgid waters wandering eastward into Lake Michigan in the 1840's. So an official oarsman plied brisk trade between the foot of Rush Street and the business section opposite. Not until the 50's did the city council consider him a laborer worthy of his hire—and direct that his services be rewarded with $30 a month. Stipulating also that he carry all passengers between 5 a. m. and 10 p. m. gratis—the penalty for "gay blades" crossing before and after those hours being set at five cents a head.

In 1856 this ferry was demolished, and replaced by a $54,000 bridge. Seven years later the bridge collapsed under a drove of cattle; and eight years later still, the wooden structure replacing it perished in the great fire of 1871. Back in ferry days, too, there was also the problem of mire and mud—a condition modern Chicagoans can only faintly imagine. A menace even to normal business, the city fathers finally acted, and Lake Street from State to Dearborn was laid with planks in 1844. Five years later, State, Market, LaSalle, Wells, east and west Madison, and north and south Clark, were planked—at a cost of $31,000 for three miles of such elementary mireproofing. . . .

Complainers of today over a few rain or snow puddles on the smooth concrete may easily gear from grumbling to gratitude by remembering their predecessors' spattered progress across those same spots. We have come a long way since then—thanks chiefly to the distance already traversed by our less fortunate predecessors.

LESSONS IN AIR WAR SHOW NEED FOR LIGHT ARMOR

Casualties Heavy Among Machine Gunners.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The use of armor plate to protect pilots, gunners, and motors seems to be required for all future types of military airplanes if lessons can be learned from the aerial conflict in the European war. This is the report of American aeronautical experts who have been watching the air fighting from both sides of the lines, it was learned yesterday.

Records of the war show that both the French-British and German squadrons have been losing a large number of machine gunners—particularly those men who operate guns protecting the tails of large multi-motored bomber or reconnaissance planes. And further reports show that a number of motors have been damaged in the air by machine gun fire.

Aerial Armor Lighter.

The type of armor needed is considerably different from that used on battleships or cruisers. That armor is expected to stop heavy shells that strike virtually at right angles to the ship's plates. The aerial armor cannot be so heavy and experiments have shown that it need not be.

First of all the plane armor need be heavy enough only to turn glancing shots—since 99 per cent of all bullets that strike aircraft will be of this type. And the plate need be heavy enough only to turn .30 or .50 caliber machine gun bullets. It is out of the question to carry plate sufficiently heavy to turn even 20 millimeter cannon shells, so this is not considered.

Experience has shown that the thin duralumin skin over an engine may be enough to turn shots that strike at greater than a 45 degree angle to the plates. By increasing the gauge of this skin it is possible to turn bullets that strike at as great as a 60 degree angle. The greater the angle—up to 90 degrees—the more penetrating force of the bullet.

Germans Use Heavier Skin.

The Germans have begun to provide this protection in the heavier gauge skin on their single seat Messerschmitt 109 fighters and on the Messerschmitt 110 fighters that are multi-motored. The heavier skin is applied at the motor fairings and behind the pilot's seat.

Nothing, however, has yet been done about armoring the bombing planes, according to reports received here. The Germans say they will concentrate, for a time, at least, upon providing more speed for bombers so that they may be able to outrun fighters that attempt to intercept them. The speed, the Germans report, is more essential than armor.

The British are particularly worried over the record number of tail gunners that have been killed or wounded during air battles. The casualties among these gunners have been so high that the morale of men assigned to these posts has been seriously affected. So they propose now to provide an armored turret for these crewmen.

Power Driven Turrets.

All the British planes provided with guns that protect the tail use a power driven turret that enables the gunner to aim his weapon thru a wide variety of angles and yet fire without being buffeted by the air stream developed during high speed flight. These turrets are to be provided with light steel plates capable of turning a .30 caliber bullet striking at right angles, and heavy bullet proof glass panels for sighting.

The use of these new materials in the turrets will add to the weight of the planes but will not require an entire redesigning of the airplanes in which they will be used. The weight increase is accepted as a necessary evil offset by the speed with which present day fighting planes can be re-equipped.

The new armored turrets are expected to cause German fighters to change the tactics that now are virtually universal in attacking multi-motored bombers. The fighters dive at the tail gunner and attempt to put him out of action. If the attempt is successful it usually spells the destruction of the bomber for, if unopposed by fire from the rear, the fighter can easily shoot down the larger machine.

British Pleased with Record.

British armament experts say that without armor their gunners have given an unusually fine account of themselves in fights with German intercepters. With the new turrets the bombers should become almost invulnerable.

Both sides agree that the big motor out in front of a pursuit pilot acts as a wonderful shield for him. The French, however, consider that fighter may meet fighter in which case bullets will be fired into their machines over the tail. They are requiring therefore, that all pilot seats be stamped or welded out of bullet proof steel.

Armament experts of American army and navy aviation units are studying these reports now with the intention of applying the lessons to future orders for military aircraft. Probably all our future fighters as well as bombers will be armored at essential points.

How Zero Wave Advanced

Yesterday, with the temperature far below zero, the following items were reported in the day's news:

Fire, which destroyed the interior of a frame building at 856 North State street, was particularly tragic for a group of near north side young men and women. They are members of the Don Hudson players, a little theater group. Hudson and his players took over the building a few months ago for studio and rehearsal rooms.

Dr. F. E. Dowling, 4540 Woodlawn avenue, Western Springs, saw the year's first robin hopping about in his yard. It was 12 below zero at the time.

In Springfield all meetings were canceled last night except one; a travel talk on Siberia.

In Elgin, with the mercury at a four year record low of 18 below zero, a starling flew thru a closed window in the home of Orlow Davis, 357 Griswold street. The bird was unhurt.

Use of compressed air and the chemical action of newly poured concrete combined to create a temperature of 72 above for workers in the subway tunnel.

Marriage license applications were about normal. The fire department reported 92 alarms answered between 8 a. m. and midafternoon. The Chicago river was frozen over, and only three boats forced their way out into the lake. The Des Plaines river is frozen solid, and skaters may use its entire length.

Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan suggested as a safety measure that hot rags, rather than burning paper, be used to thaw frozen pipes.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company had 47,366 calls on WEAther 1212 between 6 a. m. Wednesday and 6 a. m. yesterday. Sixty thousand calls were expected to be made in the 24 hours up to 6 a. m. today.

The Chicago Motor club found its service calls up 800 per cent in Illinois and Indiana, with an average of 600 calls an hour recorded in Chicago. . . . The Illinois Automobile club reported its heaviest volume of road calls in three years, with the load 25 times normal.

WARN LANDLORDS THEY MUST OBEY HEAT ORDINANCE

The board of health received 87 complaints of insufficient heat from building tenants yesterday. The building owners were notified to comply with the city ordinance, which requires heat sufficient for a room temperature of 60 degrees at 6:30 a. m., 65 at 7:30 a. m., and 68 from 8:30 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Judge Victor A. Kula of Renters' court yesterday issued warrants charging Miss Jeanette Goldberg and her mother, Mrs. Anna Goldberg, both of 5220 Drexel boulevard, with refusing to provide sufficient heat for a building at 4119 Lake Park avenue.

Judge Kula was told that the Goldbergs shut off the heat on Jan. 11 in an effort to evict two families for nonpayment of rent. The families are those of Timothy Cleary, 45 years old, his wife, and six children, and Mrs. Laura Edwarts, 73, and her grandson, 7. Cleary said he did not pay his rent because of no heat.

TRIBUNE PHONES HUM WITH CALLS ON THE WEATHER

Thousands of Chicagoans anxious to learn the latest weather news kept THE TRIBUNE's bulletin service busy yesterday. Miss Anne Garrow, manager of the telephone service, said SUP 0200 had handled about 15 thousand calls at midnight last night for the preceding 19 hours. Another thousand calls were referred to the public service office for information on questions of a specific nature such as travel data. Two extra operators were employed as relief for the 10 regular ones, Miss Garrow said, and 30 lines were kept in use almost constantly.

FALL ON NOV. 8 IS FATAL.

Patrick Boyle, 70 years old, 4952 North Western avenue, a clerk in the city collector's office, died yesterday in the Ravenswood hospital of injuries suffered in a fall on Nov. 8 in his home.

COLD WAVE WILL HELP YOU KEEP WELL, IF YOU HELP

Fewer Bacteria, but Their Work Is Easier.

The cold wave will minimize your chances of catching pneumonia, influenza, or a cold—but not if you take unnecessary risks. This was the warning yesterday of Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, who emphasized that the first thaw will redouble the danger of respiratory infection.

Meanwhile Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, reported that the pneumonia and influenza rate has not attained unusual proportions thus far this winter.

Fewer Bacteria At Large.

"The number of bacteria in the air and on the surface of the earth decreases during extreme col , such we are now having," said Dr. Cutter. "The lessened danger is borne out by the fact that people living in the arctic, where it is usually far colder, have almost no respiratory and nasal infections.

"But the organisms causing respiratory diseases are present in the noses and throats of most of us at this time of the year, awaiting a time when the resistance of the body is greatly lowered. Then they take advantage of us."

Dr. Cutter Lists Precautions.

Dr. Cutter listed the following precautions against colds, flu and pneumonia:

Overeating is dangerous, since it places an extra load on the body's functions. Because persons are inclined to exercise less in cold weather, they should eat less, but drink more fluids.

Office workers should not wear heavy underwear, because it causes the skin to get too hot if the building is properly heated, and hence exposes the body to chills. The office worker should protect himself while outdoors by bundling up in sweaters, overcoats, mufflers, overshoes—garments that can be removed.

Advises Extra Hour of Sleep.

Persons should dry themselves thorly after taking a bath and wait at least 30 minutes before going outdoors.

To build up added resistance, persons should sleep an extra hour at night, and with only moderate ventilation. Bedroom windows should not be thrown wide open during severe cold.

Alcoholic stimulants increase one's sense of warmth but actually open up the pores and therefore expose one to chills. Excessive smoking should also be avoided.

"Complete rest," said Dr. Cutter, "is the single most important point when one has a fever, cold, or flu.

Stresses Importance of Rest.

"Influenza attacks every organ of the body, and if the patient continues to work and meet his social obligations he may do himself permanent injury. Both employers and employés should understand the importance of rest when one has a cold.

A warning against fire and asphyxiation perils during subzero weather was given by George G. Traver, manager of the Greater Chicago Safety council. Overheating of furnaces and overtaxing of boilers should be avoided, he said. The use of faulty gas heaters and sleeping with all windows closed produce the risk of suffocation, he added.

More Deaths Reported.

Health department statistics show a daily average of 29 pneumonia cases and eight deaths reported in Chicago during the 10-day period ending Wednesday, as compared with a daily average of 26.5 cases and 4.5 deaths during December. Influenza cases reported increased from a daily average slightly more than one to 2.5 for the same periods. The influenza death rate of one every three days did not increase, however.

In the six days ending Wednesday pneumonia cases reported rose from 23 to 33 a day and deaths from 5 to 12 a day, but the rise was not considered alarming.

DISMISS CHARGES AGAINST PAIR.

Judge Frank M. Padden dismissed disorderly conduct charges yesterday against Mrs. Marie Fisher, 18 North Hoyne avenue, and her son, John, 19 years old. They were questioned concerning the death of Clark H. Slover, 45, a WPA writer, who died of a skull fracture Dec. 24.

WARN AMERICAN ARMY AND NAVY ARE INADEQUATE

Drum, Woodward Urge Congress to Act.

New York, Jan. 18 [Special].—Warnings that the present United States army and navy are inadequate as defense arms and ill equipped were voiced here today by Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commander of the Second corps area, and Rear Admiral Clark H. Woodward, commandant of the Third naval district.

Allow Army to Dwindle.

Both urged that congress authorize appropriations to build up both services to a strength which would insure the safety of the United States. The two officers spoke at a luncheon of the Soldiers and Sailors club of New York.

"Since the end of the world war the army has been allowed to dwindle to a mere semblance of its former self," Gen. Drum declared. "Altho at the close of the war we had 4,000,000 men in training and 2,000,000 overseas—the strongest army in the world—up until a year ago we had no funds to equip it with modern machines and weapons.

Woodward Backs Bigger Navy.

"So, when we ask today for these large appropriations, the neglect of the past is upon us," he said. "It takes from one and a half to two and a half years to produce a new semiautomatic rifle. What a predicament we would be in if after appropriating all this money we should be forced into war before new equipment could be perfected and built!"

Admiral Woodward, championing the naval expansion bill, discussed the long disputed topic of airplanes and battleships.

"Airplanes, it has been and is being demonstrated, can never win a war," he maintained, "but the backbone of any war is the battleship. We need more battleships—big ones. The bigger the better. But it takes four years to build one. The United States spent $28,500,000 a day in the last war. The money we would spend in the event of another war in one day and a half would build a battleship. The cost of preparation is worth the money Americans spend."

PROPOSES SLASH OF HALF BILLION IN NAVAL PLANS

Rep. Vinson Opposed to Six Year Commitment.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 (AP).—A surprise move by Chairman Carl Vinson [D., Ga.] today to cut 500 millions from the proposed 1,300 million dollar fleet expansion program caught high navy officials somewhat off guard but won strong bi-partisan support in the house naval committee.

The slash, affecting only combatant ships, would eliminate destroyers from the new program and would hold the navy to just the warships it could build in the next three years with existing facilities. Aircraft and auxiliary vessels were not involved in the cut.

Aircraft Program Retained.

Vinson, announcing he would ask the committee to approve the curtailed program, said it would authorize construction of three aircraft carriers, the same as originally proposed, an unspecified number of cruisers, and about 30 submarines. Indications were that some of the cruisers would be the navy's biggest to meet the challenge presented by Germany's pocket battleships.

The total estimated cost of fighting ships in the new program would be about 547 millions, compared with 1,090 millions estimated for the 77 warships in the original bill. There was no indication at today's hearing that any change would be made in the sections authorizing 2,395 additional airplanes, 36 balloons, and 31 auxiliary vessels, estimated to cost 210 million dollars.

Gets Bi-Partisan View.

It was learned that Vinson drafted the revised bill after consultation with several Republican and Democratic members of the committee yesterday. He was said to be aiming to offset rising congressional criticism that the original measure sought to bind future congresses to a six year building program.

"It's cornfield lawyer sense," Vinson told the committee. "The navy wants to see the whole program put on the books at this time, but I think it is wise not to pile up too much construction ahead of the time that it can be carried out."

Rear Admiral Samuel Robinson, coordinator of naval shipbuilding, agreed that the curtailed program was all the navy could complete in the next three years without expansion of existing facilities. He emphasized later, however, that he had not endorsed the proposed revision because it was not his function to say anything about policy matters.

TYRONE POWER GOES INTO LEAD IN MOVIE VOTE

New York, Jan. 18 [Special].—Tyrone Power went into the lead today of a completely rearranged field in the national elections to choose the king and queen of the movies for 1940. Power nosed ahead of Richard Greene, who had led in the previous three day's voting. Bette Davis continued to head the actress' division, but several of her competitors changed places.

Leaders in the race for the kingship and their total points were: Power, 18,737; Greene, 18,551; Mickey Rooney, 17,628; James Stewart, 14,507; Clark Gable, 14,318; and Errol Flynn, 14,041. Candidates for queen were: Bette Davis, 37,081; Sonja Henie, 19,555; Priscilla Lane, 16,952; Judy Garland, 14,016, and Deanna Durbin, 13,345.

THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, the New York Daily News, and 53 other newspapers in key cities are sponsoring the contest, choices being listed by readers among the 22 millions reached by the participating newspapers. A vote for first place yields 3 points; second place, 2 points, and third place, 1 point.

HOW CHICAGO'S VOTING.

Spencer Tracy and Sonja Henie were leading in the Chicago voting, Miss Henie having replaced Bette Davis since yesterday. Leaders in Chicago were: Tracy, 5,873 points; Mickey Rooney, 5,113; Tyrone Power, 3,737; Clark Gable, 3,188, and Errol Flynn, 3,043. For queen: Sonja Henie, 16,917; Bette Davis, 8,456; Judy Garland, 4,534; Myrna Loy, 3,918, and Deanna Durbin, 3,553.

SNOW CRUISER JOLTS ASHORE IN ANTARCTIC

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 (AP).—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd advised the navy by radio today that the antarctic expedition's 17 ton snow cruiser was safely ashore at the Bay of Whales in the antarctic. The huge vehicle demolished a ramp while being taken off the flagship, North Star, Monday, and only quick action by Dr. Thomas C. Poulter of Chicago, who was at the controls, saved the $150,000 machine from a catastrophe. As the 60 foot steel and wood landing ramp gave way Dr. Poulter applied full power, jolted ashore and sped a mile before coming to a halt.

William H. Maloney, 620 Forest avenue, Wilmette, an amateur radio operator, received a radio message from the Byrd expedition at 11:30 o'clock last night. The message was from Admiral Byrd to a south side resident connected with a research foundation.

Dog Saved on Lake Ice Has New Home and New Name

The German shepherd dog which played hide and seek on the ice of Lake Michigan with agents of the Anti-Cruelty society a few days ago was given a permanent home yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Forsberg, Old Briar road, Highland Park. The dog, dubbed Icicle, was brought ashore by offers of meat and bread. Dr. W. A. Young, head of the society, turned Icicle over to the Forsbergs, who already have one dog, a chow. TRAIN CRASHES INTO 2 TRUCKS; 2 KILLED, 1 HURT

Railroad Viaduct Blocked by Wreckage.

Two men were killed and another was injured seriously yesterday when a Nickel Plate road passenger train crashed into two trucks at the 130th street and Torrence avenue crossing. One truck was south bound and the other north bound. The train, coming into Chicago from New York, tossed one truck into the South Shore railroad viaduct nearby, blocking it until the wreckage could be removed.

The dead are John Kittle, 23 years old, 116 West 104th street, a driver for the Dealers Transport company, 12600 Torrence avenue, and Joseph Stutsman, 40, of Bremen, Ind., a driver for the Litchfield Creamery company of Warsaw, Ind. Amos Meyer, 29, of Morrisonville, Ill., who was riding with Stutsman, was injured and was taken to the Roseland Community hospital.

Wait for Freight Train to Pass.

East side police were told that Kittle, southbound with four new automobiles on his truck, and Stutsman, northbound, waited for a freight train to pass and then started over the crossing, which is protected by blinker lights. The milk truck was tossed into the viaduct and its cargo of milk and butter was scattered for several hundred yards.

Mrs. Max Lupel, 42 years old, 3348 Polk street, died in the Hinsdale sanitarium of injuries incurred Sunday when a car in which she was riding with her husband collided with another machine driven by Walter M. Trauten of Aurora. The accident occurred at Ogden avenue and Adams road in Hinsdale.

Pedestrian Injured in Crash.

A pedestrian, Otto Bouma, 40 years old, 5040 Adams street, was pinned against a police patrol box and severely injured in a coal truck-automobile collision yesterday at Jackson boulevard and Laramie avenue. Three other persons were hurt and nine tons of coal were scattered in the street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 45 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 33 were killed in Chicago, where 1,052 were injured in the same period.

Six Firemen Are Injured Fighting Fox Lake Blaze

Six firemen were injured, two of them seriously, when fire swept a two story brick confectionery in Fox Lake yesterday. Kenneth Minahan, 25 years old, and Chief Robert Burleigh, 55, collapsed while fighting the blaze. Minahan was treated for severe frostbite. Chief Burleigh suffered a badly burned throat. The other firemen incurred minor injuries. The blaze did damage of about $20,000. Firemen fought it for six hours in the subzero cold.

Gets Jail Term

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Helen O'Donnell in Safety court with Eugene Stewart when Stewart got 30 days in jail for driving auto into tunnel at Washington and Clinton streets.

Last Oct. 12 Eugene Stewart, 1739 Monroe street, drove his automobile into the Washington boulevard street car tunnel under the Chicago river, where it crashed into a supporting pillar. For this offense he was sentenced yesterday to 30 days in the county jail on a charge of reckless driving. And his driver's license was suspended for a year.

Judge Frank Donoghue, who imposed sentence in Safety court, rejected a plea for leniency by Stewart's girl friend, Miss Helen O'Donnell, 20 years old, 4024 North Ashland avenue, who was with him when the offense occurred. She told the court the sentence would upset their marriage plans.

Stewart, who is 21, told the judge he had not been drinking, but merely had made a mistake. He said he thought the tunnel was an entrance to a parking lot.

JAN. 31 DEADLINE SET ON CITY AUTO LICENSE STICKERS

Wednesday, Jan. 31, was set yesterday as the deadline for motorists to obtain city vehicle license stickers. Arrests of delinquents will begin Feb. 1, City Controler Robert B. Upham said. Yesterday 192,425 of the 1940 stickers had been sold, compared with 194,999 for the same period last year. The total for 1939 was 598,708.

Motorists were warned by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court that they will have to pay full court costs of $8.50, plus possible fines, if they are arrested for failure to have 1940 state licenses. Where lack of a city vehicle license or safety sticker is the charge costs will amount to $2.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

GOLDENWEISER ON GOLD.

Every schoolboy knows that the United States government possesses so much gold it had to build a vault down in Kentucky to store it in and post soldiers to guard it. Some schoolboys and some older and wiser boys have wondered why the government wants so much gold, and what it is going to do with it, and what effect the possession of so much more gold than we ever had before is going to have upon the country.

Who should be able to answer this question better than Dr. Edwin A. Goldenweiser, the research director of the Federal Reserve board, who has been bothering his head about money problems for a long time? No one at Washington has had gold officially on his mind for a longer period. Dr. Goldenweiser's service dates back to the time when Carter Glass was secretary of the treasury and Dr. H. Parker Willis was getting the reserve system going.

In the leading article in the official Federal Reserve Bulletin for January, Dr. Goldenweiser discusses gold. He finds that the country has been monopolizing the gold of the world so rapidly that we have 60 per cent of all there is, altho our proportion, already swollen, was only 30 per cent as late as 1934. Of the 10.6 billions added to our stock in five years, less than a billion was mined here. Three billions were drained from the central banking reserves of other countries, and 6 billions came from foreign mines, stimulated to maximum production by the high price.

Now what purpose is all this gold serving? The government's leading authority says that it is of practically no present use to the United States. And what of the future of gold? Dr. Goldenweiser says "it's unpredictable." The man who is the technical adviser of our credit managers can't figure it out. It is a matter of conjecture. It may lead to a terrific rise in the price level—the possibilities of great harm are in it, he admits. All he is perfectly certain of is that there is no stopping or turning back. We must buy gold we have no use for, or there will be the devil to pay. We can't stop paying $35 for the gold or suffer a collapse of the foreign exchanges. Having embarked on a policy whose outcome stumps our best informed adviser, we can't stop it.

Of course, Dr. Goldenweiser can say that the gold business was not of his doing. The nation's foremost financiers and economists advised the President against taking the steps which he took in 1933 and 1934. Carter Glass wouldn't take the treasurership in the cabinet in 1933 because he feared Mr. Roosevelt was likely to yield to the inflationists. Amateurs in money matters convinced the President that the way to prosperity was by raising prices and that the way to raise prices was to raise the gold price.

Even the experts can't imagine what the ultimate outcome will be of the New Deal experiments. Some of the amateurs who conducted them have disappeared from the scene. Others are still on the job rashly proposing new measures. Experts will eventually have to find solutions for the gold problem and other problems created by bungling neophytes. Some of the inevitable readjustments are bound to be painful. The government will have to have the assistance of the ablest talent in the country in determining what to do about gold and the other situations created by eight years of bungling. One thing the present congress can do is to see that there are no more innovations in the time still available to the New Dealers.

CORRECTING AN ERROR.

THE TRIBUNE erred the other day in an editorial entitled "Why Railroads Go Broke." The editorial commented on proceedings before the Interstate Commerce commission in which the Baltimore and Ohio was seeking approval of a reduction in coach fares on its trains and was being opposed by a number of other eastern railroads which desired the maintenance of the present rates.

We said with reference to the testimony of Mr. Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, that he "finds himself in a curious position. He wants to sell his wares to the public at a lower rate, but he finds the so-called representatives of the public, the Interstate Commerce commission, standing in his way. He can't do his part to lower the cost of living without first obtaining permission."

The commission is empowered to forbid rate reductions [i. e., to fix minimum rates] and has frequently done so; but it was incorrect, we have been informed, to say that the commission in this instance was preventing the Baltimore and Ohio from doing what it wanted to do. The commission was acting this time more nearly in the capacity of an arbitrator. The other eastern railroads were unwilling to accept Mr. Willard's views regarding fares and the Baltimore and Ohio was reluctant to adopt a policy which neighboring railroads disapproved but would have to adopt under pressure of competition if the B. & O. cut its fares. It appears that the commission's finding will be allowed to govern the decision, tho the B. & O. may not be compelled to obey it.

The general conclusions regarding the evils of excessive regulation, stated in the editorial, were not supported by the facts in this case, but the general conclusions were nonetheless sound. The regulatory power of the Interstate Commerce commission has frequently been used to prevent desired rate reductions and the plight of the railroads in this country today is to no small extent a consequence of this practice.

THE BANKER STRIKES OUT.

The First National Bank of Chicago by petition filed in the Probate court asks permission to sell the Chicago White Sox baseball club. The bank, under the will of Louis Comiskey, is executor of his estate, governed by his expressed desire that the trustee should not sell the stock unless circumstances should arise which would make the sale prudent and desirable. Otherwise, Mr. Comiskey wanted the club to remain in the family with which it has always been associated. The family will oppose the request.

Mr. Edward Eagle Brown, president of the bank, and his trust department may have been impressed by the recent ruling of Judge Landis, baseball's high commissioner, which seemed seriously to affect the inventories of the baseball business. Certain chattels and properties which were supposed to be on the shelves were suddenly whisked away by an unappealable decision that they had been obtained in violation of the rules.

The bank may have observed that a club which thought it had several hundred thousand dollars' worth of baseball players suddenly found that it didn't have them and that other clubs, which had been in the market as buyers, were fined for approaching certain prospects. What a business for a banker? Players who had been worth considerable money to the owners were released from contract obligations and, becoming free agents, were worth considerable money to themselves. When released they were in effect selling themselves instead of being sold by their owners.

These transactions may have convinced the bank that here was something lying wholly out of all previous banking experience, something charged with uncertainties no banker would understand. Altho bankers have been known to sell a man out, they have not dealt largely in human beings as merchandizable commodities and they might be willing to confess that they were unlikely to be prudent dealers or wise speculators in goods subject to physical impairments, such as in one notable instance experienced by the other Chicago club—the Cubs—reduced a $185,000 investment to a pay roll liability before the supposed asset could be put to work.

The value of the Comiskey estate might rise with the purchase of two infielders and a pitcher and it might drop with a wrenched tendon, a touch of arthritis in the elbow, or a batting slump in the outfield. The White Sox fans are a loyal outfit and they stand by the south siders. But the bank might say that that was not a dependable long-time assurance and that it meant sleepless nights to be studying fielding and batting averages and White Sox fan psychology in order prudently to safeguard the interests of the estate and not get caught in a market slump which would seriously impair its value to the consternation of the trustee.

Mr. Brown thinks he'll have three strikes on him before he can get to the plate.

Editorial of the Day

THEY OUGHT TO STAY AT HOME.

[Peoria Journal-Transcript.]

A delegation of Americans will be in Canada this week, seeking to revive President Roosevelt's pet power project—the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence seaway [with incidental but highly important power ventures].

It is difficult to find justification for the President and his advisers in their determination to follow this course. It is also difficult to contemplate the project, as a whole, without the sneaking suspicion that the New Dealers are shamelessly using it to distract domestic attention from some of the other matters which, from time to time, as congress gets down to work, will inevitably earn for them and their chief a measure of criticism.

Reasons for thinking that the delegation should stay at home are plentiful.

In the first place, at its head is Assistant Secretary of State Adolph J. Berle Jr. Mr. Berle is an enthusiastic power project booster. He believes in government embarkation upon power projects. He thinks that is one service the government ought to do more than it does. Ever since the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence waterway treaty failed of ratification in the senate in 1934, Berle—who drafted the original document—has been fretting because his fellow countrymen could not see eye to eye with him. Lately he has been very busy revising the treaty. He believes he has taken out of it some of the features that made it objectionable then. At any rate, he is going to be chief of the delegation in Canada, and his bias and interest is manifestly power—a fact he would not deny if asked.

That's bad. It is bad because Canadian interests, no matter how much they might want the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes waterway, don't want the American government to go into the power business to the extent of shaming or destroying public confidence in Canada in existing power enterprises. Manifestly, government power projects in the United States have not been entirely successful. They are involved in bitter controversy. The Canadians know that as well as they know they are involved in a war.

And it is the war that makes the present junket even more unfortunate. For generations Canada and the United States have avoided even the hint of controversy by dint of mutually wise policies of give and take. The Berle scheme, however, cannot fail to result in bitterness on this side of the border, as well as criticism in Canada. For the people of the Illinois river valley—where Peoria lies—are bitterly opposed to the proposed treaty because it would freeze diversion from Lake Michigan at 1,500 cubic second feet. If the Illinois river valley feels this way and if that sentiment permeates the Mississippi river valley, there will inevitably develop in congress an antitreaty bloc. Suppose, then, that Berle succeeds in selling Canada on the idea of the seaway [with power accessories]. If that happens and if a bitter fight develops in the senate over ratification of the treaty, it is possible things will be said about Canada that will stimulate resentment up there. With Canada at war that would be unfortunate. Our "good neighbor" policy ought to keep us from anything that might, even remotely, bring on controversy between this country and our neighbor on the north.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the gnips fall where they may.

THE BIRTHDAY OF A STAR.

On this day, 131 years ago, there was born to a pair of strolling players, in the city of Boston "by accident of travel," the Hamlet of American literature. We mean, of course, Edgar Allan Poe, for whom the time was always out of joint; whose tragic spirit forever challenges the Rosencrantzes and Guildensterns to pluck the heart out of his mystery.

Once upon a time we said to ourself, "There is no satisfactory biography of this man, and perhaps one of the breed of ill-paid free lances of journalism to which he belonged would be the fellow to recapture the reckless mood and the acrid smell of printer's ink in that brilliant, unhappy career." But we never found time for the attempt, and since then the job has been done admirably, altho never well enough, by others. Dorothy Dow, formerly an active contributor to this column, has given us "Dark Glory," an excellent imaginative re-creation of Poe's life; and Hervey Allen, in "Israfel," has psychoanalyzed his complexes. Many researchers have hunted along this baffling trail, but it remains dim.

We remember the day we visited the cottage at Fordham, New York City, and the surprise with which this sentimentality was greeted by the sophisticates at the round table in the Algonquin hotel. None of those Broadway wits had been there, and one of them wisecracked:

"Do you see any old bottles?"

We remember Poe's old room at the University of Virginia [No. 13, West Range], furnished as it may have been when he was a student there; and letters in his copperplate hand in the Valentine museum in Richmond; and the Poe house in that city, cluttered with relics, where the Sully portrait hangs. He never lived there, but it is a place that he often passed in youth, for the Allan home, where he was reared in an unfortunate adoption, was nearby. If you are too modern for literary shrines, you can go across the street and visit a cigaret factory, whose product is more familiar to the American millions than Poe's writings.

Bring plate of myrtle, napery of snow;
A silver bowl—no mad-hued pottery suits
The cool austerity of Pomelo!
Within the bowl heap broken tinted ice
(Or bits of frozen rainbow, if you please);
Then choose with care (no place is this for dice)
Your golden sphere late from subtropic trees.
With edge of steel (Toledan blade were meet!)
Cut down thru gold, thru amber, gold once more—

Small need, astrologer, for all your lore!
This hemisphere on bed of crystal placed,
Let glacial cold pervade it thru and thru;
Then with ancestral spoon of silver taste

A Bit of Nonsense Now and Then—

A determined Finnish railway engineer and a drunken Russian engineer were driving trains in opposite directions on the same track at the same time. They passed without incident near Kem, U. S. S. R.

The prophetic words of the ancient philosopher, Uttsniani, furnish the clew to the solution of this riddle. As he so ably put it in the corrupt Latin of his day:

"[Oh] Norse is Norse and Souse is Souse,

DEAL GENTLY WITH A FROSTED EAR.

FROSTBITE occurs so frequently in freezing weather, even on slight exposure, that it deserves some attention. Of course it is far more desirable to avoid trouble. If we will wrap up sufficiently, little difficulty will be encountered but, with uncovered parts and a brisk north wind coming straight from Eskimoland, the ears, nose, cheeks, fingers, and toes may suffer.

I know of no ailment about which there is more misinformation—when it comes to treatment. The thing NOT to do is to massage the skin vigorously with snow—clean or otherwise. This unwise procedure takes no account of the fact that when the tissues are frozen they are stiff—even brittle. The fine blood conduits [capillaries] have become minute icicles and if we could look within a blanched ear lobe, for example, we would see the cells filled with ice crystals. Naturally, rough handling cannot fail to tear and injure not only the walls of the vessels but of all the cells. Thereafter, we must look out for infection. Many a careless rub has broken the cuticle and introduced enough bacteria to create a dangerous situation.

The process of thawing must be conducted gradually. The ideal plan is to defrost slowly—not in the immediate proximity of a hot air register or of a stove. The heat of the body is almost ideal and a normally warm hand held over the nipped area will accomplish the end desired.

Outdoor workers should exercise greater care as circulation may be lost entirely, requiring amputation of a finger or a toe. Furthermore, unless precautions are taken, one of these episodes may lead to gangrene. If the damage has been extensive it is well to apply supportive measures: hot drinks and a sedative for the control of pain.

Later, watery blebs may form on the surface. These vesicles may be opened under sterile conditions and then covered with a dry, clean dressing. Moist packs must not be used as we may waterlog the tissues and encourage complete stoppage of the blood flow.

Special alertness should be exercised by those who are afflicted with diabetes or who know that the blood channels leading to the extremities are not what they should be. Any one with arteriosclerosis, involving the vessels of the lower legs, may invite disaster thru undue exposure. Warm overshoes with woolen socks may be necessary. Ear tabs or caps that pull down are advisable.

Curiously enough, subzero temperatures are not needed to produce chilblains as they may appear during the cool, damp days of autumn. Nevertheless, they are far more common in the winter season, when they are encountered particularly among those who present a circulation that is a bit below par. The back of the heel, the inner side of the foot, and the great toe are favorite sites. There is usually swelling with persistent itching. A tight shoe is often causative as is a stocking that is too short.

Sometimes these lesions will last for weeks or months, periodically increasing in severity, alternating with improvement. The onset is characterized by slight chilling of the affected locality, followed by numbness and tingling. As warmth is regained—the region may take on a dusky bluish to red shade. In some instances, recovery is predicated upon raising resistance and using viosterol for a week or so with an added intake of calcium. In chronic cases a mild amount of steady heat is helpful. Many authorities recommend that the sun lamp be utilized—cautiously—for several weeks.

There are probably more cases of chilblain than formerly because we see more barelegged girls and young women who employ silk stockings and lightweight shoes. No matter what is done, local treatment will fail unless protection against further exposure is provided. Occasionally a patch just above the ankle will develop, with a fair degree of thickening of the cuticle, because repeated chilling is not avoided.

CRANBERRIES.

REPLY.

Yes, if the malady is not acute.

REPLY.

Usually about six weeks.

ENLARGED FINGER TIPS.

C. J. V. writes: What are "clubbed" fingers? What is the cause?

REPLY.

A ball shaped enlargement of the tips of the fingers. The condition may be observed in persons who are suffering from some chronic disease of the heart, the lungs, or the colon. The sign has been noted also in perfectly healthy individuals.

MUSIC FOR THE ASTHMATIC.

M. W. writes: Would it be injurious to a 9 year old asthmatic child to play a wind instrument?

REPLY.

WATERY EYES.

V. F. writes: Whenever I have a cold in the head, it affects my eyes. They fill up with water and I can hardly see. Can you tell me the cause of this?

REPLY.

Because of congestion, the tear ducts become narrowed or clogged—hence the secretions cannot escape into the airways of the nose. This accounts for the "bleary" eyes of cold sufferers—"full of woe."

SALE OF ESTATE ASSETS.

Chicago, Jan. 16 [Legal Friend of the People].—I have read your law department of THE TRIBUNE for years and would appreciate it very much if you would answer the following questions in your paper:

If a man dies leaving a will to give his widow one-third, and his children by a former marriage, two-thirds, [1] when can his widow lay claim on her one-third? My husband died five years ago and two of his children are administrators of the estate.

2. They refuse to sell the property.
3. Can I force the sale?
4. How should I go about it?
5. If I die before the estate is settled can my children inherit my one-third, or does it go back to the estate? A. W.

1. The implications of your letter are not clear. For one thing the widow has a right to renounce the will and take instead her statutory share. If the property is real estate, and the estate is solvent, then she can regard herself as the owner at once upon the death, but we cannot advise to advantage without knowing the facts on which the question arises.
2. The administrator does not necessarily have anything to do with selling the real estate.
3. Yes.
4. Where owners of undivided interests in real estate cannot agree, any one of them is entitled to force a division or a public sale by partition proceedings. The cost of such proceedings, including the complainant's solicitor's fees, are chargeable against the proceeds of sale.
5. Yes, assuming that you are the widow.

PAYABLE ON DEMAND.

Elgin, Ill., Jan. 10 [Legal Friend of the People].—I got a loan of $1,000 from a relative to pay off the balance of a mortgage [on our home] which had expired and could not be renewed.

1. The note reads only for the amount and does not specify the time of expiration. The interest is being kept up to date.
2. How much time must they give us to collect on the note?
3. We hold the deed. Can they at any time claim property as their home as long as interest is kept up? G. A.

1. Under the Negotiable Instruments law a note that is silent as to maturity date is payable on demand. We cannot advise further without having the wording of your papers before us.
2. See 1.
3. You do not mention any mortgage. If the note is unsecured then the only course for the creditor would be to take a judgment and subject your property to execution sale subject to exemptions.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

QUIT CLAIM DEED.

Chicago, Jan. 16 [Legal Friend of the People].—1. To what extent does a quit claim deed protect the purchaser?

2. Does it guarantee clear title?
3. Can there be judgment or lien on property sold with a quit claim deed, by a receiver?
4. How can I find out if taxes or assessments have been sold?
5. Is it safe to asume taxes and special assessments? A. K.

1. Only to the extent that the grantor's title is good.
2. No.
3. Yes.
4. Employ an attorney.
5. Not without knowing their amount.

LIMITED PARTNERSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 17 [Legal Friend of the People].—1. Please advise what the letters "Ltd." at the end of the name of a firm signify.

2. Do these letters ever form a part of the firm name of an American company?
3. Are the letters "Ltd." only a part of the firm name of foreign companies? H. E. G.

1. That the partners, instead of having unlimited personal liability for partnership debts, assume only a limited liability.
2. Yes. We have an Illinois statute limiting partnerships.
3. They are more commonly used in some other countries, especially in Great Britain.

How Our States Got Their Names

11. ILLINOIS.

Illinois comes from the Algonquin Indian word inini, which the French pronounced illini, meaning "men." According to tradition, either Father Marquette or the explorer La Salle found an Indian village near the Mississippi river in the late 17th century. When the chieftain was asked what his tribe was he said proudly: "We are men!" The Algonquins so designated themselves in contrast to the Iroquois, whom they considered beastlike because of their cruelty. The French called the tribes Illinese, or, in their language, Illinois.

Illinois state seal. The date [Aug. 26, 1818] is that of adoption of the state constitution. Scene shows eagle on a rock, clutching shield and holding in beak a scroll: "State Sovereignty, National Union." Sun rises over prairie. Rock bears dates 1818 [admittance to Union] and 1868 [seal's creation].

Illinois has five nicknames: The Corn, Prairie, and Sucker state, Egypt, and the Garden of the West. Egypt is believed to have been inspired by the fertile land near Cairo, Ill. The Sucker state, according to one theory, refers to the fact that in the 1820s many Illinois residents used to travel up the Mississippi to work during the summer in the Galena lead mines. Their trips both ways coincided with the migrations of the sucker, a common river fish.

The state flower is the violet; the state bird, the cardinal; the state tree, the oak, and the state song, "Illinois." The state motto is: "State Sovereignty, National Union." Illinois became a state on Dec. 3, 1818.

LOST IN IOWA.

Somewhere in Iowa, Jan. 14.—Heading for Chicago from Des Moines Sunday the roads became covered with snow and it was a matter for a ouija board to figure out where the highway ended and where some farmer's pasture began. I pulled up behind three other cars that were still on the highway waiting for some messiah to show them the way. In 20 minutes there were 10 cars behind me and one individual in a rather antiquated conveyance without a heater, anticipating a long siege cleared a circle on the leeward side of his vehicle and built a fire of such pieces of wood as projected more than 12 inches above the ground in the vicinity. Soon a council of war was in session about the dancing flames but a definite plan of attack could not be agreed upon. It was suggested that some one could walk ahead and pick out the road but like a Mexican army there were too darn many generals and no privates to do the dirty work.

Suddenly a woman, who had amazingly squeezed a large torso half out of a small car window, interrupted our chain of strategic fancies by yelling and waving her arms, pointing to a horse and wagon turning onto the road about a quarter of a mile ahead of us.

"The little woman's got the idea," remarked one little bantam general. "That farmer is going to town and that horse knows where the road lies." We all dashed for our cars and except for the bantam general, who had some trouble pushing the better half of his better half back into the car, we set out without further delay in cold pursuit. The procession led on and on and it looked as if the combination of a woman's intuition and horse sense were saving the day.

Then the horse turned up a road bordered by a woods and after a half mile the wagon stopped and the farmer and his wife, who up till this time had presented the aspect of two inert piles of blankets sitting on a board in the wagon bed, got down and began to pile cord wood into the wagon. They continued at their tasks with silent indifference to the interrogations and statements of assumptions that were hurled at them.

At the crucial moment this Iowa Coolidge began: "What do you city fellers think I am, an Indian scout? Me and Molly are out here to get firewood. You didn't have to follow us and we don't have to lead you out. We got chores to do at home and we're takin' a short cut back. If we don't get our milkin' done we don't get no store money."

"How much store money do you want to lead us to the next town?" asked a traveling salesman and the barter was on. The procession again got under way when each traveler in the strange land had thrown two bits into Molly's extended apron and had helped this pied piper of Iowa put a load of wood so big on the wagon that Molly had to augment the horse to get started.

After a trek of a few short miles there lay the highway that had been cleared by snow plows in the meantime. The farmer parked on the corner. Standing in the wagon bed he pointed a long arm in one direction and yelled, "There's a town two miles away; a bargain's a bargain," and then started off in the opposite direction, concentrating on the contents of Molly's lap so that they looked like one heap of blankets instead of two.

LINCOLN PARK.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Many people erroneously blame the landscape designers of the Chicago park district for the butchery of Lincoln park. This is most unfortunate, for these persons are adequately trained and experienced in landscape design. Unlike so many people in the higher park district jobs, they are all university trained in their particular field and hold their jobs entirely on the basis of qualifications. As every one should know, the mutilation of Lincoln park is the achievement of the park district's traffic engineers.

SAVE CHICAGO'S PARKS.

GETTING HOME FROM ENGLAND.

BOURNEMOUTH, West, England, Dec. 20.—The other day I called at the American consulate in London to have my American passport validated for return to the United States. I was astounded to learn that the consul would not validate the passport until I could show him my return ticket to New York on a neutral ship sailing in nonbelligerent waters. Apparently the only way for Americans to leave Europe is on the S. S. Washington or the Manhattan, or other American boats sailing from Genoa, Italy. The American consul will not permit any one to sail on any boat of a belligerent nation, or any boat routed thru belligerent waters.

It would be interesting to learn from the state department whether they consider the English channel belligerent waters, as one is compelled to cross to France, thereafter traveling the entire length of France to reach the Italian border. If there is a more idiotic procedure, or, from the standpoint of a neutral, a more dangerous one, than being made to cross the English channel and then travel the length of France with a stopover in Paris, I would certainly like to see it.

Many Americans, due to business ties, have been compelled to remain over here for a few months despite the admonitions of the consulate to leave, but to deliberately send American citizens across submarine infested waters and thru the fringe of the war zone under the guise of maintaining neutrality and in violation of any particular desire of the citizen is, I believe, contrary to the bill of rights.

When it is considered that the third class fare from Italy is considerably more than the second class fare from any English port, and that the channel and overland trip costs an additional $60, the situation becomes extremely complex.

There are other neutral vessels sailing from British ports down the English channel upon which American citizens could travel safely but may not by state department decree. By the same token it is quite all right if an American crosses the English channel on a belligerent boat to get to France on his way to Genoa.

Can anybody explain it?

FINLAND'S ANTHEM.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—In a recent article in THE TRIBUNE the statement was made that "Vartland" is the Finnish national anthem. "Vartland" is the Swedish translation of the Finnish national anthem.

The Finnish national anthem is "Maamme" and it starts "Oi, Maamme Suomi," translated into English it is "Oh, Our Land Finland." The Finns would rather have their land known as "Suomi," as can be clearly seen by the fact that all men representing Finland in the Olympics had the name "Suomi" on their sweaters.

Of course we have to excuse "The Svithiod Singing club" for singing "Vartland" because they cannot speak Finnish any more than the [I am ashamed to admit] Finnish consul of Chicago, who chose this organization in preference to a Finnish male chorus. "The Sibelius club" because the Finnish chorus could not afford to hire evening formals, and "It must be formal." The Finns had already given their extra dollars to Finnish relief.

Lesson for today: Clothes don't make the man [or singer], but they help.

CHICAGO FINN.

SUBJECT FOR INVESTIGATION.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—After reading the letter under the caption "Ireland's Fate," signed by Flonn Murphy, the thought occurred to me that the organization to which he belongs should be just as much a subject of investigation by the Dies committee as the communist organization.

RACKET SQUAD JOINS HUNT FOR KILLERS OF HVID

Clews Still Lacking After 22 Day Investigation.

The investigation into the goon labor slaying of Marinus Hvid received new impetus yesterday when Police Commissioner Allman announced the makeup and duties of the new police racket squad. The squad, consisting of four men, will investigate all labor violence in the city.

Yesterday was the 22d day since Hvid, north side garage owner, was beaten. He died Dec. 30, three days after the attack. Police are still without a clew to the identity of the killers.

Makeup of Racket Squad.

Members of the labor squad are Sergt. George Barnes and Detective John O'Brien from the office of Chief John Prendergast of the uniformed force, and Detectives Frank McDermott and Ray Ford of the detective bureau.

They were given instructions by Commissioner Allman, Chief Prendergast, and Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan. Sergt. Barnes will confer today with Capt. Patrick O'Connell of the Town Hall police on the Hvid killing.

Allman yesterday notified all police captains to report immediately to Sergt. Barnes every case of labor controversy, involving strikes, picketing, and violence, in their districts. Each captain, according to the order, must make a report every Monday on the progress of the strikes or other labor difficulties, and a final report when the matters are closed.

Seek to Ward Off Trouble.

Barnes will examine these reports and make personal investigations wherever necessary. In this way, the commissioner said, police will be able to scent the possibility of violence and ward it off.

Hvid was expelled last March from the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, an owners' association. A few days later the Auto Livery, Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers, and Garage Helpers' union called a strike at Hvid's garage at 3514 North Halsted street.

Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford yesterday questioned two other garage owners who had been fined by Affiliated Garages for infraction of the association rules. He said they told him they paid the fines and had no information on the Hvid case. Crawford has said that evidence points to the existence of a working agreement and an understanding between the association and the garage helpers' union.

Executive Head Questioned.

Emil Mermall, who is reported to control 95 per cent of the association's funds as its executive director, has been questioned by the grand jury. He may be recalled as a witness today. Crawford said Mermall has denied that the association compensated the union for the $4,000 paid to pickets at Hvid's garage.

The committee of prominent Chicagoans which was formed to campaign against labor terrorism as an aftermath of the Hvid killing will meet again early next week, Frank Hecht, the chairman, said yesterday. Last week a delegation from this group conferred with Mayor Kelly.

United States Attorney William J. Campbell said yesterday that he had studied the Hvid case and did not believe federal authorities had jurisdiction to enter the inquiry. Hecht had conferred several days ago with Campbell on the possibility of invoking federal aid in the case.

A QUICK ACTING WOMAN CATCHES GROCERY BANDIT

Miss Eleanor Riese, 25 years old, is small and moves quickly. Last night these characteristics helped her trap a bandit.

Miss Riese, who lives at 15000 Morgan street, Harvey, works in the grocery at 15334 Center avenue in the suburb. Last night, after closing hours, a man with a gun forced his way into the store. He herded eight employés into the back of the store and ordered the manager, William C. Wilder, 14933 Marshfield avenue, to open the safe.

While this was going on Miss Riese slipped out of the back door. She ran to the police station half a block away and notified Chief Albert Roll The chief, with Policemen William Cuddigan and Viator Burton, covered both doors of the store.

They seized the bandit when he came out with loot of $285. He said he was J. P. Wallace of Champaign. Police said they found evidence linking Wallace with other grocery holdups.

Hunt for Woman Delays Hoodlum Slaying Case

Judge Joseph J. Drucker in Felony court yesterday continued to March 1 a charge of murder against James Hedden, 4200 Emerald avenue, accused of the fatal shooting last April 1 of Joseph Carville, a minor hoodlum, following an argument in a 63d street tavern. The state asked the continuance to permit a further search for the only known witness in the case, Miss Alice Janssen, with whom Carville had been living.

Under 30 Yr. U.S. Sentence, Dies in Chair at Sing Sing

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 1.—(AP).—Sidney Markman, 22 years old, Purple gang hoodlum, tonight went to the electric chair for the holdup-murder of Isidore Frank in Brooklyn. His execution canceled a 30 year federal sentence for gun running recently imposed.

Quizzed by Jury

(Story in adjoining column.)

Joseph Spizzirri (left), mail truck guard, and John Howe, state highway policeman, quizzed by grand jury yesterday in jury fixing investigation.

Clarence Coleman (left), member of jury which acquitted two defendants, and Oliver Thoner, foreman of the jury, were also questioned.

SHOOTS FATHER TO DEATH OVER MONEY QUARREL

Holland, Mich., Jan. 18 [Special].—Neil Koopman was charged with first degree murder today for the fatal shooting of his father, John Koopman, whose death had been ascribed to a heart disease.

The elder Koopman was found dead Tuesday noon in the grocery he and his son operated at the outskirts of Holland.

Young Koopman at first insisted that he did not know anything about the slaying.

Today Koopman, who is 33 years old, signed a confession after being questioned by Sheriff Frank Van Etta. He said he shot his father, 55, in a fit of anger after they had quarreled over money. He did not explain the money transaction, but Van Etta learned young Koopman had borrowed money from a bank and was delinquent in making payments.

Koopman was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Howard Erwin in Coopersville, 20 miles northeast of here. He waived preliminary examination and was held for Circuit arraignment Saturday morning.

CALL 35 IN TRIAL OF 5 ON BOOTLEG FIXING CHARGES

Martin Ward, assistant United States district attorney, obtained 35 subpenas yesterday for witnesses who are to testify at the trial of two former assistant district attorneys and three others on charges of conspiracy to fix bootlegging cases.

The trial is scheduled for Jan. 29 before Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone of Madison, Wis., who has been assigned to sit in Chicago to hear the case. The defendants are Daniel D. Glasser and Norton I. Kretske, the former assistant district attorneys; Alfred E. Roth, an attorney; Louis Kaplan, an alleged bootlegger, and Anthony Horton, a colored bondsman.

Among the witnesses subpenaed are seven convicts in various federal penitentiaries, who are reported to have told the federal grand jury of payments to fix bootlegging cases.

COOL GENT RIDES A SQUAD CAR, BUT ESCAPES COOLER

Policemen Pat Bermingham and George Hayes of the Woodlawn station yesterday drove squad car No. 119 to 63d street and Dorchester avenue, where a trolley wire was reported down. They parked the car while directing pedestrians and auto traffic away from the live wire. They left the motor running to prevent a freezeup.

When their duty was done, the policemen looked around for the squad car. It was gone.

Some time later the car was found at 61st street and Calumet avenue, about two miles from where it had been stolen. Neighbors said they saw a colored man, looking grateful for the ride, climb out of No. 119 and walk away.

Home Loving BurglarsKeep Their Little Place in Mind

Burglars with an eye to household comforts visited the furniture store at 3038 Lincoln avenue early yesterday. They took away an electric roaster, a toaster, two coffee makers with cream pitchers and sugar bowls, a set of silverware, and a radio.

Dealer Is Sentenced for Selling Mortgaged Car

Belvidere, Ill., Jan. 18 [Special].—Clifford Patrick, an automobile dealer, 34 years old, was sentenced to one year on the Vandalia penal farm and fined $25 and costs on conviction of disposing of mortgaged property.

QUIZ FOUR MORE IN JURY'S PROBE OF CASE 'FIXING'

Report to Court Expected Next Week.

Four persons appeared before the grand jury yesterday as State's Attorney Courtney's investigation into charges that the jury which acquitted two 11th ward political workers of vote fraud charges was "fixed" went into its second week. It is expected that the jury's investigation will be finished today and that the jury may report early next week.

Those who appeared yesterday were Joseph Spizzirri, 33 years old, 3233 South Union avenue, a mail truck guard who is accused of approaching one of the jurors; John Howe, 8006 South Paulina street, a state highway policeman accused of seeking to influence one of the women jurors; Clarence Coleman, 1327 Grenshaw street, a juror who involved Spizzirri in the case, and Oliver Thoner, 24 North Menard street, foreman of the jury.

Quizzed on Jurors' Statements.

Spizzirri and Howe were questioned about statements by jurors that they had visited two of the vote fraud jurors in an effort to gain an acquittal verdict for Sam Orlando, Democratic captain of the 52d precinct in the 11th ward, and Joseph Vinci, his assistant captain.

Both were found not guilty after the state had announced it had an airtight case against them. An investigation by the state's attorney's office brought the arrest of two women jurors who admitted they had been bribed, and brought on the grand jury inquiry.

It was reported that Policeman Howe admitted he had talked with Miss Helen Kennealy, 21 years old, 8244 Paulina avenue, about the Orlando-Vinci case, but he said that he was drunk at the time and he denied attempting to gain an acquittal verdict. He was asked to take a lie detector test. A report of the test will be presented to the jury today.

"Nice Christmas Bonus."

Juror Coleman repeated his story that Spizzirri told him he would get a "nice Christmas bonus" if he voted for an acquittal in the case. Spizzirri was reported to have verified this story. Assistant States Attorney Thomas Bugan announced he would bring in Tony Spizzirri, brother of Joseph, for questioning today. Joseph is reported to have told the grand jury that he approached Coleman at the suggestion of Tony.

Foreman Thoner, a mechanical engineer, told the grand jurors that he did not know of any jury "fixing" and that he objected to being questioned. It was reported that Thoner refused to take a lie detector test on the ground that he was not involved or suspected of any wrongdoing.

Prosecutor Bugan said today he will call in Mathias P. Schumacher, 4834 Huron street, the only member of the jury who has not yet been questioned. It was said that Schumacher was the last member of the jury to agree to a "not guilty" verdict.

MURDER JURORS GET CONFESSION OF SLAYER'S PAL

A confession by Joseph Russano, 23 years old, that he had ordered his companions to shoot Park Policeman Harry François in Humboldt park last Nov. 20 was introduced in Russano's trial yesterday as the state rested its case against him.

Russano is on trial for murder before a jury of three women and nine men in the Criminal court of Judge John Sbarbaro. One of his companions, Jerry Mangano, 22, was convicted last week of the slaying of François and ordered to die in the electric chair. He fired the fatal shots. Italo Beganl, 17, has pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence.

Russano's confession was made to the West North avenue police shortly after the shooting. Police testified that Russano said he ordered his companions to shoot because he "couldn't stand another pinch." Russano is expected to testify in his own defense today.

ORVILLE IS FREED AFTER GIVING ALL OF THE ANSWERS

Orville Johnson, 7740 South Massasoit avenue, didn't see the fire hydrant in front of which his automobile was parked early Wednesday, he told Judge Francis Borrelli of the Municipal court yesterday. And the reason police found him sitting in his underwear, he said, was because he fell in some icy slush and had wrapped his trousers around the car heater to dry. The toy pistol on the seat beside him, Johnson continued, belonged to one of his three children. Judge Borrelli decided that police suspicions were unfounded and dismissed a charge of indecent exposure against Johnson, a stockyards worker.

NLRB AID ADMITS HE'S JUDGE, JURY, AND PROSECUTOR

Defends Role at Quiz Before House Group.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 (AP).—George O. Pratt, chief trial examiner of the National Labor Relations board, told house investigators today that he once said companies he accused of violating the labor act had "two strikes" on them before their hearing started.

George O. Pratt. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Acknowledging also that he once had said he considered himself to be prosecutor, judge, and jury in board trials, he explained that he never asked the board to issue complaints against companies until he had investigated the charges and had reached the conclusion that the companies were guilty of violations.

His triple rôle was made necessary, he said, by the fact that when he was regional director in Kansas City in 1936 he was the only board employé in that office except his own stenographer.

Quizzed in Joplin Case.

Pratt, called before the house committee investigating the labor board and the Wagner act, was questioned about a protracted case in which the Eagle Picher Mining and Smelting company of Joplin, Mo., was accused of violating the Wagner act.

At one point, Edmund M. Toland, committee counsel, asked: "Have you ever made the statement, Mr. Pratt, that you have two strikes on the respondent in every case that starts?"

"I think I did make such a statement once," Pratt replied. Representative Harry N. Routzohn [R., O.] asked Pratt to explain.

"At the time I am referring to," Pratt said, "I was undertaking to try to tell some trial examiners how a regional director felt when he had enough evidence to request the issuance of a complaint.

"To be very frank about it, I didn't ever request the board to issue complaints unless I sincerely thought that the respondent had committed a violation of the law."

Tells of Prior Conclusions.

Pratt said, in answer to a question by Toland, that as a regional director, he had concluded that the company "was guilty of the violation charged" when he asked the Washington office to issue a complaint.

Toland produced a letter Pratt wrote to Charles W. Hope of Seattle, Wash., regional director, in October, 1936, in which the witness said that "being a judge, jury, and prosecutor" in Kansas City speeded up disposition of board cases.

"Do you still believe you are a judge, jury, and prosecutor, now?" Toland asked.

"No," Pratt replied.

"Your statement then was not correct?"

"No, that is not what I am saying."

Then Pratt explained that at a conference of regional directors and attorneys here he had told Robert Watts, then the board's associate general counsel, that he had no regional attorney at Kansas City, that he had to conduct field investigations himself and then report to his superiors.

KNOCKOUT BLOW BARELY MISSES TVA IN HOUSE

tainly time, however, to make the agency account for its huge expenditures. It is the only government agency which does not clear thru the general accounting office."

Democrats Jump In.

By this time the Democratic leaders, having studied the May amendment, were awakened to its possibilities. Speaker Bankhead, Representative Clifton A. Woodrum (D., Va.), and Representative Joe Starnes (D., Ala.) rushed forward to denounce May's proposal.

"This is no time to argue the merits of the TVA," Bankhead told the house. "But this amendment will let this great government enterprise come to a standstill on July 1 unless congress takes affirmative action before that date. And where must that affirmative action initiate? Nowhere but in the military affairs committee of which Mr. May is chairman. He and many members of the committee are adverse to the whole TVA program."

Representative Woodrum elaborated on this theory.

"I will join enthusiastically in any movement to put the TVA under the strictest kind of accounting," he declared. "But this is merely a stratagem to junk the whole program. I can't recall such a high-handed, ruthless attempt to annihilate a government activity. If the May amendment is passed the May committee will prevent any action being taken and the TVA on July 1 will be left without authority to spend a penny."

Promises Action Later.

"Will you vote for a bill requiring the TVA to submit its proposed expenditures to the controler general?" inquired May.

"I certainly will and I think the house will pass it," replied Woodrum.

"The house will get a chance to do so," remarked May.

Despite the reiterated protests of the leaders that the amendment would put the TA out of business on July 1, May's proposal attracted substantial Democratic as well as almost solid Republican support. The final vote of 153 to 133 found 140 members not present for various causes. House rules prevented a record vote which brings out all the members, and there was some argument concerning whether the result might have been different if a record vote had been possible.

Another Effort Fails.

Still another attempt was made to curb the agency. Representative Charles I. Faddis (D., Pa.) proposed an amendment slashing the $40,000,000 appropriation to $20,000,000. He noted that many other government agencies were receiving cuts this year but that the TVA was receiving an increase of $1,000,000 over the $39,000,000 it was given last year. The Faddis amendment failed to pass by only six votes, being knocked down, 110 to 104.

As it passed the house after the TVA fight had been disposed of, the appropriation bill upheld all the economy slashes worked out by the appropriations committee headed by Woodrum. The committee had pared $94,000,000 from the $1,194,000,000 total submitted by President Roosevelt, which the President had declared could not be reduced further.

Three Agencies Knocked Out.

The house agreed to the elimination of three of Mr. Roosevelt's pet agencies. These were the office of government reports, the national resources planning board, and the council of personnel administration. Together, these agencies were costing the taxpayer $2,140,000 annually. They were knocked out of the bill because they had no legal authority for their existence.

The President has predicted that he could obtain legislation later in the session reviving these bureaus. He was visited at the White House today by Representative Woodrum, Democratic Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, Representatives Lindsay C. Warren (D., N. C.), and John J. Cochran (D., Mo.). These leaders informed Mr. Roosevelt that they could not support legislation authorizing the agencies and that he had better forget any idea of proposing their renewal.

The elimination of the office of government reports, formerly known as the national emergency council, was a bitter blow to the Democratic national committee, which has formerly used this bureau for propaganda purposes, particularly in election years.

MRS. HELEN PHILLIPS.

Lieut. Kyran Phelan was told yesterday where Lester Underwood spent much of the money he obtained in holdups. The information was given by Mrs. Helen Phillips, 22 years old, who was arrested with her husband, George, 26, in their flat at 6639 Kenwood avenue.

Underwood is wanted for a score of robberies. His brother, Earl, and Henry Carmen, 25, were arrested after the $4,500 robbery of the bursar's office at the University of Chicago on Jan. 9.

Mrs. Phillips, a blonde, said she met Lester Underwood on Jan. 9 in a tavern at 1225 East 63d street, where she was employed. She said he took her and her husband out drinking, spending at least $200. Mrs. Phillips insisted she did not know where Underwood got the money.

Asks Order to Strike Name from Vote Ballot in Cicero

A petition for a writ of mandamus ordering the election commissioners to remove his name from the Democratic ballot as a candidate for town assessor of Cicero was filed in Superior court yesterday by Attorney Norbert Tumavick. He said he wrote a letter of withdrawal Jan. 8, the day before the deadline, but the letter was not mailed. Henry Schwarzel, the incumbent, is the only other candidate.

TAFT WILL TELL MILWAUKEE HIS STAND TONIGHT

Candidate to Be Guest of Leading Republicans.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 18.—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, son of the former President, will visit Milwaukee tomorrow. He is the first of the active candidates for the Republican nomination for President to visit the state since the opening of the campaign for Wisconsin's 24 delegates to the national convention.

Senator Taft, Mrs. Taft, and David S. Ingalls, former assistant secretary of the navy and candidate for governor of Ohio in 1934, will arrive during the morning. Cyrus L. Philipp, former chairman of the state central committee and son of former Gov. Emanuel L. Philipp, who was a friend of the late President Taft, has invited about 75 business and professional men to meet Senator Taft at lunch.

After lunch Taft will be at the Pfister hotel to meet callers. There will be a reception from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Big Meeting in Evening.

The principal Taft meeting will be at Milwaukee auditorium in the evening. The Republican party of Milwaukee county, the new federation of all Republican groups of the county, headed by Lansing Hoyt, will be hosts. Hoyt explained that the party organization will welcome all Republican candidates who visit the city during the campaign. Its sponsorship of the Taft meeting does not indicate a preference for the Ohio senator over Senator Arthur E. Vandenberg of Michigan or District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York, or any other candidates, Hoyt said. He added that the organization has invited both Vandenberg and Dewey to appear in Milwaukee.

Vandenberg and Dewey have candidates for delegates in the field. Taft strategists have not yet decided whether they will offer a slate or whether they will take their chances on an uninstructed slate favored by Gov. Heil and some other party leaders.

At tomorrow night's meeting Senator Taft is expected to discuss the war and the farm problem. It is likely that he will be questioned about his vote for the repeal of the embargo act, an unpopular position in Wisconsin. The Wisconsin congressional delegation voted unanimously against repeal.

La Follette Included.

Senator Robert La Follette, Progressive, split with President Roosevelt for the first time on an important measure to vote with the Republican Senator Alexander Wiley and Republican congressmen in opposition to the embargo repeal.

J. P. Beuscher, a Republican influential among German voters, wrote to Senator Taft today asking him to explain why he voted for repeal.

Senator Taft will occupy the same chair tomorrow night that his father occupied when he visited Milwaukee on Oct. 27, 1911, and addressed a similar meeting at the auditorium.

Wisconsin went for William Howard Taft in 1908 when he was elected President with the approval and support of Theodore Roosevelt, but four years later, in the Bull Moose campaign, Wilson carried the state, altho Taft ran ahead of Roosevelt.

Taft in 1908 received 247,657 votes, and William Jennings Bryan, Democratic candidate, had 166,662. In 1912, Woodrow Wilson received 164,230 votes to carry the state over Taft, who received 130,596. All others, including Roosevelt, received 105,140 votes in 1912, the Roosevelt defection being enough to defeat President Taft and give the state to the Democratic candidate.

A Vandenberg Conference.

George W. Welch, mayor of Grand Rapids, Mich., and former lieutenant governor of Michigan, one of the leaders of the Michigan movement to nominate Senator Vandenberg for President, consulted with leaders of the Wisconsin Vandenberg-for-President club today. He flew across Lake Michigan for the conference.

Mayor Welch will be a contact man with the Wisconsin Vandenberg group and will be back and forth between Milwaukee and Grand Rapids much of the time until the April election of delegates, he said.

He consulted at the Pfister hotel with Laurence Hall, president, and Roy L. Brecke, executive director of the Wisconsin Vandenberg club and with Lieut. Gov. Walter S. Goodland and Fred H. Clausen of Horicon, two of the four Vandenberg candidates for delegates at large.

Plans Extensive Visit.

On his present visit Welch intends to see most of the 20 district candidates in the 10 congressional districts.

The nomination papers for the 24 Vandenberg candidates are now out and must be filed by March 1. The four candidates for delegates at large must have signatures numbering 1 per cent of the last party vote, or about 5,600. They must be from residents of not less than six counties. District delegates must have signatures of 2 per cent of the party vote cast in the district.

Mayor Welch was a member with Mayor Dan Hoan of Milwaukee on a special committee of seven of the United States conference of mayors. He arranged to visit with Mayor Hoan tomorrow morning to renew their old acquaintance.

FIRE IN ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL BUILDING IS QUICKLY PUT OUT

Hyde Park, N. Y., Jan. 18 (AP).]—A small fire which started tonight in the Franklin D. Roosevelt memorial library was quickly extinguished by firemen from Hyde Park and nearby Poughkeepsie. No damage resulted. The library, located on the President's Hyde Park estate, is designed to serve as a permanent repository for Mr. Roosevelt's public and private papers. Fire Chief Chris W. Noll of Poughkeepsie said the fire, discovered by a watchman, started when a salamander being used to dry out plaster became overheated and ignited inside scaffolding. The library, begun last September, is nearing completion.

GARNER SHIFTS CAMPAIGN DRIVE INTO HIGH GEAR

He'll Run No Matter What Roosevelt Does.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 18.—Vice President John N. Garner's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination opened on a nation-wide scale today with an announcement of his managers here that he would stay in the contest whether the present occupant of the White House decides to run again or not.

Vice President Garner.

Maury Hughes of Dallas, Tex., national co-director of the Garner-for-President organization, declared a survey of thirty states had shown the Vice President would control a majority of the delegates at the Democratic convention and consequently would be the nominee.

"Mr. Garner is not a 'Stop-Roosevelt' candidate," said Hughes. "At the same time his candidacy is not based on the ambitions of any other man, including President Roosevelt. We are going into the national convention to win, lose, or draw."

Headquarters Near Dewey's.

Vice President Garner's headquarters here in the Commodore hotel are across the street from the office space occupied by the Dewey-for-President organization, backing the candidacy of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey for the Republican presidential nomination.

Headquarters are also open here for Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, who is quite willing to run if Roosevelt doesn't go out for a third term. McNutt's supporters have offices in the No. 1 Wall Street building, but because of odium attached to that big business thorofare in some quarters correspondence is being sent out from 80 Broadway, another entrance to the building.

Garner campaign offices will be opened in every large city in the country, according to Hughes. Chicago might possibly be selected as national headquarters, he said.

Expect Roosevelt Won't Run.

Hughes revealed the campaign was going forward on the assumption that Roosevelt would eventually decline to run for a third term.

"I am positive that with Mr. Roosevelt not running," said Hughes, "Mr. Garner will be nominated. Furthermore, I am equally certain that as of today Mr. Garner has a majority vote actually or potentially pledged.

"Mr. Garner is running his own race and is determined to get the Democratic nomination regardless of who runs and who doesn't run. From now on an active campaign will be made in every district in the United States to obtain delegates."

William J. Goodwin, Democratic leader from the borough of Queens and state chairman of the Garner committee, disclosed that primary contests would be made for delegates in every district of New York state where the candidates were opposed to the Vice President.

Too Many Hands in National Till, Says Business Leader

W. Gibson Carey Jr., president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told an audience of 1,000 business men in Waukegan last night that "our primary job today is to kill the copperhead of excess government spending, lest it kill us."

W. G. Carey Jr.

Both government and citizens, he asserted, are in dire trouble because the federal administration has centralized too many functions that rightly belong to the states. He advocated an immediate return to decentralized government and a campaign for reduction of public debt.

It Can Be Done.

"In considering the spending and debt problem," Carey said, "let us recognize that where there is a will there is a way. Childish references to the impossibility of effective control of expenditures and debt and provision for a sound budget are evidence of a lack of will and lack of character. Is it not silly to say that the richest and most productive nation on the globe cannot pay its way?"

The address was delivered at the 25th annual dinner of the Waukegan Chamber of Commerce, held in the new state armory. Among Carey's hearers were nearly 100 business leaders from Chicago, who journeyed to Waukegan in a special train. At the meeting H. H. Peterson of the Johns-Manville corporation was installed as president of the Waukegan chamber, succeeding John C. Ballentine.

Carey, who is only 42 years old, is president of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing company, which has five plants in the United States [one in Waukegan], one in Canada and three in Europe.

In his address he urged that the business men and business organizations of the country do their part as citizens in fighting against an increase of the public debt, which he estimated—state and national combined—at 60 billion dollars. In particular he urged that they stop spending caused by pressure on the government by blocs.

"I urge," he said, "that business organizations refrain from asking or accepting federal appropriations which are of a special interest nature or designed primarily for local benefit."

Other Measures Proposed.

Other specific recommendations he made were:

1. Scrutinize closely the activities of the government with a view to curtailing and eliminating nonessentials and increasing efficiency.

2. Cancel the existing authority of government corporations to add indirectly to the national debt.

3. Relinquish the increasing encroachment of the federal government upon the taxable resources of the states and local governments, so that they may obtain their funds directly, rather than thru Washington.

4. Reject proposals to create new government spending agencies or new forms of expenditure.

5. Require that congress look at expenditures and revenues as a whole with the object of fixing a proper limit on the total to be appropriated.

Contrasts Public, Private Debts.

Carey contrasted public and private debts. Those privately contracted, he said, were often used to increase productive capacity and, as a corollary, jobs. Public debts, he asserted, are paid from taxes which are "the first charge against our standards of living.

"They must be paid by the sacrifice of living comforts we might otherwise have as individuals," he said. "This cannot be helped. It would be preferable to have no public debt, but there is no use arguing about that. We will do better to take our stand firmly on the absolute necessity of stopping debt increase."

He said it was plain that the expanding public debt had played an important part in centralizing government and that "our common sense is led astray because there are too many hands in the national till.

Return Power to States.

"I am not talking of graft," he continued. "I am talking rather of all those who, directly or indirectly, are getting payments in cash or special privilege from Washington. I am sympathetic with the problems of any group, especially with the unemployed and the farmers. The vital issue is not one of sympathy, but of the dangerous trend we all must see.

"We must decrease the degree of control of our central government and return power and responsibility to the states."

Drink Beer at 50 degrees and get a New Taste Thrill

BEER FLAVOR...GOOD OR BAD... SHOWS UP AT 50 DEGREES

Thousands switch to Meister Bräu when they taste and compare Flavor undisguised by over-icing

MAYBE some people won't like me to tell the inside story of beer and how WE make it. But I think you beer drinkers are entitled to know.

Take ice-cold beer for instance. If I thought all the beer we make was served too cold we wouldn't be so particular how we make it. There's no use putting the finest grains in a brew just to have the flavor over-chilled so you can't recognize it. We might as well add sugars or syrups and save time and money. We might as well add artificial gas when we bottle instead of using only natural draft beer carbonation created in the beer itself.

Beer flavor, good or bad, shows up at about 50 degrees. If you want to know what kind of beer you're drinking, drink it at 50 degrees. That means, take an ice-cold bottle out of the refrigerator and let it stand until it's the proper temperature. Do that and you'll never again say, "Give me a bottle of Beer." You'll know it pays to ask for the brand you prefer. For 49 years we've been making a beer for the 50-degree drinkers—the beer cranks. And I'll stake my reputation on your verdict if you make this test.

Order Meister Bräu today. Taste Meister Bräu and any other beer at 50 degrees. You'll be glad I stick to our old-time methods.

LYONS, BROOKS JOIN FORCES FOR PRIMARY BATTLE

Pick Campaign Managers for G. O. P. Race.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Forces were merged yesterday by Wayland Brooks, candidate for United States senator, and Richard J. Lyons, candidate for governor, for the Republican primaries April 9. Formal announcement of the alliance was followed by a statement that the faction does not contemplate slate making on other state or county offices.

At the conference in the Hotel Sherman the two principals formally named James E. Hill of Streator as downstate manager and Ald. Patrick Sheridan Smith [6th] as Cook county manager of the alliance. Hill, who is Republican chairman of La Salle county in which Brooks has a farm, managed the downstate campaign of Brooks for governor in 1936. Smith managed the Cook county activities for Brooks that year.

Disclose Widespread Backing.

Hill said 62 downstate county chairmen are backing the two candidates. Smith said the Brooks-Lyons merger is supported by 43 out of 50 Chicago ward committeemen and by 28 out of 30 committeemen in the country towns. Rooms are to be opened in the Sherman by tomorrow. On Feb. 1 the entire fourth floor is to be taken over as headquarters. Downstate headquarters are to be established in Springfield in a week or two.

Brooks said in a statement that Otis F. Glenn, former United States senator who withdrew as a candidate Sunday, did so in the interests of party harmony, and that harmony dictated the pooling of Brooks-Lyons strength.

The withdrawal of Glenn has left Brooks the only announced candidate for senator. Much interest is manifest in whether Congressman Ralph E. Church, of Evanston, will announce for senator. Before Christmas Church sent letters to party captains sounding them out. Reports from Washington are he is still considering the matter.

For the governorship, three candidates have announced: Lyons, Dwight H. Green and State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield.

No Surprise, Says Green.

Green, who is to open his downstate headquarters next Wednesday at Springfield, issued a statement that the Brooks-Lyons coalition was no surprise.

"Ever since Brooks withdrew from the governorship race," he said, "it has been generally understood they have made an alliance. The people of my party can depend on me to carry their banner to victory in April to insure Republican victory in November."

Said the Brooks statement:

"Richard Lyons and I have been fighting together and for each other and for every Republican candidate for office in this state in the last 10 years. Lyons' heroic campaign in 1938 when he carried downstate Illinois by 108,000 votes and was in fact elected to the United States senate only to have that election stolen from him by vote frauds in Chicago, impressed Republicans. We have both been fighting against and have been the victims of vote frauds in the past. Vote frauds must be stopped.

"This merger of forces is in no sense an effort to make up a slate, but rather to pool our strength in behalf of Republican victory."

Republican Strength United.

Lyons, in his statement, said:

"This announcement of the joining of campaign forces of Mr. Brooks and myself unites most of the Republican party into one happy, harmonious whole. Together we will aid in directing the party standard thru the April primary and the November battle. I am enthusiastic over the alliance with Mr. Brooks."

The Deneen group held a brief meeting over the state's attorneyship for Cook county. No action was taken. Judge Daniel P. Trude, who has been mentioned for the place, was asked his intentions and replied he would not run. The candidacy of Harry S. Ditchburne was discussed. The Deneen group said it might have some developments on possible slate making Saturday.

63d Street Gets New Light System Despite the Cold

The new $72,000 lighting system on 63d street between Dorchester and Cottage Grove avenues was formally dedicated last night despite the cold. Ceremonies were held in the lobby of the Lex movie theater. After brief speeches Miss Isabel Clerk, 19 years old, 6423 Ingleside avenue, portraying the Spirit of Light, gave her wand to Constance Bennett, actress, now appearing at a loop theater. Connie waved the wand, and presto! the new lights flashed on just as if a button had been pushed.

FIRE ROUTS SIX PERSONS.

Six persons were driven to the street early yesterday by a fire that gutted two two-story frame buildings at 101-103 East 155th street, Calumet City. The buildings are owned by Frank Kominski of Calumet City.

JACKSON TAKES OVER DUTIES AS ATTY. GENERAL

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—Robert H. Jackson, believed by many informed observers to be President Roosevelt's second choice for occupant of the White House in 1941, today took over command of the department of justice. Twenty-four hours earlier the senate confirmed the nomination of his predecessor, Frank Murphy, to the United States Supreme court.

The haste to put Jackson in as attorney general gave rise to speculation that the President was anxious to get the one time New York corporation attorney at work building himself up in the public eye as a possible Democratic candidate should the White House campaign to have Mr. Roosevelt drafted for a third term collapse.

On being congratulated on the confirmation of his court nomination yesterday Murphy told intimates that he intended to stay at his desk in the department of justice for at least a week cleaning up various odds and ends before taking his seat on the court. At the time his name was sent to the senate he said he did not expect to leave the department until about Feb. 1.

White House Alters Plans.

Murphy's plans were changed when the White House last night announced that Murphy and Jackson would take their oaths of office in the White House this morning along with Francis Biddle, who is to succeed Jackson as solicitor general. Later the announcement was amended to state that Biddle could not be present at the ceremony and would not take his oath until next week, when it would be administered by Jackson.

At the ceremony in the east room of the executive mansion several cabinet members whispered over what they termed the haste with which Murphy was speeded to the court. It was remarked that the shortness of the time he was given to clear up his affairs was without precedent.

As the oaths were administered to the two officials President Roosevelt expressed his pleasure and gratification at seeing two old friends advance to higher posts. He injected a humorous note into the proceeding by requiring both men to sign in his presence certificates affirming that neither paid or promised to pay any money for their appointments, a routine requirement almost never complied with in the presence of the President.

Ceremony Breaks Precedent.

The ceremony itself was without precedent. Supreme court justices are usually sworn in privately by the chief justice of the court. The oath was administered to Murphy by Associate Justice Stanley Reed, who also swore in Jackson. Murphy will not be a member of the court, however, until he takes his oath of office at the first session of the court he attends. The oath he took today was his constitutional oath.

Members of the cabinet, congressional leaders, other officials, and members of Jackson's family attended the ceremony.

In the afternoon Jackson took his seat at the desk Murphy had occupied and called his first press conference. He told reporters there would be no substantial changes in personnel or administration of the department.

He declined to discuss specific cases and actions initiated by the department, saying that he needed time to familiarize himself with his duties.

5 STOREKEEPERS PAY BACK SALES TAXES; GO FREE

Five of 16 storekeepers charged with sales tax delinquency made their final tax payments in South State street court yesterday and were discharged. Curtis Hay, attorney general's office investigator, who collected more than $1,000 from them, attributed their willingness to pay to the 30 day Bridewell sentence imposed last month by Judge Jay A. Schiller on three delinquents.

Ten other defendants were given continuances until Feb. 14 inasmuch as they were making regular payments on the taxes owed. Another defendant was put on probation.

U. OF C. SEEKS 12 MILLIONS IN JUBILEE DRIVE

Marks 50th Anniversary with Fund Campaign.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The University of Chicago, at a formal dinner in the Drake hotel, last night inaugurated its jubilee year program in which it will seek to raise $12,000,000 to preserve it as one of the great pioneering educational institutions of the country.

Dr. George E. Vincent, a speaker at Chicago U. dinner.

With Harold H. Swift, president of the trustees, as host, the 200 alumni present, out of a total of 47,000, pledged $135,512 toward this goal. Most of this came in small subscriptions. There were two $5,000 subscriptions and one of $2,000 from a member of the faculty, who is to pay it in monthly instalments.

Hutchins Is Confident.

The university is now a national institution, President Robert M. Hutchins told the alumni and, while he does not expect them to raise the $12,000,000 which is considered necessary, he has no doubt that it will be forthcoming from friends of the university, those who believe in its 50th anniversary theme, which is "New Frontiers in Education and Research."

Forty per cent of the $70,000,000 endowment income of the university has been wiped out during the last few years in declining interest rates, it was stated at the banquet, and the $12,000,000 sought is necessary to carry the institution thru for the next 10 years.

"Determined to maintain the excellence of the university," said President Hutchins," and particularly to maintain professors' salaries, the trustees have met the difference between recurring income and recurring expense by appropriations from special gifts and from reserves accumulated in happier days.

"These resources will be gone by the end of the next academic year. The gap between recurring income and recurring expense is $1,200,000 a year. The university cannot reduce its expenses further and remain the kind of university it has been.

Stresses Aim of Preservation.

"It proposes to raise enough to carry it thru another 10 years, in a word, $12,000,000. It is not seeking endowment, tho it will not decline it if offered. It is not seeking buildings, tho there are two or three it needs. It is not seeking to expand. The aim of this campaign is not to enlarge the university but to preserve it."

In the last three weeks of December, Mr. Hutchins said, the university received gifts valued at $8,000,000.

"But they must not mislead us," he added. "What the university needs is money to operate. Contributions to plant and endowment, tho exceedingly welcome, do not have the effect on the university's operating position that one could wish. For example, because part of it was endowment, part the permanent financing of work supported by temporary grants, and part property on which no immediate income can be earned, the $8,000,000 received in December will improve the university's operating position by only $100,000 a year, or one-twelfth the total amount required."

Traces School's Tradition.

The university was a gift to the middle west, Hutchins said, and may be said to have marked the beginning of higher education here. He spoke of its unique position, that of pioneering in various educational fields. It was unique in its beginnings under the late President William Rainey Harper, he said, and has remained true to this tradition.

"Take football, for example," he said. "Whatever one may think of the game as a spectacle, a character builder, or a diversion, one cannot deny that it had come to assume outrageous demands upon the time, energy, and attention of universities and their students. Under these circumstances it would seem desirable for one important university to redress the balance.

"I cannot pretend that Chicago's decision [to abandon football] was universally popular, the it was more so than I had expected. I cannot hope that all of you agree with it. I do say that it was right, and whether you agree with it or not you should support it, because it is simply the latest manifestation of the essential, characteristic, traditional spirit of the university, the spirit that has made it what it is, and that justifies its existence today."

Dr. Vincent Speaks.

Dr. George E. Vincent, former president of the Rockefeller Foundation, who came to Chicago university in 1893 with President Harper, said that the chief hope of the future lies in such training and opportunities as the University of Chicago offers. These, he said, are the cultivation of qualities of sound, dispassionate thinking, calm judicial judgment, a sense of justice, a devotion to wide loyalties, and the will to create a better social order.

Paul Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation, was toastmaster. Other speakers were Frank McNair, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, and John Nuveen Jr., chairman of the alumni foundation.

CITY ASKS ADDED $4,900,000 GRANT FOR SUBWAY JOB

Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways, said yesterday that a request for a supplemental subway grant of $4,900,000 has been made to the Public Works administration. The request was authorized by the city council last week. The money would be used chiefly for station finishing work and escalators.

The PWA in 1938 made a grant of $18,000,000 for the subway, which was 45 per cent of the original estimated cost of $40,000,000. The city contracted for the other $22,000,000. Later the city agreed to pay 6 millions more when the subway cost estimate was raised to 46 millions. Yesterday's request asked the PWA to help match the 6 millions added to the city's share.

City attorneys also were preparing an application to the PWA for an extension of 60 days, to April 1, of the deadline for drafting a unified traction ordinance. The PWA in making the subway grant first set the deadline for July 1, 1939. Subsequently the date was extended three times to Feb. 1.

ALDERMEN FAVOR NIGHT HOURS FOR CITY'S MUSEUMS

On motion of Ald. John S. Boyle [16th], the city council committee on recreation and aviation yesterday went on record as favoring the proposal to keep Chicago's seven museums open at night, free of charge. The committee approved a resolution requesting that the state legislature levy a tax sufficient to meet the additional expenses.

The museums currently are seeking to iron out difficulties caused by the Supreme court's invalidation of the tax levy for their support. The court has ruled that the levy law, on the books since 1893, is improperly worded. An attempt to cure the defects will be made at the forthcoming special session of the legislature. The proposed increase to cover night opening of the museums is expected to be advanced at that time.

The Shedd acquarium and Field museum reported to the council committee yesterday that keeping open at night is inexpedient because of added cost. The Chicago Historical society said the public had not cooperated when the night experiment was tried. The Art institute reported it would cost an additional $238 a day to keep it open from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

Five of Family of Six Die as Car Plunges Into Creek

Union Springs, Ala., Jan. 18 (AP).—Five members of a family of six drowned late today when their automobile plunged from a bridge into Spring creek, about 10 miles south of here. The dead were listed by Bullock County Coroner F. B. Wilson as Columbus W. Cole and his four children. Mrs. Cole was the only member of the family to survive.

MIDWEST REPUBLICAN STATE CHAIRMEN WILL MEET IN CITY SUNDAY

Republican state chairmen from midwest states are to meet in the Union League club Sunday noon for a regional conference on party affairs.

The meeting is to deal with methods of organizing for the impending campaign. No individual presidential candidacies or factions are to be discussed according to the invitations. Instead, the meeting is expected to be a round-up of what issues seem predominant in midwest states, with a view to crystalizing opposition to New Deal policies for the presidential election.

It was reported that A. K. Stiles, Illinois state chairman, had sent out the invitations after consultation with Republicans from other states.

The last important prenational convention roundup, it was recalled was the famous grassroots convention of June, 1935. Its originator was Justus L. Johnson of Aurora, ex-state chairman. He got his idea at the Founders' day celebration in Kansas Jan. 29 that year, anniversary of that state's admission to the Union, and took the name grassroots from a speech of John Hamilton, now Republican national chairman. The rally, held in Springfield, brought in more than 6,000 delegates and 20,000 visitors from ten states in the breadbasket region. Its aim was to formulate the party views prevalent in the midwest on national affairs.

SCOTCH WITH A STORY

Capt. Harold A. White's next adventure story is entitled "Crime and Punishment in Abyssinia" Watch for it.

There is no end of wonders in Northern Sweden. One finds snow in the middle of June and a brilliant sun at midnight. Among those blue-white, snow-covered hills are found the hardy descendants of the Vikings. Sportsmen by tradition and training, the Swedes seem to have been born on skis. According to Captain White, the most exciting of Swedish winter sports is "tolkning". But he warns you not to try it unless you are as comfortable on skis as you are in shoes. All you do is find a high-stepping, high-spirited horse, get on your skis, and hold on for dear life. But if you cannot enjoy tolkning in the midnight sun of Sweden, here's a way to add to your winter pleasure. Biting frost and icy winds make White Horse all the more welcome. So learn how much fun it is to come out of the cold to the warm enjoyment of a glass of White Horse. For there is the good cheer of a bright fireside in each smooth sip of this world-famous Scotch. Stop at your favorite bar or package store today and call for White Horse, the perfect winter Scotch. Match it if you can!

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage, Cynthia Brentiford, fashion artist, is sentenced to 18 months in prison under the name of Clara Brown—unknowingly an accomplice in crime with Rory Clarke. Unaware of the disaster, her fiancé, Michael Alloway, is on his way from Malta for the wedding. At Honebyker, Cynthia's childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, is a prison wardress. Bessie manages to change places with Cynthia and let Cynthia have her two weeks' leave as a wardress and marry Michael. After a stolen fortnight of happiness, Cynthia persuades Michael to go back to Malta alone, pretending she has to have an operation and will join him later. Back in prison Cynthia discovers she is going to have a baby but determines not to have it born in prison. Bent on blackmail Rory Clarke gets an interview with her in the guise of her solicitor. Cynthia manages to steal a wardress' uniform and escape. In her flat, she finds Michael's sister Marion, who has been worried by Cynthia's silence. Cynthia has to think quickly to explain.

INSTALMENT XI.

THE UNIFORM.

Cynthia knew that she must be consistent about that lapse of memory.

"You'll say I behaved like a fool, Marion," she said. "But you can't understand how frightening it is when—when you can't remember things. You're afraid of telling people you can't remember. You're afraid of almost anything."

"I can understand that. It would terrify me."

"It did terrify me. I ran out of the place as if some one were trying to keep me in, tho I could have walked out in the ordinary way. I just ran. And I don't know exactly where I went. I wandered about and presently I came to an open space—I see now that it was Regent's park, tho at the time I didn't care what it was. I'd left the paths and was in a deserted part when a woman in a queer kind of uniform—this—stepped from behind a tree. Yes, I remember it was by that plantation not very far from the sports pavilion. She stood in front of me and she said: 'I want your clothes, but I'll give you mine in exchange. We can change in that plantation without any one seeing us.' I tried to pass on but she gripped my arm roughly. At the same time she showed me an awful little knife and she said she'd stab me if I didn't do what she told me."

"How awful!"

"It was awful. I suppose I could have ran away, but I felt I hadn't the strength to do any scuffling. And I don't think I was very clear headed. Anyhow, we got into the plantation and we—changed. And here I am."

"How awful!" repeated Marion. The girl, Cynthia guessed, was hovering on the brink of disbelief and was pushed into belief only by the fact that in Marion's mind there could be no possible reason for the invention of such a tale.

"Somebody else's clothes—ugh!" said Cynthia. "I'm going to have a bath and change."

"While you're doing that I'll cable Michael that you're all right, and I'll add that you're writing him and that you have good news, shall I?"

"Yes, please. You needn't leave the flat, you can do it all on the telephone."

A quarter to four. With one eye on the time, Cynthia bathed and dressed in her own clothes. At five Rory Clarke would be outside the prison with his rope ladder. He would assume that she had failed to get into the yard. It was not very likely that he would thereupon come to the flat, but she decided to be out of it as soon as possible.

"You'll get a huge telephone bill," smiled Marion as Cynthia emerged from the bathroom. "I've also been ringing up mother. I just told her you were all right and would tell her later why you hadn't written, and I added there was good news."

"Thanks, dear. I'm so sorry you've had all this trouble about me. But you do see I couldn't help it?"

"Of course I do, Cynthia! Mother said she hopes you'll come back with me tomorrow, at least for a few days."

"I'd love that," said Cynthia. Devonshire was a long way from London and Rory Clarke. "A few days in the country—"

She broke off as there came a knock on the door. She opened it to the porter, who looked in amazement from one to the other.

"Well, I never!" he exclaimed. "I just came up to see if Miss Alloway 'ere wanted anything——"

"Hello, Wadstoke!" cut in Cynthia. "I haven't seen you for some time. Funny thing, wasn't it, that Miss Alloway came to look for me and found me waiting for her in the flat! You might come up in half an hour to put some things in a taxi for me." She handed him a 10 shilling note, her change from the taxi fare. "I daresay you've been doing a lot of little jobs for me, too, while I've been moving about."

"Thank you kindly, miss. Glad to see you're looking so well. I'll be up in half an hour."

When he had gone Cynthia became aware that Marion was looking at her oddly.

"You weren't in the flat when I came up, Cynthia."

"No, now I come to think of it I wasn't," agreed Cynthia indifferently.

"Then—how did you get in? You hadn't a bag or a key—and he didn't let you in?"

"The fire escape, dear," she said as if it were a joint secret.

"But why?"

"Nerves!" said Cynthia. "Marion, don't cross-question me. You'll find I've done lots and lots of perfectly asinine things. I've been jolly near a nervous breakdown and I want to forget it."

"I'm sorry, I just wondered——"

"Listen, you're staying with me tonight, Marion, and we're going to do ourselves proud. This place is higgledy-piggledy. I'll just pack a few things and we'll put up at the Chelverton. I've been cooped up so long I feel like a spot of gaiety."

"It sounds nice," agreed Marion. "I left a dressing case at Paddington, so I'm afraid we'll have to collect that first. O, and I phoned Scotland Yard that I've found you. And they said they were glad and thought it would be all right, as these cases generally are. I didn't say anything about that woman attacking you in Regent's park."

"But what will you do about the uniform?"

"Dump it somewhere and say nothing. And if you don't mind, dear, I'd rather you told nobody."

"Very well," said Marion.

Most of Cynthia's clothing was still packed from her honeymoon days. In time she remembered her checkbook.

She made a parcel of "the Walters" uniform. At about 5 o'clock—at about the exact time when Rory Clarke was throwing a rope ladder over the wall of Honebyker—she was depositing the parcel in the cloakroom at Paddington. She stood some distance from Marion, who was reclaiming her suitcase.

Then, after stopping at the Woman Artists' club to cash a check, the two young women registered at the Chelverton hotel.

It was a jolly evening. Cynthia gave way to her good spirits. If occasionally she surmised a look of doubt in Marion's eyes, she would not let herself think of it. In Cynthia was the glow of success. She had taken a bold course, surmounting tremendous obstacles, and could not believe that anything could now defeat her.

Before she went to bed she wrote an affectionate note to Michael.

"So sorry I haven't written lately, darling, but I've felt very low-ish. Now I'm ever so much better and this evening I went to the Gaiety with Marion." Then she told him her great news. It was a letter that might have been written by any happy wife troubled only by the fact of her husband's absence.

This done, she wrapped a pound note round the cloakroom ticket and sent both anonymously to "the Walters" at Honebyker. She thought it a fair rent to pay for the use of the uniform.

YOU'LL FIND IT EASY TO CARVE A PORTERHOUSE

A Steak Always Is Sliced with the Grain.

Any porterhouse steak worth the time it takes to broil it to brown surfaced, pink fleshed goodness is big enough and thick enough to be carved.

A steak is one cut of meat the carver slices with the grain. Since the fibers in steak are short and the meat extra tender, it isn't necessary that serving pieces be cut across the grain. And since even a thick porterhouse is seldom more than two inches thick, it would be pretty difficult to cut it across the grain, parallel to the cut surface.

The carver's first step is to remove the bone from the steak. Carving is a little more convenient if the bone end of the meat is placed to the right on the platter.

The carver cuts around the bone, using the tip of the knife and keeping as close to the bone as possible. The bone should be lifted to one side of the platter before the carver begins slicing the meat.

With the fork still in position in the left end of the steak, slices about one inch wide are cut straight across both muscles. Since each person should receive a portion of tenderloin and a portion of the wider muscle, it may be necessary to cut thinner slices from the tenderloin.

The flank end of the steak is not usually served, but is left to be used up in disguised form at a second meal. But when it is necessary to use it for second portions, it is carved across the width.

A sirloin steak is carved like a porterhouse. In a pinbone sirloin steak, it is a good idea to have the pinbone removed at the market.

MOLASSES AND SULPHUR STILL SPRING REMEDY

The old-fashioned sulphur 'n' molasses remedy may be out of vogue, but there's no denying that high grade molasses is rich in iron content. So use plenty of it in your cooking and help the family to avoid that rundown feeling next spring.

Spread slices of bread with plenty of molasses for the youngsters' afterschool snack, or combine the bread and molasses in a tasty dessert like this one.

MOLASSES BROWN BETTY

[Serves six]

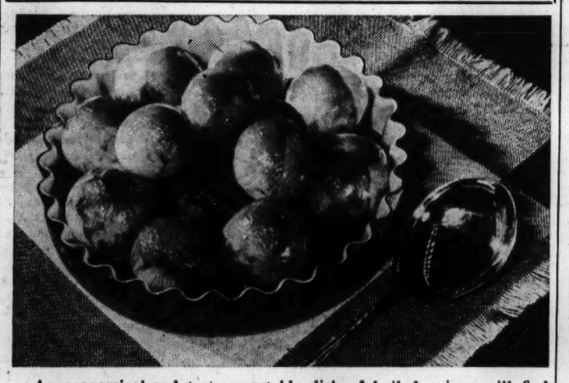
2 tablespoons butter
2 eggs, beaten
¼ cup sugar
½ cup molasses
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 quart pared, sliced apples
2 cups fine, dry bread crumbs

Melt butter. Combine with beaten eggs, sugar, molasses, salt, and cinnamon. Stir in the fruit. Put a layer of crumbs into the bottom of a well buttered baking dish, cover with a layer of fruit. Repeat until all the materials are used, having crumbs on top. Dot with bits of butter. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 45 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Baked Spiced Oranges Used to Garnish Meat

Baked spiced oranges, decorated with a maraschino cherry or a glazed cranberry, make an attractive meat garnish. Choose large or medium sized fruit, one orange for every two persons. Cut oranges in halves; loosen segments in each half with a sharp knife or scissors. Top each half with one teaspoon brown sugar, one-half teaspoon butter, and sprinkle with nutmeg and cinnamon. Bake in moderate oven [350 degrees] for about 45 minutes or until well heated and butter, sugar, and spices have penetrated into the fruit. Serve hot.

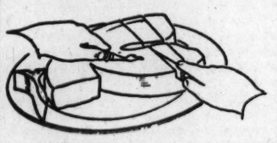
Tasty Vegetable Dish



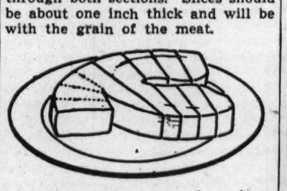
An economical and tasty vegetable dish of boiled onions will find new favor when served with flavorsome catsup sauce. Just cook medium sized onions in a rather large quantity of boiling salted water until tender. Heat together equal portion of tomato catsup and butter, allowing about 2 tablespoons per serving and pour over onions when ready to serve.

Carving Steaks

1. First step in carving a porterhouse or sirloin steak is to remove the T-shaped bone.



2. After the bone is removed the meat can be sliced straight across through both sections. Slices should be about one inch thick and will be with the grain of the meat.



3. After each guest has been served a piece from the tenderloin along with a piece from the larger muscle, second portions are cut from the flank end. These servings are cut across the width of the section.

NEW WAYS TO USE PASTRY CRUSTS BESIDES IN PIES

If you're an expert at turning out rich, flaky pastry crusts, or if you're still slightly doubtful about the success of your fruit and custard pies, do a little experimenting with your pastry. Baking powder biscuit dough, as well as pastry crust, can be used in a dozen ways besides in pies.

1. Use it to make fruit cobblers, served hot or cold with cream.
2. Make fruit dumplings of the pastry, and serve with dessert sauce.
3. Top meat and vegetable stews or chicken pies with the pastry, and bake until crust is golden brown.
4. Make turnovers by cutting pastry into 4 inch squares, place a tablespoon of filling on half of each piece, fold over and press edges together with a fork before baking.
5. Place finely chopped fruit, nuts, or mincemeat on rolled-out pastry, roll up and slice to make "pinwheels."
6. Cut pieces of crust into strips and bake to serve with soup course.

ECONOMY MEAT CUTS ARE REAL BARGAINS NOW

Stewing Beef, Shoulder Roasts Head List.

BY MARY MEADE.

In this overshoe weather a juicy beef stew with brown potatoes and whole carrots, dripping gravy, would go well on any man's table. And well it may for the economy meat cuts are basking in the bargain limelight.

Always money savers, the less expensive cuts are a particularly good buy this week-end. Some of them, such as fresh pork shoulder roast and rolled lamb shoulder, are swank enough to be out in the company of other Sunday dinner victuals. Also there are Swiss and round steaks, chuck roasts, smoked butt, "cali" or picnic hams, slab and sliced bacon and enough hamburger to keep the tobaggan and skating parties going until spring thaw.

Pork Loin a Good Buy.

Not quite in the economy cut class, but enticingly low priced just now are pork loin roast and leg of lamb.

Most economy meat cuts are cooked by braising—that is they are first seared to a crispy brown—and then covered and allowed to steam over low heat or in the oven for an hour or more, until the meat is tender enough to fall apart at the touch of a fork.

Because meats cooked in this manner always come to the table with plenty of rich, taste tempting gravy, plain boiled and buttered vegetables seem to be the best accompaniment. And there are plenty from which to make your choice this week-end.

Vegetables Kind to Budget.

Buttered broccoli, cauliflower or brussels sprouts should go well with one of these smoked pork buys. And how about a little garden fresh spinach, creamed carrots or mint buttered peas with your Sunday lamb? For the Swiss steaks and beef pot roasts, select from celery, onions, turnips. All these vegetables are guaranteed to be kind to your budget.

Material for salad course is not so limited as you might think. Lettuce, celery, green peppers, carrots, cauliflower and cabbage are a few of the vegetables you may serve as salad bowl vitamins in the raw.

Fruits Many and Low Priced.

And there are tangy fruits that take well to a dip in the salad dressing, too. Jonathan apples took a little price ride upward this week, but other apple varieties are cheap as ever and just right for salads and desserts. Right now citrus fruits are low priced for the season and this is their season for being low priced. All of which should mean a superbuy of some sort. Avocadoes are available, Anjou pears haven't changed in price for months, and there are still a few western grapes around.

If you're hankering for a sight of the first robin and other signs of spring, try a dish of rhubarb sauce or a strawberry shortcake. Both fruits are now available. The rhubarb is being widely retailed at not too purse straining prices. And it is delicious.

But don't spend all your money on the perishables. You can't afford to with such penny saving canned goods sales going on in every store. Prices on canned fruits, vegetables and fruit juices will urge you to restock your pantry shelves.

POT CANNOT CALL KETTLE BLACK IF CHOSEN WISELY

For Both Are Colorful and Durable Now.

BY RUTH COOK.

Pots and pans are the kitchener's tools. Like any other tools they should be selected for the particular job they have to perform.

Selection of kitchen utensils would be easier if one could just pick out a preferred style and a particular material and order a matched set as one would buy golf clubs. But certain materials and certain shapes are better for some purposes than others.

A good general rule to follow is to select heavy utensils for long cooking processes and light ones for quicker processes.

Study the Requirements.

Flat bottoms and straight sides are best for all utensils that are to be used on top of the stove. Corners and edges should be well rounded on the inside for easy cleaning.

Handles must be firmly attached. Examine them to see that they are not so long as to be awkward nor so heavy as to overbalance the pan. The angle at which the handle is attached affects the comfort and efficiency with which the pan may be used. Handle balance is particularly important in teakettles and coffee and tea pots from which liquids are to be poured.

Lids should fit smoothly and securely and the lid handle should not be so short that fingers are apt to be burned when it is used.

Great-grandmother's kitchen more than likely was well stocked with iron and copper utensils. Both metals still are used to good advantage.

Copper Coming Back.

Partly because of its attractive bright color and partly because it is such an excellent heat conductor, copper is returning to favor. Many utensils made of slow or uneven heating metals have copper bottoms or an outer coating of copper. Copper is difficult to clean, however, and acid foods attack it.

Cast iron is heavy and somewhat difficult to handle, but it is hard to beat for certain uses—popover pans, for example. It is an excellent heat retainer and is ideal for slow cooking. It is used chiefly in skillets, large kettles, and Dutch ovens which improve with use.

Of all the metals employed in making kitchenware, aluminum probably makes itself most useful. Heavy cast aluminum has been found to be a lighter weight substitute for iron in skillets and large kettles. Sheet aluminum, depending upon its thickness, makes ideal utensils for almost any use. Aluminum in very thin sheets is used to make molds, funnels, cutters, and similar utensils. It is best not to use utensils made of thin aluminum in the oven as the contents are apt to scorch. Heavier sheet aluminum makes fine baking and sauce pans.

Heats Evenly and Quickly.

Aluminum heats evenly, is comparatively light in weight, and neither rusts nor chips. It does become stained when anything alkaline is cooked in it. Scouring will remove this. Salt will pit even the best grade aluminum if food is left in it for any length of time. Scouring prevents pitting.

Enamelware is easy to keep clean, heats and cools rapidly, and is comparatively inexpensive. Often it is extremely good looking, too. But enamelware does chip. Poor quality enamel will be stained by acids and alkalies. Best grade heavy enamel does not chip if given ordinary care.

Use a wooden spoon for stirring foods in enamel containers, and never allow an enamel pan to be empty when over direct heat. Enamelware makes very fine saucepans, double boilers, and coffee makers.

Tinware heats very quickly and evenly. It is usually made of steel or iron, coated with a film of pure tin. It makes excellent baking pans that produce an evenly browned product. Tin actually shortens the baking period of some foods, such as muffins.

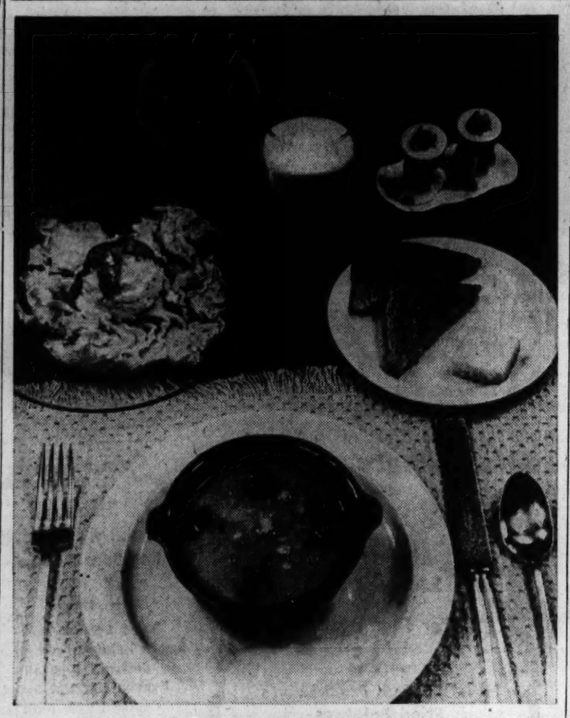
Glass Now Resists Flame.

Glass is now being tempered so that it can be used over a direct flame. It is excellent for baking dishes. It cannot withstand quick changes of temperature, however, and a hot glass utensil should never be placed in cold water. It is easy to keep clean.

Earthenware, like glass, makes an excellent baking dish. But, like glass, it cannot stand rapid changes in temperature. A nonabsorbent glaze guaranteed not to crack at high temperatures is best.

Rather expensive but extremely durable and easy to keep clean are utensils made of stainless steel. Stainless steel rarely needs polishing and almost never dents. It withstands intense heat but changes color when overheated. Stainless steel, however, does not heat evenly and must be watched to prevent food scorching. Some stainless steel utensils are now being made with copper bottoms which heat evenly.

The Season for Soup



Cold weather is soup weather, and it would be hard to find a more nourishing and filling combination than cream of navy bean soup. To make it, cook ½ pound of beans, which have been soaked overnight, and 1 teaspoon grated onion, in 4 cups water. Cook for 1 to 2 hours. Put thru coarse sieve. Add 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, and ⅛ teaspoon pepper and heat thoroly.

ONE LUXURIOUS NIGHT SUFFICES TRIBUNE WRITER

Returns to Simple Life of Florida Tourist.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 18.—Checking out of an ocean front hotel where the top daily rate is $21 double and $19 single, today ended a 24 hour dip into a phase of Florida resort life that might better be reported by society and fashion writers than by this driver of the Tribune's road car.

A vacation in an expensive hotel is doubtless great for those who like it. From our room in blonde woodwork with beds made up as studio couches in the day time, there was a view of the cabanas, sand beach, bright parasols, tall palms, and foaming surf. The local newspapers advertise more night clubs, horse races, and dog races than found in a Chicago newspaper. Cocktail lounges are more numerous than gas stations.

Back to the Simple Life.

But the Tribune road car is leaving all of this to join the multitude of motor tourists who dress as they want to, enjoy simple and inexpensive pleasures, fraternize with each other and have fun with modest funds.

There must be some other men who don't care for a gay pair of creased slacks with a fancy sport coat. But you don't see them on the porches or in the lobbies in an afternoon at the expensive hotels.

Women, too, dress for their parts in this winter resort scene—some in street pajamas, some in summer informals, but almost all in some variation of the costumes worn in society page pictures from Florida published in northern newspapers.

At the lower priced hotels close to the expensive ones, and favored for this proximity, the prevailing style is even more flamboyant.

Land of Sunshine Is Chilly.

In Miami last night, with its mob of not so fashionable tourists, 80 per cent of the women wore topcoats over their light dresses, slacks or pajamas. There's a point to this.

At most of the 173 hotels on this off-shore island of 20,000 summer population you wear hot weather clothes regardless of the temperature. The high here yesterday was 73 degrees; the low, 52 degrees.

Sun bathers on the beaches [few go in the water] have the same disregard for temperatures. The visitors cultivate tans in weather that would discourage attendance at Chicago's beaches. Those convas shelters you see in Florida beach pictures are for protection from the breeze, not the sun.

Illinois Educator Given Columbia University Post

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 18 [Special].—Wiley G. Brooks, former president of Illinois Wesleyan university here has been named research assistant on the staff of Columbia university, New York City. Brooks was assigned to the university's survey of the Pittsburgh, Pa., public school system. Before becoming president of Wesleyan, he was for 13 years superintendent of schools at Burlington, Ia., and president of Burlington Junior college.

VARIATION ON AN OLD QUICKIE DISH: SCRAMBLED EGGS

Scrambled eggs have solved many a hurry-up menu problem. And here's yet another scrambled egg dish that is ready to serve on short notice. Crisp, chopped bacon may be used in place of the ham, if you prefer.

SCRAMBLED OYSTERS AND HAM.

4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons minced onions
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 cup chopped oysters
3 tablespoons flour
½ cup cooked ham, chopped
2 cups milk
2 eggs, beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika

Melt butter in skillet and add the onions, parsley, and oysters. Simmer for 5 minutes. Blend in flour, add ham and milk, cook slowly, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add remaining ingredients, mixing well. Cook for a minute or two and serve immediately.

Toasted Cinnamon Bars
Tasty Tidbits for a Tea

Toasted cinnamon bars are a dainty accompaniment to afternoon tea on a wintry day. To make nine of these tasty bites, spread three slices of bread with softened butter. Sprinkle with a mixture of sugar and cinnamon [one teaspoon cinnamon to one-half cup of sugar]. Top each with a second slice of bread. Press firmly together. Trim off crusts and cut each sandwich into three finger length sections. Brush outsides lightly with softened butter. Roll each bar in the sugar-cinnamon mixture. Toast quickly under broiler or in hot oven. Serve warm.

FRENCH FRIED POTATO BALLS WITH MEAT DISH

French fried potato balls look as good as they taste and make a fine garnish for a meat loaf or roast. You can use leftover mashed potatoes in them if you like.

FRENCH FRIED POTATO BALLS.

2 cups mashed potatoes
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup grated cheese
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains cayenne
2 egg yolks

Mix ingredients and beat well. Shape into small balls and roll in flour, egg, and crumbs. Fry in hot fat at 370 degrees, or hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread in 40 to 50 seconds. Remove from fat when golden brown, and drain before serving.

Leslie Thorne Pierce to Be Bride in N. Y.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MANY messages of congratulations will be sent east tomorrow to Mrs. Leslie Thorne Pierce and Palmer Kountze of New York, who are being married tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the bride's home, 245 East 61st street, New York.

About 30 relatives and intimate friends will attend the ceremony and the reception that will follow. The bride, who lived in Chicago as a girl, is a daughter of Charles Hallett Thorne of San Rafael Heights, Cal.

Mrs. Pierce's brother, Hallett Thorne, and his wife, the former Elizabeth Andrews of Chicago, live in Pasadena. Neither they nor the senior Mr. Thorne will be in New York for the ceremony. Mrs. Pierce spent Christmas with her father and brother in California.

Mrs. Robert MacLean of New York will attend the bride and Robert Dean will be best man. Mr. and Mrs. Kountze will motor to Palm Beach and then fly to Havana and Jamaica. They will live in New York.

Chicagoans to Attend Keena Wedding Today.

The Keith Carpenters and the Kellogg Fairbanks will be in Detroit today for the marriage of Mrs. Carpenter's brother, William M. Dunn, and Miss Aileen Keena. Mr. Fairbank and Mr. Carpenter will be ushers. The ceremony will take place in the First Presbyterian church in Grosse Pointe.

Miss Keena's mother, Mrs. James T. Keena, lives in Grosse Pointe. Mr. Dunn's parents, the Morrill Dunns of Detroit, formerly lived in Chicago. The Carpenters will spend the week-end with the Dunns.

Arthur Cummings Will Celebrate 21st Birthday.

Miss Carolyn Chapman, Miss Grace Shumway, and Miss Edith Cowles, who are students at Vassar, will go to New York tomorrow night to help Arthur Cummings celebrate his 21st birthday. Young Mr. Cummings was born on Jan. 21, but it will be midnight—and therefore the 21st—before he tries to blow out the candles on a cake that will be served to the group in the Persian room at the Plaza.

Arthur's mother, Mrs. Walter J. Cummings, went east yesterday. Mr. Cummings is joining her today. They will take their young guests to dinner at the St. Regis and to see James Thurber's hit show, "The Male Animal," before going on to the Plaza. Young Mr. Cummings is a senior at Yale.

Teas to Follow Concert Today.

A cup of hot tea at the Cliff Dwellers or the Cordon or any of the clubs that customarily serve tea following the Friday Symphony concerts will taste especially good this afternoon.

Constance Bennett, who is appearing in "Easy Virtue" at the Selwyn theater, will be the especial guest at the Cordon. Priscilla Carver, pianist, will give a musical program.

Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr. will be the Cliff Dwellers' hostess. Assisting her will be Mrs. Herbert Kennedy, Mrs. Gorton Fauntleroy, Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood, and Mrs. Ogden West.

Tea will be served also by Mme. Giovanni Cardelli. She will open her home at 1448 Lake Shore drive for a meeting of the women's committee of the Opera Foundation Fund.

Casino to Hold Cotillion Tonight.

The Casino's Cotillion of last winter was so successful that a number of members made reservations then for this winter's party. The party will be held tonight. More than 160 have reserved places for an 8 o'clock dinner. The dancing will follow.

Mrs. John R. Winterbotham wasn't able to secure a promise from any one person to act as cotillion leader. However, several members have promised to help call the numbers, along with the orchestra leader.

Barrett Wendell Jr. will not be there to give his services, however, for he and Mrs. Wendell have gone east.

N. Y. Fair to Show Mrs. Thorne's Rooms.

The rotunda of the Contemporary Arts building at New York's World Fair will be the next temporary home of Mrs. James Ward Thorne's fascinating miniature rooms. The rooms were a great attraction at the San Francisco fair. They are in crates now, ready to be sent to New York.

The Italy America society has cards out to a talk by Count Giovanni Cardelli at 8:30 o'clock Monday night, Jan. 29, at the Casino. Count Cardelli will speak on "Verdi and the 18th Century in Italy." There will be music.

Miss Elizabeth Day McCormick, nationally known collector, will be the speaker at a meeting of the art group of the University of Chicago Settlement league at 2:15 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon in the library of Ida Noyes hall. Her subject will be "Adventures of a Collector." The drama section of the league will be guests at the meeting.

THE STAGE

"Thanks for My Wife," a new comedy by Alan Dinehart, will open an engagement at the Selwyn theater Sunday, Feb. 4. Mr. Dinehart, Glenda Farrell, and Lyle Talbot, all three of whom are motion picture celebrities, will be featured in the cast.

Next Monday's performance of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" has been canceled to allow Raymond Massey to be present at the White House for a private showing of the film version of the play. Patrons holding tickets for Monday evening may exchange them at the Grand Opera house box office. The management promises that there will be no further interruption of the schedule.

In Front Views and Profiles you say you wonder if Lincoln biographer Carl Sandburg and Lincolniana collector Oliver Barrett talked about Lincoln when they dined together a few evenings ago. They would—and about Robert Burns, too. Barrett knows as much about Burns as Sandburg does about Lincoln. The President loved the songs and ballads of Burns, and the poet had a Lincoln in mind when he wrote, "A Man's a Man for A' That."

Smart Designs Put Galoshes in Fashion News

BY REA SEEGER.

A good cold snap sends the average shopper out for a comfortable pair of galoshes, that is, if she can't excavate last season's models. The present assortment of good looking, streamlined units designed for the comfort of the ankles is more than satisfactory, even to the fastidious soul.

Glove fitting neatness, deep and well planned heels, warmth without bulk and clumsiness, these modern affairs have everything!

Dress parade ideas feature soft velvet with fur trim. Fussy people will like the gum-shoe effects of stuff that shines like patent leather, and color experts will O.K. the blacks and browns that go with the same shades in the coats and suits for street and daytime wear. Snowy white numbers give the right footnote finish for evening and party clothes, so every one should be happy.

For the out of doors winter sports enthusiasts, those who watch from the sidelines and those who take active part in the fun, there are some new foot warmers called "stadium boots" . . . good, sturdy cold weather foot protectors that are frankly cut and made for comfort. Lined with lambs' wool, fitted over the instep with a flat zipper, and trimmed with a fleecy band of make believe fur at the top, they are perfect finds of the season.

There's nothing particularly fancy or dress-up about them, but they're feather weight, casually smart [like loosely fitted tweeds], and they'll keep you snug and warm during the coldest cold spell.

Fashion photograph . . . ready for immediate wear . . . pastel colored daytime dresses in soft, clinging jersey. Designed for southern resort wardrobes, they also make warm but fresh looking new dresses to wear as contrast under fur coats or fur trimmed heavy cloth coats. This model has the new front fullness, new skirt pockets, and the narrowest of belts, metal loops thru which the material is laced.

Business Gain Is Reflected in Charity Report

Evidence of improved business conditions in Chicago were reported yesterday by Dexter Cummings, president of the United Charities, at the annual meeting of the organization's board of directors in the Harris Trust building.

Cummings said more than 400 charity clients, formerly classed as unemployable, found private employment in 1939. In addition, the list of contributors to the agency was larger by 400 than in 1938.

Last year, Cummings reported, the organization spent $913,000 in caring for 66,500 persons. This number was about 4 per cent more than received aid in the previous year. Total expenditures last year were $30,000 less than in 1938, however. This was because many of the 66,500 received only temporary aid, provided last summer when the relief budget was cut to 65 per cent of minimum standards. The present relief budget is 80 per cent of minimum needs.

The highest expenditure of $480,855 went for family relief, consisting of purchases of food, coal, clothing and other necessities for destitute families. The Legal Aid bureau spent $49,506 in handling matters for 18,500 clients, and it collected $76,377 for litigants in court cases.

Cummings and all other officers were reëlected for the coming year. They are Sewell L. Avery, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, and Edward B. McDougal Jr., vice presidents; Solomon B. Smith, treasurer, and Mrs. Leroy Berdeau, secretary.

Officials of the National Canners association and the Canning Machinery and Supplies association announced yesterday that they have asked their members to send one or more cases of canned food each to Chicago to be distributed to poor families by the Council of Social Agencies. The associations will open their convention in the Stevens hotel tomorrow.

Crocheted Chapeau Flowers

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

The millinery trend toward small hats has brought out all types of artificial flowers and nosegays to be worn with these pert little headpieces. Crêpe, linen, cotton, or fine wools may be used for these flowers, which are perched atop a hat. Enough may be made to form a hat, if desired. A fine wire makes the flowers independent of any particular type of yarn. The size of the flower is determined by the thread and crochet hook used. The most important point is that a consistent stitch must be followed to cover the wire evenly. Angora is an ideal choice for midseason hats, and the brighter the color the more fashionable the result.

For instructions in crocheting the flowers, No. X-956, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Standouts.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 18.—There are certain scenes in pictures that pack a wallop of such impact that long after you've forgotten other scenes you can warm your hands at the fire of these standout passages.

"Of Mice and Men" had one that is unforgettable . . . The scene is the bunkhouse when Granville Bates, annoyed at the smell of the old dog, persuades Roman Bohnen to let him destroy the old sheep dog. . . . To Bohnen the dog represents more than four legs and a wagging tail: The dog represents the man's youth and all the pleasant memories that were associated with it.

To Bohnen, the threat of death to the dog because he no longer is useful is terrifying because it foreshadows what will happen figuratively to Bohnen when he is no longer able to perform a day's work. . . . Above and beyond these things, the dog is the only thing on earth in which the man has a stake of friendship and affection.

Terror-stricken, the old man drops his head to the furry neck and shoves the dog under the bed, and then looks appealingly at Charlie Bickford, the foreman, who can stay the execution.

Bickford, who is just, deliberates while he cuts the cards. . . . "The dog is no good even to himself," he says. . . . "Maybe it would be better to kill him." . . . So the executioner goes to his bunk and gets a gun and leads the dog outside.

The dog looks hard at his master. Bohnen, unable to speak, looks back at him wordlessly. . . . A few seconds later there is the muffled noise of a revolver shot. . . . Bohnen, crouched on his bunk, convulsively rolls over and buries his head in the pillow.

To any one who ever has owned a dog that scene will cut as sharply as a knife, because the old man's affection for his scurvy old hound is a case history that could be penned for all dog owners. . . . Even Scrooge would have been overpowered by a dog because these wordless but eloquent animals can hurdle any barrier.

Thorobred or mongrel, it makes no difference, because in quality of attachment and loyalty each dog is thorobred. . . . Fealty is a common possession. . . . Not long ago our Scotty had a litter of pups, father unknown. . . . As a result, the puppies have feet and ears that bear no relation to the Scotty tradition. . . . Yet when they sit in the driveway, as we leave the house, one on each side of the mother, the three tails wagging furiously, they form a picture which rivals the canvas of any master you can call to mind.

The sparkling eyes, the wagging tails, the cocked heads, the air of tension—a dog, for all his wordlessness, can project a message of affection with greater eloquence than any actor. . . . So the young lady who sat next to me at "Of Mice and Men," when the old dog was led out of the bunkhouse, streamed tears and when she got home it seemed to me that she hugged the funny-looking little Scotty puppies even more tightly than usual.

In "Remember the Night" there are standout scenes. . . . At the piano in the parlor when MacMurray sits down at his mother's request and fingers "The End of a Perfect Day." . . . Sterling Holloway sings it. . . . It is amazing to "feel" the quiet that steals over the theater at this interruption of the comedy.

Director Mitch Leisen swings his camera from one face to another—the mother, the aunt, Barbara Stanwyck—and each expression sharpens the dramatic value. . . . Every piano in every parlor of the country has played the same song at some such family gathering, so the scene rings true, and sincerity is a "must" if you would stir emotions deeply.

In "Balalaika" there are two such scenes. . . . The passage in the trenches when the Russian noblemen are drawn outside to hear the Austrians singing "Holy Night" as a Christmas greeting.

The scene in the cemetery when Ilona Massey talks to her dead mother. . . . Miss Massey didn't want to play the scene because she didn't believe it would ring true, but agreed to play it only when her coach, Lucille Burns, said that it actually had happened in real life. . . . So she played the scene, simply and sincerely, and it registered.

"Gone with the Wind," despite the huge canvas on which it is, of necessity, painted, derives strength from scenes in which the camera is trained on individuals. . . . The scene, for instance, in which Gerald OHara tells Scarlett of the tremendous appeal of the soil on which "Tara" is built; the scene in which Scarlett, starving, plunges her hand into the dirt and wrenches free a carrot. . . . The strength of both scenes is enormous, had to be, because the technicolor photography of the scenes is magnificent and the scenes had to be powerful to hold their own.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

Even tho you have your nails manicured regularly by a professional, you have to keep a supply of nail beautifiers at home for the polish changes or repairs. It's not safe to be without your private supply of remover and nail enamel.

One of the polish houses has assembled a perfect little trio package that is invaluable when you are faced with the necessity of changing the polish coat. In a handy little box of shiny paper with a cellophane window they've packaged polish [in any one of a number of shades; take your pick], remover, and one of those marvelous base preparations that not only protect the nail but greatly prolong the wear of polish.

The polish is excellent. It stands up well and is of a consistency that makes it easy to apply. The array of shades is almost unbelievable. You can have anything you want, from pale pink to a moroccan red. The brushes are the good kind, too.

The remover is something extra special. It contains oil, which is very important. Anything that contributes, even infinitesmally, to keeping the nail and the cuticle healthily oiled is helpful. Instead of removing oil, as poor removers do, this replaces a little.

The base is one of our favorite nail preparations. It's a liquid, about the consistency of polish, very pale pink in the bottle but transparent on the nails. It contains wax, which has been found helpful in protecting nails from splitting. It should always be applied before polish and, if you want the coat to last a long time and to have a high luster, apply a second coat of the base over the enamel.

You'll find this set a tremendous help in keeping your nails well groomed and well cared for.

How Valentine Seals Prevent Heart Deaths

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Heart disease accounts for approximately one-third of the deaths in Chicago. Tentative figures from the board of health place deaths from organic heart disorders in 1939 at 12,319, or 342 to every 100,000 of the population. In 1938 there were 11,380 cardiac deaths. But heart deaths declined in 1939 in the nation.

Venice Vanderah and Nurse Gladys Brophil.

Mrs. Ruth Pearce McEldowney, executive director of the Chicago Heart association, declares the national report means that the public is becoming informed on cardiac diseases. And just as widespread knowledge of cause and treatment has brought sharp declines in the tubercular and syphilitic death rates, for example, so will it mean a decrease in the number of cardiac victims.

The work of the association is financed largely thru an annual sale of Valentine seals. This year's campaign opened on Jan. 3. Books of 100 heart seals are sold for $1. They may be obtained at the association office. Last year 90,000 stamps were sold, but that number must be increased appreciably this year if the organization is to continue on its present budget plan.

Children invalided by heart disease call for special attention from the association. Not quite three years ago Gladys Rogers Brophil took over a new service as occupational therapist. Last year Mrs. Brophil traveled 25,000 miles, making 1,315 visits to 78 children whom cardiac disorders had confined to their homes, most of them to their beds or wheel chairs. At present she has on her list 30 boys and girls, each of whom she visits every week.

The majority are in that strictly imposed long period of convalescence following rheumatic fever, a primary cause of heart ailments in children. Her task is to lighten the dull days with interesting occupations. She teaches weaving, painting, modeling, knitting, crocheting, and a dozen other useful, educational, or amusing arts and crafts.

Typical of the youngsters visited on her round of calls is Venice Vanderah, 2137 Belmont avenue.

Venice is 8—and energetic. Frankly, she is pretty disgusted with the way restrictions imposed by her disability have cramped her style. Every one thought she was cured after an attack of rheumatic fever in infancy, and then the whole thing happened again when she started to school. Her older brother, who has a genius for originating indoor games and organizing secret societies, helps. Venice is proud that he is proud that she is a swell tomboy. Mrs. Brophil's program is the safety valve at the Vanderah home.

Anis Fuleihan Piece Liked at First Hearing

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The climate of Chicago just now must contrast sensationally with that of his native Cyprus, but Anis Fuleihan, Syrian composer now living in America, was in town last night for the first local performance of his second piano concerto. He was brought to the stage of Orchestra hall to share with Beveridge Webster, Frederick Stock, and the Chicago Symphony orchestra the applause which the work had evoked.

He turned out to be a heavy set, serious looking man who did not fit very well the mental image which his piece may have created in the minds of some of his listeners. For the music was light of touch, fairly fast of pace, and generally blithe in character.

It is notoriously difficult to assess a work on first hearing. [The two qualities by which music stands or falls—its feeling content and the success with which this feeling content has been objectified in sound—are not fully apparent until after repeated hearings.] Yet after this single performance of the new concerto it is possible to say with confidence that its surface, at least, is exceedingly lovely.

Much of the credit for the excellent first impression belongs to Mr. Webster, the alertness of whose ear is guaranty enough that no unlovely sound shall ever issue from his piano. His playing had that silvery smoothness which can result only from a complete command of the music's technical difficulties.

The concerto poses no very dreadful listening problems. Its form is unconventional, certainly, but not illogical. And the work is definitly not "radical."

Later in the evening Mr. Webster returned to the stage for a performance of Liszt's "Totentanz," and proved conclusively that he understands the need for towering sonorities if music of this kind is to be made effective. Under his hands the piano took on the dire solemnity characteristic of the gloomy chant [the "Dies Irae"] on which the piece is based.

The purely orchestral portion of the program was made up of the overture to Mozart's "Der Schauspieldirektor," Debussy's "La Mer," and the Brahms-Haydn variations.

Serge Prokofieff, Russian composer and pianist who was scheduled to appear with the Chicago Symphony orchestra on Feb. 15 and 16, has been unable to leave his country and has canceled his American engagements.

Lovely Women Confide Their Resolutions for the New Year

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

As the bells pealed in the new year and rang out the old several of the glamorous and charming personalities in the musical world analyzed their beauty rituals and made these beauty resolutions.

Lotte Lehmann, lieder singer of the Metropolitan opera, says it's good psychologically and physically to look up, not down. This means that the corners of your mouth will always turn up, your head will be held high, and, as a result, your posture will be remarkably improved. This, in turn, gives you a looking-thru-rosy-glasses feeling which can't help making you radiant and beautiful.

Lily Pons, diminutive diva, whose soft brown tresses frame her face becomingly, says that diligent and faithful brushing is the secret of its sheen. She has resolved never to slip up on her allotted 100 strokes.

Marta Eggert's slender figure is flawless, and she has resolved to keep it that way by eating only one helping of everything and by walking whenever possible to keep not only her figure but her various appointments as well.

Ellen Ballon, Canada's foremost pianist, has decided to forego the luxury of a soft downy pillow and become a spartan when she retires by lying with her spine stretched out in a perfectly straight line from her toes to the top of her head. It relaxes you completely by removing every kink.

Gladys Swarthout, charming mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan opera, has decided that for her the best possible resolution is to change from a warm shower to a tingling cold shower each morning, come snow or shine or sleet or rain.

Elisabeth Rethberg, soprano of the Metropolitan opera, believes that mental aids to beauty renew a zest for living which lends sparkle and animation to one's face. She's resolved to preserve a calm, unruffled brow in the face of every upset and to make the most of every opportunity to seize a cat-nap.

Many Families Are Busy with Wedding Plans

Wedding plans are of paramount interest in many families. Miss Maud Bakke and Dr. Frank Wickes Blatchford Jr. are planning an April wedding. Miss Alice Jane Garnett and Charles Whiting Newton Jr., will be married in June. Miss Barbara Ann Kinney and Robert Owen Lehmann will be married some time soon.

The romance between Miss Garnett and Mr. Newton flourished at the University of Michigan, where she is a student in the school of architecture and he in the school of medicine. Miss Garnett, a third generation Chicagoan, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Garnett of Highland Park. Her grandfather, James M. Barnes, came here from Michigan in 1885 and has been living in Evanston for more than 50 years. Miss Garnett was graduated from the Roycemore school and from Northwestern university.

Mr. Newton's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newton of Wallace, Idaho. He attended the University of Washington in Seattle.

Blatchford-Bakke Nuptials in April.

Dr. Blatchford, a son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Blatchford of Winnetka, received his medical training at the Rush Medical college after being graduated from Harvard. He and Miss Bakke met while the young doctor was serving his internship at the Presbyterian hospital. Miss Bakke is a graduate of the hospital's nurses' training school. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hans T. Bakke of Highland Park.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Kenney to a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Lehmann of 3662 Lake Shore drive was made by her mother, Mrs. John C. Redmond of the Plaza hotel. Miss Kenney was educated at the Institut Collot in Paris and at the Warrenton Country Day school. Her fiancé was graduated from Yale last June.

Announce Marriage of Barbara Dodge.

Another romantic announcement comes from Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Farwell Dodge of Champaign, Ill. It is of the marriage of their daughter, Barbara, to Dr. Robert W. Vines. Dr. Vines, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Robert Vines of McCook, Neb., has been on the staff of the Billings hospital. He will go to the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., on April 1, following a trip to Honolulu with his bride.

Dr. Vines and the former Miss Dodge, whose father is a member of the faculty of the University of Illinois, were married on Jan. 6 in the Thorndike Hilton Memorial chapel.

Carey-Peard Nuptials Feb. 3.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage on Feb. 3 of Miss Jeannette Peard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Peard of Highland Park, to Walter J. Carey, son of Mrs. George Martin of Evanston. The ceremony will take place at Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park. After a short wedding trip Mr. Carey and his bride will be at home in a new house in Highland Park.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Family Needs Beds, Covers.

Miss M., a school teacher, has requested aid for a colored family living on the south side. Both the mother and father try to obtain work whenever possible, and their meagre earnings are supplemented by some relief. They are clean and intelligent, but their basement home is poorly equipped. One of their children is under observation for tuberculosis, two other have ulcers. They are anxious to secure several day beds, and they are also badly in need of warm bed coverings, pillows and dishes. Miss M. will be glad to call for offers, preferably on the south side.

Popular Two Piece Model

MISS' JACKET DRESS.

The two piece dress is never failing in popularity, especially with the younger set. This one for sizes up to 20 is as grand looking in silk as in woolen, and for trunks going south it should be made of linens and cottons, or pastel, lightweight woolens.

The jacket, snugly fitted, has a single row of buttons and a couple of high pockets, if you wish them. The collar at the high throatline is contrasting, detachable for laundering, and the shoulders are squared. You'll like the skirt, for it is comfortably flared without need of plaits, always rather of a bother, especially to the traveler.

Style No. 3123 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 2½ yards of 54 inch material, with ¼ yard of contrasting for long sleeved jacket and skirt; 1⅛ yards of 39 inch material for short sleeved jacket, and 2 yards for skirt.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Treat Child as an Intelligent Human Being

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

(Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

Here are two more suggestions, added to yesterday's, for dealing with the stubborn child:

Treat him as an intelligent human being; and

Grant him the gratification of every possible desire within the range of reason and understanding of his needs.

For the mother who may not have thought much about the real needs of children both of these statements need explaining.

Here are some of the ways in which you will show your respect for your child's intelligence:

You will ask him or her to do things, not order or command. And your voice and manner will be that of one friend to another, not that of a superior officer.

You will make clear, wherever reasonable, why you ask these things. After a while your child will have faith in the reasonableness of your requests. And in time you will be able to require unquestioning obedience where it is vital.

You will answer your children's questions about everything and anything you can.

The other suggestion, that he be given his way whenever possible, needs even more explaining, especially for those who have not thought about children's needs; while for those who have thought about them, but still are harboring old, hidebound ideas, the statement needs even more clearing up. Because, if you hold the general belief that it spoils children to give them their way; if you believe in repression, in discipline for discipline's sake, in unquestioning obedience in a home run chiefly for adults, then the suggestion about giving a child his way whenever possible must seem like rankest anarchy, like utterly spoiling him.

To give a child his way doesn't mean indulging him in every caprice, to his own detriment and the discomfort of other people. It means letting him do everything he wants to do, letting him have everything he wants to have within reason, and being sure that many things come within reason.

Say yes to him whenever possible and no as seldom as you can. Avoid "don't" both in words and action. Instead, divert the energy and substitute something to fill the need of the moment.

Fuller details will be found in our booklet "Sidelights on Stubbornness." Send a stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

All Officers Re-elected by Zoological Society

The Chicago Zoölogical society re-elected John T. McCutcheon president yesterday at its annual meeting, held in the Palmer House. Reëlected also were: John T. Pirie, John P. Kellogg, and John Wentworth, vice presidents; Graham Aldis, secretary, and Solomon A. Smith, treasurer. Francis E. Manierre was named to the executive committee to take the place of the late James Simpson. A total attendance of 1,590,861 at the zoo in Brookfield was reported for 1939; free admittance was extended to 1,440,480.

Family Ties in the Way of Trip to Altar

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I am a man of 24 and I am in love with a woman two years my senior who is divorced and the mother of a six year old son.

"Now, I don't want to be unfair to the girl. I want to make a decision before I have wasted too much of her time, and the longer I wait the harder it will be for either of us to break off. She has been sincere with me, telling me her circumstances almost immediately upon meeting me. Her frankness is one thing I admire about her.

"But my problem is my family. If this romance should materialize into a marriage I don't know how they would receive it. I don't want to hurt their feelings, either, because they've always been good to me and very dear to me. I would not want to marry a girl who wouldn't be treated as well as I am by my family, and I wouldn't want to cause a break off with my family because of a marriage. I do think that this girl and I are well suited to each other despite circumstances and her being two years my senior which, in my opinion, is nothing at all.

BEWILDERED."

No, the age difference is of no concern, Bewildered. But we're thinking it is about time for you to begin alienating yourself from your beloved family in the interest of marriage. Unless a man is the sole support of a widowed mother with other children to look after, around 24, 25, 26 a young man should be building for his own home. And he has to face that separation from his blood kin. The longer he puts it off, granted he has your family complex, the harder it is going to be. You don't want to develop into one of those funny old bachelors who find family sufficient unto comfort.

We cannot see that you have much of a problem in the particular girl. Any girl probably would produce the same qualms in you when you think of breaking the news to mother. Isn't it true? If the feeling is as strong on the family side, any girl would no doubt be resented, until your marriage to her occurred and they found they could do nothing about it.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

When declarer begins to play a hand there are 26 known and 26 unknown cards. If this were all he had to go by, each deal would be played according to mathematical chances, a frail reed on which to lean. But the expert brings to his aid deductions from bidding and from the fall of cards, highly reminiscent of the methods of the immortal Sherlock Holmes. In today's hand such deductions proved to declarer that a normal finesse would not win and induced him to take a backward finesse.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Pass	Pass	1 spade
Pass	2 spades	Pass	3 spades
Pass	4 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

The North-South bidding in this deal offers an excellent illustration of how two experts approach and reach a game contract after the bidding has been opened by an adversary. The difference between this sort of bidding and the hit-or-miss methods to be found at many bridge tables is that this partnership was in a position to stop safely at any point if the information progressively gathered was not encouraging. Obviously, the same result would have been attained if North had "stuck his neck out" and made a weak take-out double of one heart. But, doing so, he might easily have found East with the cards actually held by South, and what would have happened to him would have been plenty!

It will be observed that even after South reopened the bidding with one spade, North remained cautious and gave only a single raise. His reason for this was sound: He knew that South might have based his reopening bid on the expectation of finding considerable strength in the North hand.

West opened the king of hearts and continued with the jack. On the third round his ace was trumped by declarer. The king of spades was led, East winning with the ace and returning a club. Dummy won with the jack and two rounds of trumps were drawn, followed by two more rounds of clubs.

Having already lost three tricks, declarer had to avoid losing a diamond trick. Mathematical chances favored the normal finesse, but South knew that East was too good a player to have passed an opening one bid with a queen as well as an ace [spades], which had already shown up. The mathematician would next consider dropping the queen on the first or second round of the suit, but South knew that this would not work. East had followed to three rounds of each suit and could not have started with more than four diamonds. Consequently, West must have started with at least three diamonds.

The only hope was that East had the ten of diamonds. Declarer led the jack. West covered with the queen and dummy won with the ace. A small diamond was returned and South finessed, the eight spot winning the trick. Intelligent card reading and a backward finesse enabled declarer to make his contract.

M. Haddon MacLean Makes Gift of $75,000 to Chicago Y. M. C. A.

A gift of $75,000 to the Chicago Young Men's Christian association in memory of John MacLean, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Haddon MacLean, was announced last night at the 82d annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A. at the Stevens hotel. Mr. MacLean is vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank and trustee of the Y. M. C. A. John MacLean died last April.

Jeffrey R. Short.

William J. Parker, retired general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., made the announcement. While the gift was unrestricted, he stated that the board of managers will build a new camp for under privileged boys.

Jeffrey R. Short, president of the J. R. Short Milling company, was elected president of the association to succeed Newton C. Farr. Other officers elected to new offices include James F. Oates, H. F. Wuehrmann, and Albert D. Farwell.

The Housewife

Every hostess, at some time or other, experiences a period of mental doldrums, a time when wrack her brain as she may she has no new ideas about table decorations. That's the day she should get some fresh notes from outside.

One excellent way to do this is to visit the long aisle of tables now being shown at a Chicago store. The décor of each was inspired by a recent popular novel. An amusing cabin and little pioneer figures are the centerpiece in the table called "Drums Along the Mohawk."

Movie Stars Sell Cigarets at Empire War Relief Party

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 18 [Special].—Filmland was retelling today the thrills of last night's Franco-British war relief dinner dance at the Cocoanut Grove. The party attracted one of the largest gatherings of film celebrities of the season and brought out the British and French colony to the last member.

Probably no prettier array of cigaret girls was ever seen than that of the group of actresses who volunteered. The ranks included Myrna Loy, Claudette Colbert, Madeleine Carroll, Ann Sheridan, Elaine Shepard, Wendy Barrie, Joan Fontaine, Olympe Bradna, Maureen O'Sullivan, Ida Lupino and Frances Robinson.

In charge of the event was a committee composed of Alan Mowbray, president of the British war relief association of Southern California; George Fusenot, president of French war relief, Inc.; Charles Boyer, Ronald Colman and F. Stuart Roussel.

DON JUAN
the lipstick that stays on

Lovely to look at—delightful to kiss—

Frankly, ladies, that's just what Don Juan lipstick does for your lips. It's "The lipstick that stays on." And the reason? Because Don Juan's secret formula eliminates the constant need of retouching. Eat, drink, smoke, or swim—yes even kiss — Don Juan won't come off 'til you take it off. It does not dry or chap your lips. It's transparent, too — giving you that glamorous, radiant, yet natural look. You can choose from 12 of the season's most stylish shades, including two of cyclamen. And only $1.00. Refills are 60c.

MRS. COMISKEY FIGHTS MOVE TO SELL SOX

RANGERS WHIP CANADIENS, 1-0, TO TIE FOR LEAD

Get Only Goal Near End of Game.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 18 (AP).—A goal by Mac Colville less than three minutes before the game ended gave the New York Rangers a 1 to 0 victory tonight over the Montreal Canadiens and sent the Rangers into a first place tie in the National Hockey league with the idle Boston Bruins.

The goal came from a scramble in front of the Montreal net after the Rangers had been outplayed thru nearly a five minute stretch by the Canadiens, who have won only two games in their last 17 starts. The defeat dropped the Canadiens into a sixth place tie with the Detroit Red Wings who tied the Toronto Maple Leafs, 2 to 2, tonight.

Bill Summerhill and Bryan Hextall drew major penalties in the third period for a brief fist fight. Lineups:

WINGS AND LEAFS TIE

TORONTO, Jan. 18 (AP).—The Detroit Red Wings moved out of the National Hockey league cellar tonight when they gained a 2 to 2 overtime tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs. The tie placed the Wings one point up on the last place New York Americans. A crowd of 9,470 saw the Leafs rally in the third period after spotting the Wings two goals in the second. The tying goal was a freak one and came when the Wings were shorthanded.

Five seconds before Cecil Dillon was due to return from the penalty box, Bingo Kampman shot from just inside the Detroit blue line. The puck struck the crossbar of the Detroit net and as Goalie Tiny Thompson fell to the ice, it dropped behind the goal line. The Leafs took the offensive in the overtime period but Goalie Thompson kept them from scoring by some fine defensive play.

EDERLE SAILS TO TAKE PUERTO RICO COACHING POST

New York, Jan. 18 (AP).—Gertrude Ederle, who swam the English channel in 1926 and who recently triumphed over paralysis, began a new phase of her career today. She sailed aboard the Puerto Rico liner Borinquen to become swimming instructress at the University of Puerto Rico.

Hailed as a heroine by all America when she returned from her successful channel swim, she stumbled in 1933 and fell down a stairway—to obscurity. Specialists said paralysis would prevent her from ever swimming again. Her family doctor alone dissented.

Last summer she performed daily at the New York World's Fair. She could swim and the specialists were wrong. Gradually her old strength and endurance returned. She is 33 years old.

HOCKEY FANS ARE HOTTEST WHEN IT'S REALLY COLD

That's Why Hawks Expect 16,000 Sunday Night.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The boys in the Blackhawk counting room figure that if Chicago sports fans aren't hockey minded Sunday night they probably never will be again. On this basis a crowd of 16,000 is expected in Chicago Stadium for the match between the Hawks and the New York Americans.

Crowd psychologists in hockey ticket booths welcome cold weather so long as it is crisp cold and not that sloshy stuff that makes transportation hazardous. Last Sunday night the blustery weather was blamed for the fact the Hawks and Rangers did not set a new attendance record. But the lads who get music out of turnstiles rate these snappy temperatures we're having as swell hockey weather, even tho the Hawks will have to freeze their playing surface with ammonia.

Match Itself Is Attractive.

The match itself has alluring qualities for the real hockey fans. The Hawks and Americans have played four games thus far, each winning two on their own ice. The Hawks have whipped Red Dutton's fellows in two 2 to 1 affairs, but in New York took a pair of severe plasterings, 4 to 0 and 4 to 2.

If the Hawks win Sunday night, their 26th game, it will be an even dozen victories, the same total the Hawks won last year in their full schedule of 48 games.

Manager Paul Thompson has been holding daily practices since the Hawks trimmed the Rangers, 2 to 1, last Sunday night and in yesterday's drill decided to shake up his lines so as to give seasoning to what was an all rookie line. Phil Hergesheimer, high scorer in the International-American league the last two seasons, hasn't been clicking in the big time. He was taken from the Bill Carse and George Allen combination and replaced with Joffre Desilets. This resulted in the formation of another veteran-rookie line, composed of Cully Dahlstrom, Ab Demarco, and Hergesheimer.

Hawks Will Be Busy.

The Hawks have had a rather leisurely schedule so far this season, excepting one busy span on the road, but from now on in they will have to play their remaining 23 games in 65 nights. Historians say this is the most strenuous last-half schedule the Hawks have had in the 14 years of the team's existence.

President Bill Tobin wired from Edmonton, Alta., yesterday morning just as the thermometer hit 30 degrees below zero in that rosy city that he had signed Dave McKay, spectacular 210 pound defense man of the University of Alberta. McKay, however, will be left in Edmonton to complete his education instead of being fetched to tropical Chicago to thaw out.

CUBS LAND BASS IN CHATTANOOGA; HE'S A PITCHER

The Cubs' 1940 roster acquired another name yesterday with the conditional purchase of Pitcher Dick Bass from the Chattanooga team of the Southern association. Bass is a right hander and 27 years old. The deal is contingent on Bass' making good before May 15, on which date the Cubs either will complete the purchase or send him back to the Lookouts.

Bass, who will accompany the Cubs on their spring training trip, won 19 games and lost 10 last season, with an earned run average of 3.21.

CARDS, BROWNS DECIDE TO PLAY NIGHT BASEBALL

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 18 (AP).—If the lights can be installed in time, the Cardinals and Browns will play night baseball in Sportsman's park this summer. The Browns announced tonight the club now is willing to negotiate on a 50-50 basis with the Cardinals for the installation of lights.

Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, upon hearing the Browns' announcement, said: "I have been ready to put in the lights for several years. However, have not given it much thought lately, but if there is a chance to install the lighting system in time for night baseball for the coming season, I'm ready to go into it."

Provision for several lighting towers was made when a large scoreboard was built two years ago, and President Don Barnes of the Browns said he believed plans drawn up for lights several years ago still could be used.

The Browns' board of directors also voted for reëlection of all officers of the club. They are, besides Barnes, William O. De Witt, vice president and general manager; Howard V. Stephens, vice president; Anthony A. Buford, secretary, and Samuel McCluney, treasurer.

LAWSON LITTLE'S 139 WINS MEDAL IN COAST GOLF

Demaret's 141 Takes 2d Among Qualifiers.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 18 (AP).—Breaking par of 72 with a sensational 69, Lawson Little posted a 36 hole total of 139 today to win qualifying honors in the $5,000 San Francisco match play open golf tournament.

His round, clubbed out on a course made tough by chilly weather, was the lowest turned in during the two day qualifying tests which trimmed the field to 32 entries for match play rounds.

Ties Course Record.

The score equaled the competitive record for the Lake Merced course. Little joined Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., Ky Laffoon of Chicago, and Ben Coltrin, home professional, among those who have hit 69 under tournament fire here.

Winner of the British and national amateur crowns, in 1934 and 1935, but long since turned professional, Little reached peak form in leading a formidable field to the finish today—a feat that earned him $325.

The stocky Bretton Woods, N. H., golfer shot nines of 34—35, against the pair of par 36s. He had a 70 yesterday and shared the first round lead with two others.

Only two weeks ago he won the Los Angeles open, worth $1,250.

He Smacks 'Em Far.

Tremendous wood shots enabled Little to reach greens on the longer holes in two while most others were using three blows. He made birdies on the 517 yard first and the 495 yard third, both par 5s.

He missed a four foot putt for a birdie 2 on the 8th but came back with birdies on the 10th, 12th, and 13th. On the 10th his ball stopped three inches short of an eagle 3.

Jim Demaret of Houston, Tex., with 71—70—141, was second low qualifier, and Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y., finished third with a pair of 71s and a 142.

Ghezzi Loses Playoff.

Five players, Tom Lopresti, Sacramento; John Diflaure, Los Angeles; Jim Thomson, Chicopee, Mass.; Jimmy Hines, Great Neck, N. Y., and Vic Ghezzi, tied at 149 for the last four qualifying places. In the playoff Ghezzi took a six on the par 5 first hole and was eliminated.

Among the top flight players who failed to qualify was Ralph Guldahl, who had a 78 today and a medal score of 154. He was joined on the sidelines by E. J. Harrison, Little Rock, Ark., 150; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., 155; Denny Shute, Huntington, W. Va., 152; Laffoon, who failed to turn in his second round card, and Olin Dutra, Los Angeles, 151.

Ward, Wehrle Fail.

Dick Metz, Oak Park, Ill., 1939 San Francisco winner, and Byron Nelson, present national open titleholder, qualified at 144, the former with 71—73. Nelson reversed the figures.

Comiskey's Widow Tells Plans to Fight Bank on Sale of Sox

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

"I simply cannot believe the bank would sell the White Sox, especially before it has operated the club at all," Mrs. Grace Reidy Comiskey said yesterday during an interview in her apartment at 5555 Everett avenue. Acting as trustee for the estate of Mrs. Comiskey's late husband, J. Louis Comiskey, the First National bank earlier in the day had petitioned Probate Judge John F. O'Connell for an order to sell the baseball holdings.

"Both my husband and his father, Charles A. Comiskey, who started the club in 1900, had planned for the team to be passed on to my son, Charles II.," Mrs. Comiskey went on. "My father-in-law formed it, he often told me, as a monument to his grandson, and it was his greatest wish that he some day would become president of it. And certainly Lou, my husband, thought of nothing else."

Son Is 14 Years Old.

Charles II. is 14 years old, an eighth grade student at St. Thomas the Apostle grammar school. He has been appearing on the practice field at the Sox ball park in uniform since he was 2 years old, and for several years has worked out with the regular players.

Under the terms of his father's will the bank was to have operated the club until Charles attained the age of 21 years, provided, the will added, "the stock has not been sold during the interval." Comiskey also expressed the wish that the club remain a family holding until the boy reached the age of 35 years.

"The boy knows nothing but baseball," his mother said. "He plans his whole life around it, and has never known anything else. He couldn't believe the story we read in the papers this morning. It was the first we had heard of it, you know."

Widow Is a Baseball Fan.

There are also two Comiskey daughters, Gracie Lou, 18, a senior at St. Xavier's High school, and her sister, Dorothy, 23, treasurer of the White Sox club. Mrs. Comiskey said they were both "astonished and crushed by the prospect of the sale."

Mrs. Comiskey is an ardent baseball fan. For 27 years, since she married into the family, she has rarely missed a Sox game. She was the confidante of her father-in-law, who discussed crowds, players, trades, and contracts with her daily when he was active in the club.

"Now that the bank has taken it over," she said with a trace of resentment, "I know nothing about it at all. I don't know what players have signed for next year, and haven't yet received an accounting for last year. We are looking forward to this season. The improvements at the park last summer were costly, but they brought crowds and, I think, profits. This should be the beginning of a profitable era for us, instead of the end of the club.

Resents Bank's Action.

"One thing is obvious," she added, "a bank doesn't know or want to know how to run a ball club. Of course, I couldn't run a bank—but I know baseball. I can't understand what good a trustee is when he attempts to liquidate the trust within a year. Of course, I will fight its sale!"

Harry Grabiner, long associated with the White Sox, is secretary of the club. No president has been appointed since the death of Comiskey, altho his widow, thru her attorney, Thomas J. Sheehan, has sought the appointment for herself.

Sheehan indicated yesterday that the Comiskey children as well as Mrs. Comiskey would contest the sale of the property. "Anybody who attempts to buy it," he said, "will buy a law suit."

CONN-LESNEVICH BOUT REPLACES BAER-GALENTO

New York, Jan. 18 [Special].—Promoter Mike Jacobs, informed that Tony Galento could not be ready to meet Max Baer in Miami on Feb. 22, today announced he would pair Billy Conn and Gus Lesnevich of New Jersey in a return light heavyweight championship bout in the Orange bowl there on that date. The winner will meet the victor of the Feb. 2 Fred Apostoli-Melio Bettina return contest in Detroit late in March.

The President's infantile paralysis fund will receive 25 per cent of the profits of the Miami bout, which will be backed by prominent sportsmen and citizens of the southern resort.

Earlier today Mike offered the date to Joe Jacobs, Galento's manager, but he had to decline. He explained Galento had been out of training since last September and would require at least two months to get in shape. Mike thereupon threatened to abandon the heavyweight puzzle altogether, claiming he had become fed up with the inroads the controversy has made on the ballyhoo for next Wednesday night's Armstrong-Montanez welterweight title clash.

It was also learned Jacobs will present another fight in Detroit the first week in March, ahead of the Red Burman-Bob Pastor contest scheduled in the Olympia there March 14.

BANK CONSIDERS BASEBALL CLUB TOO HAZARDOUS

Estate Needs Funds to Pay Taxes.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Bids on the White Sox baseball club, a Comiskey family holding since the birth of the American league, will be accepted when, and if, the Probate court of Cook county grants permission for the sale.

The first step toward a possible change in ownership was taken yesterday when the First National bank, trustee of the estate of the late J. Louis Comiskey, petitioned Probate Judge John F. O'Connell for authority to proceed with the sale, in its entirety, of the baseball club stock.

On a plea for a continuance from Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan, representing Mrs. Grace Comiskey, and the children, Dorothy, Charles, and Gracie Lou, all heirs, the court set Feb. 29 for a hearing. Sale of the club is opposed by the widow, half owner of the club under the terms of the J. Louis Comiskey will.

Trustees Give Reasons.

In its petition of approximately one thousand words the trustees detailed their reasons for seeking an order for permission to dispose of the club. They pointed out the possible difficulties of meeting federal and state inheritance taxes. Also that the business of baseball is hazardous and unsuitable for a trust investment; that the heirs are dependent upon the income and that the best interests of the estate warrant disposal of the baseball property.

The petition, after pointing out that 7,450 shares of a total of 7,500 were included in the Comiskey estate continued, in part, as follows:

"... Said estate consists of real estate, real estate mortgages, and other securities, the major portion of which are slow and difficult to liquidate at their fair value, and, in the opinion of your petitioners, of a value insufficient to meet the federal estate tax, Illinois inheritance taxes, other charges, the debts, and costs of administration. . . .

"That altho the said American league baseball club of Chicago is a valuable property, the business which it operates is hazardous, the income therefrom is uncertain, and its stock is unsuitable as a trust investment.

Ask Permission to Sell.

"That your petitioner is informed and believes that the widow and children of said testator have no substantial independent means and are largely dependent upon the income to be derived from said trust; that the children of said deceased are Dorothy Comiskey, 23; Grace L., 18, and Charles A., 14.

"That it is the carefully considered opinion of your petitioner that under all the existing circumstances, the best interests of said estate and the widow and children of the deceased dictate an early sale of the stock of said baseball club, provided a reasonable price can be obtained therefor. . . .

"That your petitioner is advised by competent men experienced in professional baseball and is of the opinion and so represents that in order to dispose of the stock of said American league club to the best advantage, the estate's entire holding of said stock should be sold as an entirety, and that the present is a propitious time. . . ."

No Knockdown Price.

The petition by the trustees was based on Article 5 in the J. Louis Comiskey will. In this clause the deceased declared it his opinion and desire that the trustees should retain the club until his youngest surviving child reach the age of 35 years. But in the same clause Comiskey provided "if circumstances should arise which in the opinion of the trustees would render a sale prudent, then it shall have the power to sell. . . ."

"We have tried to set forth simply and clearly what is our best judgment in the matter," said John C. Meecham of the First National bank. He also pointed out that bids will be sought if the court consents to the sale but that, even if the necessary permission is given, the sale will not be consummated at a knockdown price.

Value Is Questionable.

The actual value of the club at the present time is questionable. Close to ten years ago the late George Getz made Charles A. Comiskey, then owner, a bona fide offer which was rejected not because of the price bid but because of the latter's wish to keep the club in the family.

The club finished with a surplus last season, even tho paying off in excess of $100,000 for the night game lighting plant ordered installed by J. Louis Comiskey.

There have been reports that the widow, Mrs. Grace Comiskey, might launch a court struggle to break the will either before the Feb. 29 hearing on yesterday's petition or shortly thereafter, if the Probate court consents to the sale.

SMILIN' JACK—MOULTING SEASON

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—PROPAGANDA PURPOSES ONLY

Bookie King Is Sentenced to 30 Day Term

New York, Jan. 18 [Special].—Frank Erickson, king of the bookies in the east, was sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse today by three justices of the Court of Special Sessions as his attorney charged he is a victim of persecution by Mayor Florello H. La Guardia.

Erickson's sentence was based on his conviction Dec. 28 on charges of second degree perjury in applying for a pistol permit. This action marked the fifth round of court actions which began last April when La Guardia called Erickson a tinhorn punk and ordered the wealthy bookie to leave town or be run out. Attorney Martin W. Littleton immediately obtained an order in Supreme court at Mineola to show cause why Erickson should not be freed on a certificate of reasonable doubt, pending appeal. The order will be argued tomorrow.

He's a Wealthy Vagrant.

The fourth round saw Erickson charged with being a vagrant, despite the fact that he has a 22 room stone home of Norman architecture in Forest Hills, N. Y., which is valued at $80,000. He also has produced in court securities valued at $150,000. A probation report today included a letter from the Rev. R. Thomas Blomquist, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, which is next door to the Erickson home. The letter said Erickson is "a good, cordial neighbor" and "a fine father." The report showed Ericson is 44 years old, has been married 22 years, has two children, and has lived in his present home ten years.

He was found guilty, however, under a section of the criminal code which defines a vagrant as one having no visible means of support. Magistrate Irving Ben Cooper placed him under $10,000 bond, warning Erickson he would be tossed in jail if he gambled within a year.

Erickson Wouldn't Leave.

"The defendant held, on justifiable grounds, that he would not be driven from the city," Littleton said today.

Littleton then told of the second round, in which William B. Herlands city commissioner of investigation, suggested vagrancy and perjury charges.

"This defendant," he said, "appeared before Commissioner Herlands and made all his records available to the commissioner. He appeared there and testified, believing the investigation was directed toward public officials. But when it became apparent the investigation was directed toward this defendant, he declined to appear further.

"Then in rapid succession followed various charges, including perjury in the first degree, perjury in the second degree, and disorderly conduct. Since then we have gone thru the gamut of proceedings."

Offers no Defense.

Littleton also recalled that Queens County Judge Thomas Downs was criticized by Mayor La Guardia for directing acquittal on charges of first degree perjury on the same subject matter as was before the court today. Other than his recital of prosecutions, Littleton offered no defense.

In announcing the verdict, the court criticised Littleton for his remarks and said its decision was arrived at with unbiased mind. Justice Frederick L. Hackenberg said he disagreed with his colleagues, holding for a more severe sentence. He also called Littleton's assertions "the greatest insult of my career."

FINNISH SKIERS GIVEN CHANCE IN NORGE TOURNEY

Fifteen Are Entered in Three Classes.

Fifteen leading Finnish skiers will participate in the Norge Ski club's tournament Sunday at Fox River Grove to aid the Finnish relief fund. The Norge club will donate 10 per cent of the gate to the fund.

In class A, Walter Bietila and his brother Roy are favored. Walter, member of the last American Olympic team, is rated along with Olaf Ulland and Thorger Tokle, Norwegian stars now in this country, who are given highest ranking in the field by veteran observers. Walter won first place and established a hill record in his only tournament endeavor so far this year. Roy has been training in Beloit, Wis., where most of the skiers entered in the Norge meet will get a warmup in the tournament scheduled there tomorrow.

Hiippakka Given Chance.

In class B, Ray Hiippakka of Ironwood, Mich., is another Finn who has a good chance. Bob and Leo Hein, also of Ironwood, will give Finland able representation in class C.

With 43 entries accepted by the selection committee, it is estimated that the final field will number about 80. Final decision on the remaining invitations will be made tonight.

Uliand and Lief Flak, the Seattle stars, will leave today for Beloit for practice. They will participate in the Beloit meet and then leave for Fox River Grove, where they will do some practice jumping Sunday morning in preparation for the Norge tournament.

Tokle Due Tonight.

Thorge Tokle, the leading eastern star, will arrive tonight and is expected to take in the Beloit event. Other entries follow:

Pro Football Player Freed of Girl's Charge

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 18 (AP).—Superior Judge A. A. Scott acquitted James R. Davis, professional football player, today of charges of criminally assaulting 16 year old Lucille Covelli in a Hollywood apartment. Judge Scott declared prosecution of him in the case was an outrage. Also acquitted was Morton Braden, 27, but his brother, Wilbur Braden, 25, was found guilty. Davis, half back on the Columbus, O., Bullies, testified he never laid hands on the girl or molested her in any way. The case was tried without a jury.

WELLS FIVE BEATS AUSTIN, 32 TO 27, FOR 4TH VICTORY

Lindblom Drops Kelly; Senn, Amundsen Win.

Wells defeated Austin, 32 to 27, for its fourth straight victory in the west section senior division of the Chicago Public High School Basketball league yesterday.

For Austin it was the first setback in three starts and dropped the team into a third place tie with Tuley and Crane. McKinley moved up to second place by turning back Medill, 54 to 25, at Medill.

Austin Leads at Half.

The Wells-Austin encounter, played before a capacity crowd on the Wells court, squared accounts for a preseason defeat which Austin dealt Wells in the finals of the University of Chicago holiday tournament. Austin led, 7 to 5, in the first quarter, and 16 to 15 at half time. Wells tallied 12 points to 8 for Austin in the third quarter to take and hold the lead.

Lindblom continued to dominate the central section senior race by beating Kelly, 30 to 28, at Kelly. Lindblom failed to score a basket during the first 13 minutes, but the half ended with the score tied at 12-all. It was Lindblom's fourth victory.

Sullivan, Roosevelt Lose.

In the north section junior race Sullivan and Roosevelt each suffered its first loss in three starts, the former losing to Senn, 41 to 27, and Roosevelt bowing to Amundsen, 29 to 28.

BALL PLAYERS' BID FOR DOLE IS TURNED DOWN

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 18 [Special].—Two former Milwaukee Brewer baseball players, Lindel Storti, now with Minneapolis in the American association, and William R. Brenzel, catcher with Hollywood in the Pacific Coast league, have tried to collect unemployment compensation, Secretary Louis M. Nahin, of the Milwaukee club said today. They applied for benefits on the ground that they were out of work after the baseball season closed. The state unemployment compensation department turned them down.

Storti filed his application a month ago claiming he had no employment during the winter months after he had been sold to Minneapolis. Brenzel, who came to Milwaukee from the Cleveland American league team in 1936, has been with Hollywood since 1938. He claimed benefit payments for the fall and winter months of 1937-'38.

NOVOTNY WINS TWO MATCHES IN MIAMI TOURNEY

Miami, Fla., Jan. 18 [Special].—Gus Novotny of Chicago won two matches in the Miami Biltmore Country club's gold championship tournament here today. After disposing of Charles Whitehead, New Jersey champion, 1 up, in the quarter-final round this morning, Novotny beat Bobby Servis of Dayton, O., co-medalist for the last two years and winner of the event in 1938, 2 up, in an afternoon semi-final.

Novotny was 3 down at the completion of the first nine without winning a single hole up to that point. Whitehead went out in 34 strokes, one under par, while Novotny needed 37 shots.

The Chicagoan toured the incoming half in 33 strokes, three under par. He won the 10th and added the 14th and 16th with 15-foot puts to square the match. On the 18th he left himself with a five-footer, which he nonchalantly tapped in to win the match.

N. U. Travels to Marquette Tomorrow

Northwestern university's basketball team will depart from Big Ten competition tomorrow night when it faces Marquette in Milwaukee in the first of three nonconference games on successive week-ends. The other games will be against Notre Dame and Butler. The next conference game will be with Michigan in Patten gymnasium, Feb. 10.

In Marquette the Wildcats face a team which hasn't lost a game in its home gymnasium in more than three years. The Hilltoppers defeated Northwestern, 36 to 26, last year. Altho the Wildcats lost to Purdue and Ohio State this year, they still have a perfect record against nonconference opponents, having defeated Carleton, Washington State, Pittsburgh, Princeton, and Notre Dame.

One of the biggest problems confronting Coach Dutch Lonborg this season has been developing a scoring punch among the forwards. In the four conference games played to date the forwards have scored only 46 points out of 150 made by the team.

Artillery Aims to Check Shamrocks' Scoring Thrusts

How to stop the scoring of Maj. Leslie R. Ireland, captain of the Chicago Shamrocks, will be the main problem for the 122d Field Artillery polo team tomorrow night in the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and Fifty-second street.

There will be good reason for bearing down upon Maj. Ireland, because the last time up, against the Meadowbrook club of Milwaukee, he drove in ten goals, thereby setting a new season record in the Metropolitan Polo league. As for the Shamrocks, they also hung up the season's team mark with a total of 17 goals.

The north side artillerymen are expected to be more formidable than the Milwaukee club. In Lieut. Carl Johnson, leader of the team, they possess one of the best defense men in the four to six goal division. Furthermore, Lieut. Johnson himself is a scoring threat at all times. In two appearances, he has rolled up ten goals for an average of five per game.

Lineups for the four contending teams on tomorrow evening's program are set. Riding with Maj. Ireland for the Shamrocks will be Lieut. Col. Claude K. Rinehart, veteran army poloist, and W. J. Schmidt. Lieut. Johnson will be supported by Lieut. Cliff Harrison, his team mate on the 122d trio for the past eight years, and Lieut. Frank Fritz.

Capt. Romeo E. Mura, who heads the Chicago Ramblers, will be supported by Capt. Robert Selway, the Army's only aviating poloist, and Gene Bauer, former University of Illinois captain, against the Detroit Rangers' combination of Volney Bayley, Jay K. Secor, and Jack Ivory, 15-year-old, 208-pound performer.

Bruins Hand Sheboygan a 45-37 Defeat

Sheboygan, Wis., Jan. 18 [Special].—Baskets by Wilbur Kautz during the final period gave the Chicago Bruins a 45 to 37 victory over the Sheboygan Redskins in a National Basketball league game here tonight. The Bruins held a 15 to 14 lead at the half, but Sheboygan rallied to get out in front, 23 to 20, early in the next period. Chicago then spurted to pile up a 10 point advantage, and during the final few minutes the Redskins could not get within threatening distance. Novak led the scoring for the Bruins with 12 points and Kautz was second with 11. The Bruins play at Oshkosh Saturday. Lineups:

6 Present Yanks Put on Teams' All Time Array

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 18 (AP).—Six of the greatest New York Yankees in history are present members of the team, says Scout Johnny Nee, who has spent 14 years hunting new stars for the world's baseball champions. Bill Dickey, Red Rolfe, Frankie Crosetti, Joe DiMaggio, Lefty Gomez and Red Ruffing—all performers with the 1939 record making team—get Nee's ranking above past Yankee greats at their positions.

"We've got more all around strength now than we ever had," said Nee. To round out his all star Yankee squad, Nee would put Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel in the outfield with DiMaggio; Tony Lazzeri on second base and balance his pitching staff with Waite Hoyt and Herb Pennock. He would have Lou Gehrig playing first base.

The veteran scout hesitated least in picking Dickey to catch for his mythical team. Lazzeri got Nee's call over young Joe Gordon because of his experience, but the scout thinks Gordon may be a better ball player than Tony in a year or two.

WEST PARK ICE SKATERS SETTLE TITLES TONIGHT

200 Expected to Race in Garfield Park.

The West Park division of the Chicago park district will hold an ice skating derby tonight on the Garfield park lagoon starting at 7:30. Eight events will be held for park skaters and four races are listed exclusively for members of the Illinois Skating association.

The parks participating will include Shedd, Altgeld, Dvorak, Stanford, Sheridan, Columbus, Douglas, Harrison, Franklin, Austin Town Hall, and Garfield. D. K. Penny, supervisor of the west division parks, will be referee, while Pete Miller and Sid Novak, president and secretary, respectively, of the Illinois Skating association, will be co-directors of events.

Title Races Tomorrow.

Tomorrow the entire Chicago park district will hold its city championship in Humboldt park at 2 p. m. More than 200 are expected to compete tonight and nearly 500 tomorrow. With the zero weather of the past few days the ice is expected to be in exceptionally fast condition and in the Tri-State championships in Elgin Sunday afternoon the ice surface is expected to provide one of the fastest courses of the season.

The caliber of stars who will take part in the Elgin tournament has led Director Merrill O. Calame to believe some national speed marks may tumble. Wisconsin will send a delegation of its speediest, including Maddy Horn of Beaver Dam, who now holds the majority of the records.

Shimek Leads Iowa Stars.

George Shimek leads the Iowa group and the 10,000 meter American champion is regarded as a serious threat against Vic Ronchetti, C. Y. O. star and defending men's tri-state champion.

"YOU BET YOUR LIFE I LIKE to save money. Who doesn't? But I like quality too—in anything I buy," says Hal Mann, Chicago, Ill. "Old Quaker is just as smooth and mellow and delicious as any high-priced whiskey I ever drank."

"I DON'T SEE HOW SUCH A fine whiskey can sell for such a low price," says C. Joseph Lynch, Salesman of Fall River, Mass.

It is for exactly this reason that famous Old Quaker—so rich and delicious that thousands prefer its taste to many higher-priced whiskies—actually sells at a price so remarkably low.

Thanks to our big volume sales, we are one of the world's largest distillers of fine straight whiskies today. Such huge operations make economies possible. These economies we pass along to our millions of customers, in the belief that our lower prices will mean still bigger sales for us, and still better whiskey for you. Sample Old Quaker yourself. ADVOCATE PLAN TO CO-ORDINATE MEDICAL WORK

Institute Report Attacks Present Confusion.

The Institute of Medicine of Chicago has taken the leadership, it was learned yesterday, in a proposal to integrate the work of the city's public and private medical services, and to draft a plan for their future development.

Adoption of such a plan would end the situation of confusion that now exists in medical and public health administration, according to a recent report to the institute by Dr. William F. Petersen, vice chairman of the institute's board of governors.

Urges Permanent Staff.

The report advocated a campaign for funds to hire and house a permanent staff, which would maintain contacts with political, financial, and medical groups, and would help to develop educational methods for use in medical institutions of the community.

"If it is the duty of the medical group to provide proper medical service to the community irrespective of the ability of the individual to pay," the report said, "then the responsibility for proper organization of this medical service rests on the medical community.

Guide for Future Program.

"We might at the very least present a comprehensive and workable plan of procedure and development for the guidance of the political groups that are, in the final analysis, responsible for the execution of any plan of public welfare."

The institute was founded 25 years ago to promote study and advancement of medicine and allied sciences. The late Dr. Frank Billings was the first chairman of the board of governors. Dr. Ludvig Hektoen is now chairman of the board, which includes among its members Drs. James B. Herrick, William Allen Pusey, Walter W. Hamburger, George W. Hall, Reuben M. Strong, Eric Oldberg, Andrew C. Ivy, William C. Danforth, Herman L. Kretschmer, Grant H. Laing, and George H. Coleman.

3 Families Forced to Flee $10,000 Fire in Flat Building

Three families, including two grandmothers and four of their grandchildren, were forced to flee last night when fire broke out in the three story flat building at 3851 Southport avenue. Mrs. Emma Kalbitz, 84 years old, was carried downstairs from the second floor by a neighbor, Mrs. Helen Pomerantz. Mrs. Emilie Carson, 73, was the other grandmother who escaped. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

6,800,000 Pounds of Oil Explodes at Soap Plant

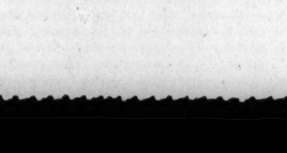
Hundreds of thousands of pounds of oil were destroyed last night by a tank explosion in the yards of the Lever Brothers Soap company, 1271 Indianapolis boulevard, Whiting. A switch engine fireman was slightly injured. According to witnesses, the blast occurred in a tank containing 6,800,000 pounds of oil. Parts of the tank damaged two other tanks, and another section fell upon a switch engine, injuring the fireman. His name was not learned. The cause of the explosion was not determined.

WOMAN, 75, FATALLY BURNED.

Mary Gutchow, 75 years old, 14311 Greenwood avenue, Dolton, died last night in St. Francis hospital, Blue Island, of burns suffered earlier when her dress caught fire from the furnace in her home.

Two Infants Die as Flames Destroy Home in Michigan

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Jan. 18 (AP).—Two infants died in flames which destroyed a factory worker's small home north of Utica today. The fire swept the one story frame home of Michael Morris, 35, and Thomas Morris, 6 months, and Patrick, 2½ years old, were burned to death in their beds. Two older children fled to safety. The mother, Mrs. Mae Morris, was at a nearby grocery store.



HELPS DEAF AND BLIND 50 YEARS; DIES A PAUPER

John H. Geary died yesterday in the county hospital. He was an old man—75—and he was deaf and blind. He lived alone. They say he'll be buried in the potter's field tomorrow afternoon.

Last night the Rev. O. C. Schroeder, 1648 East 85th street, a Lutheran minister who had known the man for years, told Geary's story.

He was born deaf in New York City in 1865. He learned to read lips and became a teacher in an institute for the deaf. He continued teaching after he came to Chicago in 1900. In 1915 he went to Cleveland to help organize the Cleveland Oral School for the Deaf, where he taught until he became blind in 1920.

Geary came back to Chicago and entered a home for the blind. In 1929 he began receiving a pension. With the money he rented quarters at 2443 South Whipple street. There he taught the blind and the deaf. They paid what they could afford to pay. On Dec. 14 Geary suffered a fractured hip in a fall. Fifty years of teaching were over.

WAUKEGAN FIRE WRECKS CHURCH AND TWO HOMES

Fire razed the old First Christian church at 320 Clayton street, Waukegan, late last night, and spread to two residences. Firemen fought the blaze with difficulty in the subzero weather.

The fire started in the basement of the church, a frame structure 50 years old, swept thru it rapidly, and then ignited the frame houses of Jake Nagode at 207 North Utica street and of Mrs. Anna Heyman, 314 Clayton street. The church loss was estimated at $25,000 and the damages to the houses at $5,000.

Fire Chief Adolph Francke and Police Chief William Blaylock said it was possible that the fire started from an overheated furnace in the church but that they would investigate the possibility that it was caused by Waukegan's firebug. He has started 14 fires since September. All of them occurred either on Thursdays or Sundays. He has been sought for weeks, without a clew to his identity.

DAUGHTER SAVES EX-PROSECUTOR, WIFE AND SELF

Ernest L. Duck, a former assistant United States district attorney, and his wife were saved from possible death last night by the presence of mind of their daughter, Valerie, 21 years old, who also saved her own life.

While they were in their home at 2702 Harrison street, gas fumes from the kitchen stove escaped and spread thru the house. Mr. and Mrs. Duck and their daughter lost consciousness.

However, Miss Duck, a third year student at the Chicago Teachers' college, recovered consciousness, realized what had occurred, and telephoned her fiancé, Norman Riddle, 2109 North Kostner avenue. He notified police and the fire department. Inhalator squad 7, under Capt. A. F. Herling, soon had the Ducks out of danger. The squad also revived the family's dog, Ted, 12 years old.

SEEKS DIVORCE FROM FORMER ALD. KONKOWSKI

Frank E. Konkowski, former alderman of the 26th ward, was sued for divorce yesterday by his wife, Mrs. Jule V. Konkowski, 30 years old, 550 Roscoe street. Konkowski and one of his political aids were convicted last July of conspiring to sell police jobs. They have appealed from sentences of 1 to 5 years in prison.

In her divorce bill, filed in Superior court by Attorney John R. Wall, Mrs. Konkowski charges the former alderman with desertion. They were married May 11, 1935, and separated Nov. 20, 1938. They have two children, Mary, 3 years old, and John, 1, whose custody is sought by Mrs. Konkowski.

Inhalator Saves Autoist Overcome in His Garage

Frank Malek, 24 years old, 1449 North California avenue, a millwright, was saved last night from carbon monoxide poisoning. He had been heating his car in his garage. His wife, Angeline, found him unconscious on the rear porch of their home and called police. Fire inhalator squad 6 revived him, then an ambulance of the Chicago ambulance board, equipped with an oxygen tent, took him to the county hospital.

LOCKHEED SETS NEW EARNINGS RECORD IN 1939

Soar 610 Pct. Over 1938 Level.

Lockheed Aircraft corporation yesterday reported its 1939 profits increased 610 per cent over the 1938 level, principally due to a spectacular spurt in sales to new records during the latter half of 1939. The year was the most profitable in the history of the corporation.

Robert E. Gross.

Robert E. Gross, president, said unaudited net earnings were in excess of $3,140,000 after provision for taxes and other charges. The earnings equaled approximately $4.05 a share and compared with 1938 profits of $442,111, or 67 cents a share. Earnings during the first six months of 1939 were $508,860.

Sales of the company, which is engaged primarily in the manufacture of military aircraft, more than tripled the 1938 total of $10,274,503 to reach $35,303,444.

Unfilled Orders 40 Millions.

The backlog of unfilled orders on Jan. 15, 1940, was $40,000,000, including orders from the United States army, "several foreign customers," and commercial airlines, Gross said.

Production during the final half of 1939 was the largest in the company's history, Gross said, exceeding $3,500,000 monthly. December operations alone netted about 56 cents a share, he said.

Nash-Kelvinator corporation reported net income of $22,998, or slightly less than 1 cent a common share, for the three months ended Dec. 31, the first quarter of its fiscal year. In the corresponding 1938 quarter the company showed a net loss of $1,570,702.

The automobile and refrigerator manufacturer reported that sales of Nash cars in the quarter numbered 17,827, against 12,815 in the last three months of 1938. No figures were given for the refrigerator division, but the report said the division "showed a seasonal loss as has been customary."

Borden Earnings Increased.

Net income of the Borden company, subsidiaries of which manufacture and sell dairy and other food products, was approximately $1.80 a share in 1939, Theodore G. Montague, president, estimated. In 1938 net earnings equaled $1.51 per share.

United States Pipe and Foundry company in a preliminary report placed 1939 net profit at $2,570,279, or $3.69 a common share, against $1,654,238 and $2.38 a share in 1938. The company manufactures cast iron pipe, special castings, and various types of machinery.

American Hide and Leather company's net profit for the six months ended Dec. 31, was $345,846, equal to 37 cents a common share, compared with $324,668, or 33 cents a share, in the final six months of 1938.

Mountain States Telephone & Telegraph company, unit of the American Telephone & Telegraph system, reported 1939 net income of $3,867,459, or $8.05 a share, against 1938 net of $3,265,061, or $6.79 a share.

COLD WEATHER FORCES PRICES OF EGGS HIGHER

Subzero weather, which traders believed might curtail production and marketing for 10 days, yesterday forced egg futures prices more than a cent a dozen higher on the Chicago Mercantile exchange.

January standards led the list upward with gains of 1.05 cent a dozen to 16.85 cents. October standards gained 0.1 cent. January firsts also rose a full cent at 19.75.

Butter futures were slow but firm. February deliveries rose 0.15 cent a pound to 29.15. March was 0.15 cent higher at 28.9 cents. January and November were unchanged.

Germans Unable to Make Enough Ersatz Coffee

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 [Special].—Some 700 German plants which produce ersatz, or substitute coffee, are unable to meet the public demand, even tho they are working three shifts daily, the department of commerce reported today. Ersatz coffee is made entirely of domestic materials, chiefly barley and rye, supplimented by chicory, figs, sugar beets, and other items. Before the war the consumption of this coffee was equal in volume to that of real coffee.

Illinois, Other States to Fight Rail Rate Cuts

Illinois and four other states soon will file a petition with the Interstate Commerce commission asking the commission to set aside a recent freight rate reduction order, it was announced yesterday. The states charge the cuts benefit southern states at the expense of northern industries.

Representatives of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and Wisconsin met at the offices of the Illinois commerce commission in Chicago and decided to take the action in an effort to obtain a reopening of the so-called southern governors' rate case.

John E. Cassidy, Illinois attorney general, will file the petition in behalf of the five states. He announced the appointment of Luther M. Walter, Chicago attorney, as special assistant attorney general in connection with the case. Walter acted for the northern states in the proceedings before the Interstate Commerce commission which resulted in an order on Nov. 30 giving the south a victory.

10 Products Are Affected.

The I. C. C. ordered reductions in railroad freight rates from southern manufacturing points into territory north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, effective March 1. These reductions affected 10 products, including stoves, plumbers' goods, pipe fittings, fire hydrants, and stone.

The northern states charged that the reductions gave the south an advantage over them in competition for northern markets. As revised, the rates on the 10 items would be about the same in the south as in the north. The northern states assert that, because wages are lower in the south, and because the denser northern freight traffic reduces handling costs in the north, the removal of the existing rate differentials will injure northern industry.

At present, in the case of the 10 commodities, a shipment which costs $1 a hundred pounds in the north would cost about $1.25 to $1.35 a hundred pounds in the south. In its Nov. 30 order, the I. C. C. said the difference in the rates on these commodities was not justified by any difference in costs of transportation.

North Challenges View.

The five northern states challenged this view, declaring that no evidence was presented on which the commission could base such an opinion. They agreed at yesterday's meeting to say in their petition that the testimony before the I. C. C. was defective and that new testimony should be taken.

It was said at Cassidy's office that if the I. C. C. refused to set aside its order and grant the relief requested, Cassidy would probably have no other recourse than to file suit in one of the United States district courts.

Representing Illinois at the meeting were First Assistant Attorney General Edwin T. Breen, Assistant Attorney General Jerome F. Dixon, Assistant Attorney General Harry R. Booth, F. B. McElroy, rate expert for the Illinois Commerce commission, and Walter. H. A. Hollopeter of the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce, represented Indiana, and A. O. Graves, rate expert for the Michigan public service commission, represented Michigan.

Ohio sent J. W. Herrold, rate expert for the state's public utilities commission. Wisconsin representatives were P. H. Porter, chief counsel for the public service commission of the state, and W. F. Ehmann, commission rate expert.

COURT ENDS LONG PROCEEDINGS TO REORGANIZE RKO

New York, Jan. 18 (AP).—Federal Judge William Bondy today directed the Irving Trust company, as trustee, to turn over to the reorganized Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation, all RKO assets in its possession. This brought to a close the reorganization proceedings under way since Jan. 27, 1933.

The court also directed other trustees of various RKO indentures to turn over to Irving Trust all collateral securing bonds issued under the indentures.

The new company will pay in full, in new securities, all claims allowed in the reorganization proceedings, as well as the final $50,000 installment due on the $6,000,000 issue of 6 per cent gold notes.

New securities of the new company will consist of 8,000,000 common shares and 130,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock. Unsecured creditors with allowed claims totaling $12,222,669 will receive 1,222,669 shares of the new common.

MISSOURI PACIFIC LINE BONDS GET FAST RIDE TO HIGHER PRICE LEVEL

New York, Jan. 18 (AP).—Buyers climbed aboard the Missouri Pacific railroad in today's bond market and gave securities of the bankrupt system the fastest ride they've had in years. Enthusiasm for "MOP" was generated by approval yesterday by the interstate commerce commission of the road's plan for reorganization, an action prerequisite to getting the carrier back on its own after having been under protection of the courts since July, 1933. The turnover in the 12 issues traded amounted to more than 10 per cent of all transactions and at the end gains ranged from ⅛ to 2¼ points.

Elsewhere trends were in doubt, altho choosy buying left its mark here and there with a plus sign of major fractions to a point or more. Among issues thus favored were International Telephone 5s up 1⅜ at 44⅛; Walworth 4s, up ⅝ at 66; American Telephone 3⅛s, up ½ at 108½; Uruguay 4s, up 3 at 49, and Columbia 6s, up 1 at 30.

United States government loans were all but neglected, final prices ranging from a decline of 2-32 to gains up to 6-32 of a point.

Banker Flays Federal Gold Buying Policy

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 [Special].—A partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. today told members of the monopoly committee that the government's gold policy contradicts its commodity price policy. The banker, R. C. Leffingwell of New York said the government should permit "a gently rising level of commodity prices." Its attempts to keep prices down are in opposition to the gold buying policy, he stated. The gold policy was inaugurated almost six years ago with the boosting of commodity prices one of its announced aims.

Russell C. Leffingwell

Leffingwell's statements were contained in a pamphlet he presented to members of the committee, suggesting that it be added to the record.

Taking a blow at the New Deal's "planned economy," he declared that he did not believe any "man or group of men chosen to govern us can be wise enough to manage our money and plan our economy for us."

Replaces India as Hoarder.

Leffingwell asserted this country has taken India's place as the "sink of precious metals" as a result of the gold policy.

"When we restrict our buying and lending abroad, when we try to sell everything and buy little except gold, and for that pay a fancy price, we impair the world's economy and the usefulness of gold itself as a metal," he said. Thru this policy, he said, "we make an immense contribution to world deflation, distress and disorder."

"Therefore," he advised, "the wise course is to allow commodity prices to rise somewhat and thus reduce the present gross disparity between the gold price and the commodity price level."

Business, Leffingwell declared, will be "ground between the millstones" if the government continues to raise taxes and labor costs while it holds prices down. "Rising costs and frozen prices will take profit out of the profit system," he said.

Would Curb Speculation.

The head of the nation's largest producer of copper expressed the opinion that prevention of copper speculation on the commodity exchanges would be beneficial for the industry.

"Speculation on the New York and London commodity exchanges," E. T. Stannard, president of Kennecott Copper corporation, told the committee, "has caused copper price fluctuations much wider than they would be if those exchanges did not exist."

Stannard said speculative activity was in part to blame for "buying waves" which he said were characteristic of the copper industry, making stabilization of production and employment difficult.

In two or three days, he testified, customers might buy as much as 150,000 tons of copper from the producing industry, an amount equal to three months' consumption.

Inflation Fears Contribute.

Fears of inflation also contribute to price fluctuations, the witness said, causing investors to "desire to put their money into something physical."

Francis H. Brownell, chairman of the board of the American Smelting and Refining company, disagreed with Stannard as to the desirability of the commodity exchanges.

His company, he said, as a concern smelting the ore mined by independent producers, used the commodity exchange to sell copper when a "lull" would otherwise take place.

"The interests of the producer and the custom smelter are slightly different," he told the committee, adding that if his company was "solely a producer I would also be opposed to the commodity market."

Texas to Resume 7 Day Oil Production Schedule

Austin, Tex., Jan. 18 [Special].—The Texas railroad commission today announced that effective Feb. 1 it will abandon Saturday and Sunday shutdowns in all fields except East Texas, resuming seven day production. Production schedules will not be disturbed in the East Texas field pending the outcome of suits challenging the legality of control measures.

SUBZERO COLD PLAYS TRADE TRICKS; SOME LIKE 'EM, SOME DON'T

Yesterday's subzero weather played a few tricks on Chicago trade. Some business men liked it; some didn't. Here's why:

Coal sales rose as much as 50 per cent over the average for a winter day. Gas sales also increased sharply.

Power production increased 2 to 3 per cent, but most of the rise was due to the extra "juice" used by electric transportation vehicles. The trafic load—transportation systems' power consumption—was 15 per cent higher than normal.

Urban transportation systems had unusually heavy business at rush hours, but carried few passengers the rest of the day, as shoppers and moviegoers stayed by the fireside.

Conventions were well attended, but railroads rather than filling stations benefited because conventioneers came to town by train.

RISE IN LOADINGS FAILS TO REACH SEASONAL RATE

The Association of American Railroads yesterday reported that 667,713 cars of revenue freight were loaded in the week ended Jan. 13. Altho increases over the previous week were shown in loadings of all commodities, the net gain was less than seasonally expected.

The total represented an increase of 75,321 cars, or 12.7 per cent over the previous week, and 85,469 cars, or 14.7 per cent over the comparable week a year ago.

Loadings of various commodities and changes from the previous week and a year ago follow:

CANADIAN WAR LOAN GETS WIDE DISTRIBUTION

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 18 [Canadian Press].—Additional subscriptions to Canada's first war loan reported to the Bank of Canada today, indicated that when allotment of the $200,000,000 of 3¼ per cent bonds is finally complete, 50 per cent of the total will be in the hands of subscribers for $5,000 or less.

Finance Minister Ralston, when the loan was announced, expressed the hope the bonds could be distributed as widely as possible among Canadian people of small means and not concentrated in the hands of a few.

For this reason the books remain open for the benefit of small investors in distant points, altho the loan was 25 per cent oversubscribed Tuesday night, 36 hours after the bonds went on sale.

I-C National Bank Becomes National Bank of Hyde Park

The name of the I-C National bank of Chicago yesterday was changed to the National Bank of Hyde Park in Chicago, P. R. Wilkinson, president, announced. He said the reason for the change was to identify the bank more closely with the district it serves. The bank moved at the start of the year to larger quarters at 1525 East 53d street.

Shoe Production Reaches Highest Level on Record

Production of shoes reached a new peak during 1939, the Tanners' Council of America reported yesterday. United States production was placed at 419,500,000 pairs, against 390,746,000 in 1938 and 415,000,000, the previous record, in 1936. December output was estimated at 29,500,000 pairs, compared with 29,988,000 in December, 1938.

Mexico Purchases Tanker to Relieve Ship Shortage

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 18 (AP).—Purchase of one Norwegian tanker and negotiations to acquire another to help relieve Mexico's shipping shortage were disclosed today. The Mexican Petroleum agency recently bought a tanker, now called the Cerro Azul, and is negotiating for another.

Treasury Head Explains Visit to Plane Plant

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau explained today that his visit to an airplane factory in Baltimore this week was merely for the purpose of seeing a "modern, up to date factory."

He refused to answer questions implying that he was checking on available facilities for filling military orders for the United States and foreign governments. As the treasury houses the government's procurement offices, Morgenthau is responsible for the availability of government supplies, whether military or civilian.

The secretary was asked whether his visit to the Glenn L. Martin aircraft plant at Baltimore had any connection with the procurement of planes by foreign governments. The British and French have been represented as wanting 8,000 or more military planes as soon as possible.

Will Visit Other Plants.

"I can't answer that one," Morgenthau replied. Asserting he was interested in "modern, up to date factories," he said he will visit others, not necessarily airplane factories, within the next few months.

Neither would he discuss a conference yesterday at the White House, attended by Morgenthau and army and navy officials. It was understood, however, that the conference dealt with army and navy procurements to date and the matter of what depreciation charges are to be allowed manufacturers. This is an item which enters importantly into the cost of planes.

Morgenthau explained that as secretary of the treasury he must be interested in factories from the standpoint of internal revenue, obsolescence, and related matters.

Favors Loan to Finland.

He said that he would "go along" with President Roosevelt on the matter of a loan to Finland. The President has asked that congress take steps for granting a loan, altho he asked no specific amount.

Morgenthau said that he was opposed "as a matter of policy" to using a government loan to take over holdings of British-held American securities to insure orderly liquidation. Such a proposal had been suggested by various officials last spring. The British had inquired whether the government held such powers, according to the mapping of war preparations disclosed recently. At that time the British had been informed that it would not be feasible from the standpoint of policy.

USE OF IRON ORE LARGEST SINCE AUGUST OF 1929

Cleveland, O., Jan. 18 (AP).—Consumption of Lake Superior iron ore in December totaled 5,538,374 tons, the Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported today. This was the largest amount for any month since the 5,779,000 tons of August, 1929.

Consumption for 1939 was 44,361,289 tons, compared with 25,703,050 in 1938. Ore on hand at furnaces and Lake Erie docks Jan. 1 was 37,377,910 tons compared with 34,578,849 a year ago.

PLAN SPENDING 605 MILLIONS IN UTILITIES FIELD

Expansion of Plants at 10 Year Peak.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Indications that the long stagnant stream of capital investment in productive facilities is stirring with new life have appeared in the latest estimates of the amount of money which the electric utility companies in the nation will spend for expansion and improvements in 1940.

These show that the industry has budgeted about $605,000,000 for generating stations, transmission equipment and miscellaneous items this year, the largest annual program since 1930. In the last three years the outlay has averaged about $450,000,000,000 a year, compared with $900,000,000 in 1930.

Vital for Lasting Recovery.

Business leaders and analysts have said that no lasting recovery from the depression can be expected until the various industries begin to increase capital expenditures for enlargement and improvement of facilities for production.

The three year program announced by the Commonwealth Edison company early in 1939 was one of the forerunners of the nation-wide movement toward expansion. Edison, under a policy developed by James Simpson, the Chicago company's chairman until his death last November, got the jump on the rest of the industry by practically completing its arrangements for the next few years before the European war began.

War Hastens Expansion.

When the war started, the utility industry, acting in part at the behest of the war department's national defense planners, rushed to take steps toward expanding facilities to provide for any possible emergency requirements.

The result was the $605,000,000 program for 1940. This estimate is made by the Electrical World, trade magazine.

The increase in utility spending programs quickened after settlement of the six year fight between the Tennessee Valley authority and Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern corporation. The TVA last August concluded a deal by which $78,425,095 was paid to Willkie's company by the TVA and various municipalities for the Tennessee properties of a Commonwealth and Southern subsidiary.

Government Competition Feared.

Willkie and other utility leaders had declared that fear of government competition, especially thru the TVA, had discouraged expansion by private utility companies.

The three year expansion program announced for Commonwealth Edison called for expendture of about $75,000,000 in three years, including $25,000,000 to $28,000,000 for 1939.

One of the projects begun last year and scheduled for completion in 1940 is a fourth generating unit of 105,000 kilowatts capacity at Edison's Powerton station in South Pekin, Ill. In connection with this the company is building a 147 mile 220,000 volt transmission line to link Powerton with the Edison Crawford avenue station in Chicago.

Large Reserve Provided.

Commonwealth Edison's generating capacity before the expansion undertaking was 1,937,000 kilowatts. This gave a reserve of 31 per cent over last winter's peak load of 1,405,000 kilowatts. [A kilowatt is equal to about 1⅓ horse power].

The construction work in progress will provide within the next two years an additional 220,000 kilowatts of capacity. Completion of this work will make available a total capacity of 2,057,000 kilowatts. Based on last winter's peak load, the surplus of 652,000 kilowatts of capacity, or 46 per cent, should be adequate to provide the necessary reserve to meet not only normal growth but any extraordinary increase in power requirements, officials said yesterday.

The Chicago power pool, as represented by the Edison group of companies, is considered one of the largest and most efficient concentrations of electric power in the world.

February Estimated Oil Demand Above Year Ago

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 (AP).—The bureau of mines today estimated the February market demand for domestic crude oil at 102,340,000 barrels, or 3,529,000 daily. This, officials said, was 40,700 barrels, or 1 per cent, less than the estimated January demand and 7 per cent more than the actual demand for last February.

Develop Flour Reported Rich in Health Value

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 17 (AP).—The National Soft Wheat Millers' association was told today that a new white flour, fortified with vitamins and minerals to increase its health properties, probably would be placed on the market in 30 to 60 days.

Marketing of the product, said Dr. W. A. Strowd, executive secretary of the association, has received approval of the federal government and awaits only the indorsement of the medical profession and home economists who have been asked to study the formula.

Result of Long Study.

Dr. Strowd said the new flour was the result of more than 18 months' research by millers, medical men, and scientists. He quoted Dr. Russell Wilder of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., a member of the committee on foods of the American Medical association, as saying recent discoveries warranted the belief that manufacture of white flour, fortified with vitamins and minerals, would promote public health to an extent commensurate with that attained in the last generation in the field of sanitation.

The formula calls for addition of vitamins B-1 and B-2, nicotinic acid, calcium, phosphorous, and iron to the customary white flour.

Believes It Superior.

Dr. Strowd expressed belief the product would be superior to whole wheat flour in benefits and yet retain the lightness of white flour.

Delegates appointed a committee to determine whether the new product should be prepared under private brand names or under a common name adopted by the association.

FEARS OF CROP DAMAGE SPUR RISE IN GRAINS

Fears of serious damage to the coming grain crops as a result of the near record cold wave led to general buying of futures on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday.

Wheat closed at the top with gains of 1 to 1⅛ cents a bushel. Corn was firm on reports that Europe had bought 750,000 bushels of American grain and closed ⅛ cent higher. Rye gained 2 to 2¾ cents. Finland was said to be in the market for 400,000 bushels of Canadian rye and 5,600,000 pounds of rolled oats.

Because wheat fields in some sections are without snow protection traders expressed apprehension that the subzero temperatures will bring serious damage. Reports from Europe said severe damage has been caused in Belgium and possibly in the Balkan states.

The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation denied the government contemplated restoring the export subsidy on north Pacific coast wheat. Nothing was said, however, regarding a possible subsidy on exports of flour.

COTTON SUBSIDY IS USELESS, SAYS SENATOR GEORGE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 (AP).—Senator George [D., Ga.] told his colleagues today that the cotton export subsidy program of Secretary Wallace was a "wholly useless" expenditure of nearly $40,000,000. He said American cotton exports would "have increased anyway because of the war in Europe and low supplies of American cotton there."

"We well might have used this $40,000,000 for domestic benefits instead of giving it to foreigners to buy American cotton at less than the cost of production," he asserted.

The senate approved and sent to the house a bill by Senator Connally [D., Tex.] to prevent imports into this country of goods manufactured from cotton and other farm products exported under subsidy.

The agriculture department reported that sales of cotton and cotton products under its export subsidy program totaled 6,078,000 bales between last Aug. 1 and Jan. 15.

TRADE TREATY ACT IS OPPOSED BY DEMOCRAT

Disney Fights Power to Cut Excise Tax.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 (AP).—The first threat of Democratic opposition to the administration's reciprocal trade agreement program in the house ways and means committee arose today with an assertion by Representative Disney [D., Okla.] that he could not support an extension of the policy unless an amendment were adopted to eliminate the executive power to reduce excise taxes.

Rep. Wesley E. Disney.

Previously members had expressed belief that a pending resolution to extend the trade act for three years would be approved by a strictly partisan vote of 15 to 10. All Republican members are expected to oppose the act in its present form.

Disney, who indicated several other Democratic committee members might go along with him on the amendment, told the committee he wished to defend the administration's program, but that he couldn't unless "some protection is afforded to oil, coal, copper, and lumber."

Asks About Oil Imports.

The Oklahoman then fired question after question at Henry F. Grady, assistant secretary of state, relative to oil imports from Venezuela which recently concluded a trade agreement under which the United States reduced taxes on limited quantities of oil imports. It was brought out that this country imported 56,000,000 barrels of oil in 1939 and exported 198,000,000 barrels.

"What do we need with an import of 56 million barrels if we have an exportable 200 million barrels?" Disney asked.

The assistant secretary replied that a large part of the imports was used on road work and did not compete with domestic production.

Disney remarked that oil from Venezuela was controled by three companies—Standard Oil, Gulf, and Shell.

Grady expounded the state department's policy of keeping trade channels open, contending that it was of no moment "who owns the oil in Venezuela or the sugar in Cuba."

Differ on Price Situation.

Disney suggested that the three oil companies could fix the domestic price by restricting their imports and could raise the price abroad, but Grady insisted that the world price "is fixed by world demand."

Disney also asked whether, in the case of the Venezuelan agreement, any change could be made before the expiration date in 1942. Grady said changes could be made, for instance, in the event one party "takes action to defeat the purposes of the agreement," but not by a flat unilateral action. He said that an agreement would be valueless if either party could alter it at will.

Representative Gearhart [R., Cal.] raised the question of the effect of currency fluctuations on the agreements, asserting that the state department could have done something about the depreciation in foreign currencies "if it were not wedded to free trade."

Grady retorted that he had previously read a "long list of items on which the tariff was more than 50 per cent," and that there was "no basis to the inference the department advocated free trade."

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Jan. 18 (AP).—Selling in steels tripped up an easy going stock market today and leading issues, at the lowest level, dropped 1 to 2 points. Prices stiffened later, however, as the belief began to grow that perhaps the lengthy decline in shares since the start of the year may have partly discounted receding business and a lot of other handicaps.

Altho fractional losses predominated at the close there was an assortment of modest gainers. A selling flurry after midday lifted the volume somewhat, transfers totaling 605,420 shares against 473,970 the day before when the turnover was the smallest since Dec. 4.

Standard Brands was the liveliest issue, rising ½ at 7¾, a new 1939-'40 peak. Buying was attributed to talk of the company cutting operating costs and adding a number of products to its sales list.

Rails were unable to get ahead, but declines were kept to inconsequential amounts.

Prominent in the decline were Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Union Carbide, Cluett Peabody, du Pont, Westinghouse, and the common and preferred stocks of Standard Gas and Electric.

Breasting the trend with advances up to a point or more were Loft, American Tobacco "B," United States Rubber, American Telephone, and Johns-Manville.

The first membership sale in the exchange this year was made today at $59,000, a decrease of $1,000 from the preceding transaction. High price in 1939 was $70,000, the low $51,000.

PRODUCING JOBS, NOT SPENDING, DECLARED NEED

Head of General Foods Assails Federal Plans.

Clarence Francis, president of General Foods corporation, yesterday declared that the only cure for unemployment is to put men to work in "productive jobs." He explained that the spending of government money on projects which do not expand industrial output does not, in the long run, decrease unemployment. A new frontier lies in the direction of producing more goods for more people, Francis said.

Clarence Francis.

"Every government effort should be to stimulate and not to stifle industry," he told transportation men gathered at the Palmer House for the 33d annual meeting of the Traffic Club of Chicago.

Taxes Prevent Price Cuts.

Francis said that the government continues to urge industry to cut its prices and thus obtain larger volume sales and production. At the same time it increases taxes, and by doing so it prevents manufacturers from reducing their prices.

With regard to the government's spending, Francis asserted, "You don't increase productiveness by sharing what we already have in this world."

He emphasized the importance of solving the nation's unemployment problem quickly by citing estimates that 70 million people in the world today depend directly on armaments for a living. This figure includes an estimated 27 million men in the world's armies.

Any peace that is concluded will probably result in a reduction of armaments, he said, and thus throw many of these persons out of work, adding to the already large numbers of the unemployed. He said, however, that he saw "no signs of an early peace."

Opposes Government Policy.

Francis deplored the increasing governmental interference with business, and said he was "unalterably opposed" to government ownership of the railroads. He told the transportation executives that the railroads themselves could solve part of their problems by eliminating "red tape" in which the shippers become entangled.

In particular, he declared a need for a single authority and a single hearing on questions of freight rates. Last spring, he said, General Foods wished to obtain a special rate on certain products it shipped from one of its plants to another, where they underwent further processing.

There was only one direct rail line between the two plants, and the railroad agreed to the new rate schedule. Because the goods were not moving to market none of General Foods competitors was involved, Francis said.

Rates Not Yet Approved.

Nevertheless, so many objections have been raised by different "interested parties," one of which was a city which feared it would lose business to another city, and so many hearings have been held, that the rates have not yet been given final approval. Now the company is giving serious consideration to shipping the goods by truck and trailer, Francis said, adding that the cost would be lower than the proposed special rate.

One effective way for the railroads to halt government encroachment, he declared, would be for them to "stop running to the government for help."

Production of Soft Coal Is Far Above Year Ago

The National Coal association yesterday estimated bituminous coal production in the United States last week at approximately 10,240,000 net tons. A year ago production was 8,030,000 tons.

Business Bits

Directors of the Personal Loan and Savings bank yesterday elected two new officers, Calvin Fentress, president of the bank, announced after the annual board meeting. Miss Muriel M. Hanna was elected assistant secretary and Robert N. Vieracker was elected assistant cashier. Other officers were reëlected.

The annual mid winter conference and dinner of the Illinois Bankers association will be held Jan. 25 at the Palmer House. H. G. Weaver, director of customer research for the General Motors corporation, will speak.

Chester A. Creider, secretary of Butler Brothers, will address a meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' Costs association at the Hotel Sherman Jan. 22 on "The Human Relations Aspects of Organization Problems."

The Chicago Building Congress will hold its initial building industry banquet conference at the Palmer House, Feb. 13. The meeting will be an annual affair, Paul D. Angell, secretary, announced.

Paul C. Loeber, senior member of Paul C. Loeber & Co. has been elected to the board of directors of the Chicago Federal Savings and Loan association.

James E. O'Brien has been named sales manager for Chicago for Hiram Walker, Inc., Detroit. He replaces George L. Hart, now sales manager of Indiana and Kentucky.

ARGENTINA USES OLD EXCHANGE TRICK TO WIN PACT ADVANTAGE

[Copyright, 1940, by the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 18 [Special].—On the eve of the arrival of Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister, to negotiate bases for a new trade treaty, Argentina barred Brazilian cotton and textiles from the favorable rate of exchange under which those items have been imported.

These tactics are identical to those that accompanied the United States negotiations. On the afternoon before the Argentine and United States governments announced their plan to negotiate a trade treaty, Argentina issued an order putting restrictions on nearly everything the United States shipped to Argentina.

Cotton and textiles are the chief items of interest to Brazil. The exchange control office's circular prohibiting favorable exchange for Brazilian textiles leaves Great Britain a monopoly of Argentina's rich textile market. Japanese and Italian textiles are eliminated by exchange control edicts.

PATH REPORTED CLEAR FOR TRADE PACT WITH CHILE

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 18—(AP).—"All obstacles have been removed" in negotiations for a trade treaty with the United States, Cayetano Vigar, undersecretary of commerce, said tonight.

His announcement followed talks with Henry Allen and H. A. Fowler, United States department of commerce experts, who came here after a breakdown of negotiations with Argentina.

Simultaneously the ministry of national defense announced bids on two naval cruisers would be sought in the United States. The government sought bids in Europe last year.

An official of the air force, which recently blamed "faulty materials" for a series of accidents with Italian built planes, announced six or seven training planes would be purchased in the United States.

BANK CLEARINGS TOP LAST YEAR BY 4.1 PER CENT

New York, Jan. 18 (AP).—Bank clearings during the week ended Jan. 17 outstripped the comparable period a year earlier for the first time in three weeks, Dun & Bradstreet said today. The total for 22 cities was $5,806,298,000, or 4.1 per cent more than $5,575,422,000 a year ago. The aggregate was $208,779,000 ahead of the preceding week.

New York clearings amounted to $3,448,724,000, only 2-10 of 1 per cent down from $3,454,603,000 a year ago. Cleveland clearings gained 21.5 per cent, Pittsburgh 18.5, Buffalo 17.1, Seattle 15.2, Baltimore 14.7, Detroit 12.6, and Philadelphia and Minneapolis each 12 per cent.

Chicago volume increased 14.5 per cent to $345,004,000 from $301,400,000 a year ago.

SENATE PASSES ACT FOR FEDERAL MINE INSPECTION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 (AP).—The senate passed and sent to the house today a bill to require federal inspection of coal mines in an effort to reduce accidents. The measure went thru without a record vote after Senator Harrison [D., Miss.] had charged that John L. Lewis, C. I. O. leader, "had promised" that congress would enact the measure.

"John L. Lewis said he had promised to pass this legislation and that it's going to be passed," Harrison said. "I don't want to pass legislation that way."

Earlier Harrison said the "Guffey coal act," enacted under leadership of Senator Guffey [D., Pa.], had resulted in "nothing but fuss and feathers."

PROPOSE $6,300,000 ISSUE.

Tenders will be considered on Feb. 8 by officials of Erie county, N. Y., for an issue of $6,300,000 of home relief bonds.

FEDERAL BUREAU PREDICTS DROP IN INDUSTRIAL RATE

Prolonged or Severe Dip Termed Unlikely.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18 (AP).—The bureau of agricultural economics reported today that an industrial downturn was expected during the first half of 1940 but that it was not likely to be prolonged or severe.

Officials emphasized that commodity prices appeared to be "less vulnerable" than on some other occasions when the industrial situation was similar. They recalled that commodity prices had failed to respond to the 1938-'39 recovery in industrial activity and consumer income until the outbreak of war in Europe.

Danger of Relapse Minimized.

"Had the advance in general prices since August been superimposed upon a prolonged cumulative rise," the bureau's report said, "the danger of a substantial relapse might be serious."

The bureau said the domestic demand for farm products during the next few months might not be affected much by the downturn in industrial production which apparently began, it said, in the latter part of December.

War Cuts Farm Exports.

The agricultural bureau reported that the war had reduced total exports of American farm products below the normal amount. It said this situation was likely to continue thru much of this year, at least.

The bureau said the direct effects of the war on farm exports were not uniform. The principal products which were likely to be hurt, it said, were wheat, cotton, tobacco, and fruits. Those which may be helped include hog products, fats and oils, and evaporated milk.

STOCKHOLDERS' RIGHT.

I own some stock in a small Illinois company. I have been dissatisfied with the meager report it furnishes and would like to see its books. Also how could I obtain a list of its stockholders?—G. S.

Answer: The Illinois business corporation act gives shareholders the right to examine the books, ledgers, stockholders' lists and other records of companies incorporated in the state. This right is limited to stockholders who have owned stock six months or more or hold at least 5 per cent of the outstanding stock. The examination can be made by an agent and abstracts of the record may be taken, but this must be done "at any reasonable time for any proper purpose."

The right of stockholders to inspect their companies' books is upheld by most state laws. Some laws impose penalties upon corporate officers who refuse stockholders access to the records.

Complete annual reports of companies whose stocks are listed on national exchanges are required by the Securities and Exchange commission and can be obtained from the commission at a slight expense, or examined at the stock exchange.

GERMAN BOND.

I own some German government 5½s of '65. What does "unst" mean after the name of the bond in the New York bond table? What information do you have on this issue?—W. M.

Answer: The American issue of the German government 5½ per cent bonds due 1965 represents $91,305,000 of the entire 5½ per cent international loan made in 1930 and known as the Young loan. The bonds are a direct obligation of the German reich but are not secured by any specific liens.

Interest on the American issue was defaulted Dec. 1, 1934. Each $27.50 coupon due on that date was paid 1-6 in American currency and the remainder in reichsmarks which could be used in Germany with the permission of the Reichsbank for investment or travel in that country. The June 1, 1935, coupon was paid entirely in blocked reichsmarks which could be used only in Germany.

In 1935 the German government offered American holders of the bonds, if they were domiciled in the United States on Oct. 1, 1935, an interest readjustment plan. For each $27.50 coupon due Dec. 1, 1935, the reich would pay $20. This would reduce the interest from 5½ to 4 per cent.

Bonds presented for payment under the plan were stamped "U. S. A., domicile 1st October, 1935." The offer of debt service in American money expired in 1936. Stamped coupons since then and thru Dec. 1, 1939, have been paid under the plan at the reduced interest.

Holders who were not domiciled in the United States on the prescribed date or who did not accept the debt service offer may receive payment of their coupons in reichsmarks. Their bonds are unstamped and the "unst" in the bond table indicates that the coupons are not paid under the dollar debt service.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Salesmen.

Y-O-U-R O-W-N

B-U-S-I-N-E-S-S

Would you be interested in starting a business for yourself without 1 cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men are previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shoeworkers, mechanics, etc., and are now earning and receiving in percentage as much as $50 in a single day.

We are an old time nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that defy competition and for which there is a constantly increasing demand.

Now, here are the arrangements: You must be between 24 and 54, preferably married, honest, reliable, possess a neat appearance, and possess at least a grammar school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side and southern Cook county.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview and if selected will be trained at our expense in our methods which are successful.

There are no strings attached to the offer, as we even can pay rent, light, heat, telephone, and hire, consign your merchandise, and finance your account.

Apply Friday at 10:30 a. m. sharp. Ask for Mr. Leonard. Suite 400, Maryland building, 841 East 63d-street (1 block east of Cottage Grove).

AN OPPORTUNITY

We are expanding our operations and our progress calls for a number of new men, 25 years or over, of good character and adaptability. This is a permanent opportunity and with a good future with a financially strong well-established company.

Inasmuch as there is nothing similar to our electrical product we cannot get men experienced in our system of salesmork so we require ability to learn as well as diligence and responsibility. No cost of any kind. Liberal comm. and bonus.

If you are selected you will expect to start at once by attending our factory branch school.
